House Passes Chicago School Levy

INCOME PEGGED AT FIXED TOTAL FOR TWO YEARS

Debate on Bill Heard by Teachers.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—In a dramatic and stormy session the Illinois house today passed the final bill in the Chicago board of education's legislative program. More than 700 Chicago teachers arrived on a special train, marched to the statehouse and packed the galleries for the debate.

The bill passed was the so-called "pegged levy" measure, which will provide $8,454,533 more in revenues for the Chicago board than would be obtained under existing tax rates. The board members have asserted that budget making would be an impossible task and that the Chicago schools would be forced to close if the legislation is not obtained.

Horner Signs Other Bills.

Late in the day Gov. Horner signed the other six bills included in the Chicago program and since they were passed as emergency measures they will become effective immediately. Among the measures was the bill embodying Mayor Kelly's plan of pledging school property unused for school purposes in Chicago as additional collateral for a federal purchase of the 40 million dollar bond issue. Other legislation gave the school board power to exchange refunding bonds for tax warrants and bonds outstanding.

The roll call on the "pegged levy" bill seemed interminable, with many of the downstate representatives rising to explain their votes and to exhort members of the Chicago delegation to be on hand during the remainder of the third special session to vote for measures for the relief of other school districts.

But when the tally was finally completed there were 136 "ayes" and no dissenting votes. The bill was thus passed with the emergency clause, since only 102 votes are needed for this action, and was sent to the senate, where it was sent to second reading. It is expected to move to third reading in that body tomorrow and be passed next week.

Chicago Delegation Arrives.

Speaker Arthur Roe [Dem., Vandalia] called up the bill on third reading and put it to a vote just as the Chicago teachers began to file into the galleries. They had marched up the street four abreast from the station.

"There seems to be quite a gallery," said Speaker Roe. "Please remember that this is a legislative body. Let's not have any demonstration."

Representative Le Roy M. Green [Rep., Rockford] rose to his feet.

"The bill before the house at the present time," said Green, "has to do with Chicago. I've no objection to taking care of Chicago, but I'd like to see some of this downstate legislation passed."

He declared that a bill should be passed that would provide for a 12 million bond issue to take care of the arrearage in the state's common school fund and that $2,800,000 should be added to the fund for high school teachers. The fund, of which Chicago gets about a third, now amounts to $10,500,000 annually.

Brings Up Chicago Taxes.

"If Chicago would pay its back taxes we wouldn't be in this position," asserted Green. "There is grave danger that downstate will receive no support from Chicago in this emergency."

Representative Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur] then read a telegram sent by Mayor Kelly to each member of the Chicago delegation urging them to be present at the session yesterday to help out the downstate legislators with their school problems.

"That's a lot of bunk," retorted Green.

"It was the downstate members who were absent," asserted Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago].

"We'll get opposition from Chicago," said Green.

"Have you got your bills prepared?" asked Doyle.

"No, but I think the school bills should all move at once," replied Green.

"Well, get your bills ready first and then start talking," said Doyle.

"Make your speech when it's your

The coldest month since January of 1930 ended at midnight last night and March came in "like a lamb." According to Forecaster W. P. Day of the United States weather bureau, Chicago will get warmer weather today, within a minimum of about 26 degrees above zero in the early morning and a maximum of about 40 degrees in the afternoon.

The average mean temperature for February was 23 degrees above zero. The normal mean temperature for the month is 26.2 degrees, so that last month's temperature deficiency was 3.2 degrees. The maximum for the month was 56 degrees on the 14th and the coldest official temperature was 2 degrees below zero on the 9th.

The total precipitation for the month amounted to .52 of an inch, a deficiency of 1.47 inches from the normal of 2.09 inches.

New Empire in Far East Born; Crown Pi-yi

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

HSINKING [Changchun], Manchukuo, March 1 [Thursday].—A new empire was ceremonially created today in the ancient domain of the Manchus with the enthronement of young Henry Pu-yi, the last of his dynastic clan.

Clad in gorgeous ceremonial robes of silks in ancient pattern, he left the imperial palace at 8 a. m., beginning ceremonies which made him Emperor Kang Teh of the Japanese advised Manchurian empire, which henceforth will be known as "Ta Manchou Ti Kuo."

The emperor's wife, Yueh Hua, did not participate in the ceremonies, owing to delicate health, but the installation of her 28 year old imperial consort as ruler of the world's newest empire automatically raised her to the dignity of queenhood.

Greeted by 101 Guns.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the ceremonies had been completed and the booming of 101 guns proclaimed to the assembled multitudes the establishment of a new régime.

As an infant of less than 3 years Pu-yi was called from his toys to sit upon the gorgeous dragon throne of the Celestial empire at Peiping, only to be evicted from it three years later when China became a republic.

Today he becomes ruler of 30,000,000 people, under the military protection of Japan, with a salary and a civil list of $1,750,000 a year.

Ancient Mingles with Modern.

The young emperor himself chose the rituals, combining centuries old traditions of the Chou dynasty of China with modern practices in which American automobiles, American movie operators, Japanese airplanes, and broadcasts figured conspicuously.

The ceremony was in two portions. The first was at the newly constructed altar of heaven, far outside the city; the second at the royal palace.

Unbroken lines of soldiery, watchful lest an attempt be made upon Pu-yi's life, gave the capital an aspect of a besieged city. Besides the soldiers hardly a mortal was visible in the main streets. All houses were closely guarded. American newspaper correspondents, attired perforce in full dress with silk hats, and the women in décolleté evening gowns, resembled late homecomers from night clubs.

BANDITS GET PAY AS 40 SALESMEN HEAR PEP TALK

While 40 salesmen attended a pep talk made to them last night just before they were to be paid, five bandits invaded the general offices of the L. Fish Furniture company, 2225 Pershing road, and took a $1,500 pay roll fund which included the salesmen's salaries. The gunmen slugged a girl cashier and escaped without disturbing the sales talk, which was being made in another part of the building.

Miss Grace Nelson, 23 years old, 3236 Diversey parkway, the cashier, tried to reach for a telephone as the gunmen entered and one of them struck her over the eye with the butt of his revolver. Another employé, Miss Charlotte Moch, 5925 South Albany avenue, was ordered to hand over the pay roll. The bandits drove away in an automobile the license plates of which were covered with cloth.

LORD BROUGHAM IS DIVORCED BY VALERIE FRENCH

LONDON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Lady Brougham and Vaux, the former Miss Valerie French, granddaughter of the late field marshal and earl of Ypres, today was granted a divorce from Lord Brougham and Vaux because of his alleged misconduct. They were married in 1931 when both were but 21.

Answers were originally submitted by Lord Brougham and Vaux and the alleged co-respondent, but later they stated they were no longer continuing their defense.

The former Miss French visited the United States in 1929 when Henry Bradley Martin of New York, then her fiancé, was injured in an automobile wreck in Colorado. Their engagement later was broken.

MONSTER, 25 FT. LONG, IS WASHED ASHORE IN FRANCE

CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Scientists sought today to identify the body of a mysterious marine animal which was washed ashore on the Querqueville rocks near here and which bears a resemblance to published descriptions of the so-called Loch Ness monster in Scotland.

The Querqueville creature was described as being 25 feet long and 4½ feet in diameter, with a thin neck 3 feet long and a head like a camel. It was said to have two lateral swimming fins, one on the back, in addition to the tail. It was covered with white hair.

Those who saw the body said the animal must have given the appearance of a sea serpent while swimming.

WIFE OF PINCHOT JOINS ATTACK ON NRA AND CODES

Says It Surrenders to Steel Trust.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
(Picture on Back Page.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The NRA was accused today by one of its erstwhile staunchest advocates of having betrayed the workers of America.

This accusation, voiced by the wife of the governor of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, was but one of thousands which were hurled all day long on five fronts against the NRA.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, who had invited the storm of criticism by calling public meetings for any and all to present their complaints, himself participated in some of the discussions, and made replies to the charges, confessing some as true.

Attacked on Two Fronts.

Some speakers declared the NRA was but a tool in the hands of capitalists and monopolists, and was being used to raise living costs without raising the plight of workers. Others attacked the NRA as a center of bureocratic radicalism attempting to sovietize industry.

Many of those bringing complaints were of the class which Gen. Johnson has called "crack-pots;" others were serious minded citizens fearful for the future of their country.

At the close of this second day in which practically unrestrained criticism was received in five separate hearings Gen. Johnson showed no dismay over the deluge of condemnation. He said cheerfully that it was a good thing for people to get such things off their chests and much material that will prove of aid to him and his assistants had been obtained in the hearings.

Mrs. Pinchot's Criticism Unexpected.

The assault on the NRA by Mrs. Pinchot came without warning as she rose to testify at the hearing considering complaints on wages and hours provisions of the codes.

With her eyes firing her indignation, she declared that the government had been defeated by the "steel trust."

The attack by Mrs. Pinchot was declared the more significant because her governor-husband recently announced his candidacy for senator in the Republican primaries of Pennsylvania on a platform of support for the Roosevelt policies. Mrs. Pinchot herself has joined in strikes, marched in picket lines with workers, made many speeches against coal operators and steel companies.

Declaring she had been refused permission to speak in some cities she added defiantly that "the steel trust will not stop me as a governor's wife, but they do stop the small union organizations."

Calls It Challenge to U. S.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, sitting with the NRA officials at the hearing, took Mrs. Pinchot's part, and offered to go with her to demand that she be given hearings. He said it was time to find out if the "steel trust is greater than the U. S. government."

"That is the issue," Mrs. Pinchot exclaimed, and again McGrady blurted out:

"I claim that they challenge the government and the government ought to accept the challenge."

Mrs. Pinchot went on to say that when workers went to union organization meetings "in defiance of the companies' orders, their bosses came to check up on them and to intimidate them."

Tells of Protest to NRA.

Charging that the men who participated in the meetings had been "fired," Mrs. Pinchot told of telegraphing Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, in protest and of receiving a reply that she should submit affidavits.

Asserting that Gen. Johnson had promised the workers, in a speech before the American Federation of Labor convention last October, that they need not strike, that the NRA would protect their jobs and their rights to organize, Mrs. Pinchot declared that the NRA had betrayed the workers.

She charged that in the Weirton and Budd cases the labor board had refused to act when workers were fired, and with eyes snapping and dramatic gestures she attacked Gen. Johnson personally.

"I wonder if Johnson lies awake at night seeing the faces of the people thrown out of jobs and without resources, who relied on his promises, went ahead and organized—and lost their jobs," she said. "What the

House Defeats Federal Plant for Furniture

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The broad program of economic planning visioned by leaders of the "New Deal" today received a direct reversal at the hands of an aroused house of representatives.

By the decisive margin of 165 votes the house emphatically refused to indorse a project—personally sponsored by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt—for the construction and operation of a furniture factory in the coal fields of West Virginia.

The action of the house, following within a few hours after President Roosevelt announced his new program to replace the CWA with a series of similar projects, was regarded as a deliberate expression of congressional opposition to the long range objectives of the administration. Reflecting the attitude of the majority of congressmen was the burst of hearty applause which greeted a denunciation of the West Virginia project as "a plunge into state socialism."

Hear Roosevelt Asked Aid.

Mrs. Roosevelt's interest in the West Virginia scheme played an important part in the day's debate. Her name was frequently mentioned by supporters of the project and there were unconfirmed reports that Democratic Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] took the floor in its behalf only after the President requested him by telephone to do so.

In the cloakroom following the vote one representative was heard to ask a colleague: "Well, did you vote for Eleanor?"

The specific project involved today contemplated the construction of a furniture factory to be operated in conjunction with a government subsistence homestead development at Reedsville, W. Va. Idle coal miners would be given subsistence homesteads and furnished with part time employment in the factory, turning out equipment for federal postoffices throughout the country. The public works administration already has allotted $525,000 for building the factory, but the action of the house was regarded as a distinct mandate to the postoffice department not to spend the money.

Reverses Senate Action.

In refusing to indorse the administration scheme the house reversed the senate, which a fortnight ago approved the project by the narrow vote of 34 to 29. The 1934 treasury postoffice appropriation bill, which carries authorization for the postoffice to obtain supplies from the proposed government factory, now goes back to conference. There managers on the part of the house will insist that the decision of the lower body, registered today, shall prevail.

No less than 168 members of President Roosevelt's own party deserted him on the issue in the house vote, joining with 104 Republicans and three Farmer-Laborites to cast a total of 275 ballots against the West Virginia project. Voting for its approval were 110 representatives—106 of them Democrats, 2 Republicans, and 2 Farmer-Laborites.

Democrat Fights Project.

"The question here," said Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.], "is whether or not we're going to put the government further into business. We appropriated $15,000 to investigate federal competition with private enterprise and I'd like somebody to show me 15 cents' worth of good it's done to find out the government already is engaged in almost every conceivable kind of business."

Irish Uniform Bill Bans Shamrocks for St. Patrick

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Free State parliament was told today that a bill banning the wearing of blue shirts and other unofficial uniforms contains a clause giving police the power to forbid the wearing of shamrocks on St. Patrick's day. The minister of justice, however, said he had not told authorities to follow such a course, although "they had ample scope."

HER TEARS FLOW IN COURT AS SON ACCUSES POLICE

Weeping Cuts Short Trial Session.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Walker Wynekoop, eldest son of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, went to the witness stand at his mother's murder trial yesterday to help save her from imprisonment or execution. The mother wept, not for herself, but for him. She is scheduled to take the witness stand in her own defense today.

The woman accused of killing Rheta Wynekoop, wife of her other son, Earle, shed her first public tears in the case at a recess. Walker had spent an hour on the stand telling Judge Harry B. Miller and the jury of the indignities to which he claimed the police had subjected his mother before she signed the "confession" of an accidental killing which she has since repudiated.

Tells of the Questioning.

He had seen her enter the captain's office in the Fillmore police station at 10 p. m. last Nov. 23, two nights after discovery of the murder, Walker said. He had kept his eyes on the closed door for eight hours until she emerged, pale and exhausted, at 6 o'clock the next morning, to be taken to the Racine avenue police station for a rest before resumption of the questioning which ended when she "confessed" about 11 a. m. that day.

He had taken coffee and sandwiches to the door during the night and had been turned away with an oath, he said. He had seen one of Dr. Wynekoop's lawyers, Frank J. Tyrrell, beat the door with his fists in vain. He had heard Attorney Tyrrell telephone for a doctor to treat Dr. Wynekoop's ailing heart, and had seen the doctor also turned away, Walker testified.

4 O'Clock in the Morning.

Then, toward 4 o'clock in the morning, he said, he saw a police sergeant, who might or might not have been intoxicated, come out of the room to be surrounded by reporters and curious policemen.

"'We haven't got a confession from the old —— yet, but she'll break soon,'" he quoted the police sergeant as saying.

The air of Judge Miller's courtroom, packed to the alles with murder trial fans, grew fetid as Walker Wynekoop told his story. Dr. Alice fanned her pallid face with a shaking hand. Then, at 3:15, a recess was declared. The jurors left their box and the woman they were trying sat limp in her chair.

Minister Pats Her Hand.

The Rev. John Henry Hopkins of the Episcopal church, a faithful friend, who has volunteered to be her character witness, approached to pat her hand. Dr. Alice's thin lips began to quiver. The minister asked her how she felt.

"O, it's been terrible," she sobbed. "I never realized till now what a terrible night poor Walker had. How he stood it is more than I can understand."

Her hazel eyes became suffused and the lids turned red. Photographers formed a phalanx before her chair to get the picture. A bailiff motioned the minister away and Dr. Alice dropped her veil, facing the cameras with a mouth grown firm.

Recess Becomes Adjournment.

Five minutes later she lifted the veil and was her composed self again. Defense Attorney W. W. Smith, who had been chatting in the judge's chambers with his adversary, Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty, emerged and observed traces of his client's tears.

There was another conference in chambers, at which judge and prosecutor agreed to make the recess an adjournment to permit the defendant to return to jail and rest for her great ordeal. Some time today, Mr. Smith said, Dr. Alice will take the stand in defense of her reputation, her liberty, and perhaps her life. The jury has been qualified to inflict the death penalty.

Seven Witnesses Testify.

How flimsy that defense would seem without her own expected denial of the crime was indicated by the testimony of her first seven witnesses, four of them relatives. Except for Walker's story, the burden of the testimony was merely that Dr. Alice had always shown affection for Rheta and was so situated financially that she had no dire need for the $12,000 insurance she had placed on Rheta a month before the murder.

Into Walker's testimony, as guided by Attorney Smith, there crept a subtle suggestion that Earle might have killed Rheta.

Earle once essayed a "confession" and a reënactment of the killing, but his effort to save his mother was destroyed by the testimony of a companion that he was miles from the scene at the time of Rheta's death. But the jury, so far as the evidence is concerned, will know nothing of this unless Earle takes the stand—a move the defense does not expect to make.

Earle was a ne'er-do-well, unhappy with Rheta, philandering with other girls, unable to find work, and content to have his mother support himself and Rheta, according to Walker's story. A stalwart young man, with features like his mother, Walker identified himself as a label manufacturer, 30 years old, with a plant at 300 West Austin avenue and a wife and three children in Glencoe.

Walker Discusses Earle.

He was questioned as follows by Attorney Smith:

Q.—How old is Earle? A.—Twenty-eight years old.

Q.—What was Earle's business? A.—Student, if you could call that a business. He had taken up medicine at Northwestern, then dentistry, but never got a diploma for either. Then he went into aviation.

Q.—He got a pilot's license? A.—Yes, but he never owned a plane.

Q.—Had Earle ever found gainful employment at any time prior to 1933? A.—No, sir. He worked the summer of 1933 at the World's Fair. That was all he ever earned.

Attorney Smith dropped his voice to a lower tone. The witness dropped his voice to the same key. Dr. Alice was watching intently, her eyes shifting from one to the other.

Q.—Did your mother ever talk to you about Earle and Rheta? A.—Yes, several times. I warned Earle about his drinking and chasing around with other girls. He told me to mind my own business.

Notified of Rheta's Death.

Smith directed Walker's attention to the time of the murder, which the state has fixed at about 3:30 p. m, last Nov. 21. [Rheta's body was found several hours later on an operating table in the basement of the Wynekoop home at 3406 Monroe street.]

"Walker, what time were you first notified of the tragedy?" Smith demanded.

"About 9:30 p. m. I got to the house in about 40 minutes."

Q.—Did you see Earle that night? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did your mother speak of Earle? A.—Yes, the rest of us were at home discussing the situation. We sat up all night. Mother told me to try and reach Earle.

Q.—Did your mother seem anxious about Earle? [Dougherty's objection was sustained.]

Q.—Well, did she say anything to you about Earle? A.—She told me to get in touch with him and tell him to come home.

Q.—At the time you assumed Earle had gone to the Grand canyon in Arizona and did not know he had returned to Chicago a few days before the murder? A.—That is correct.

Earle Returns from Kansas City.

Q.—When? A.—The next day.

Q.—And he came home? A.—Yes, I expected him in a plane the following night. He came the day after in his own car.

Q.—And he was arrested? A.—Yes.

[Earle's two trips west were taken with another young man for the announced intention of making commercial pictures of the Grand canyon, but Earle never got to Arizona. After his first return home, police investigation has shown, he met his mother in a secret rendezvous on the south side two nights before the murder. He departed a second time for the west with his companion on the morning of the day when Rheta died. After his return from Kansas City at Walker's request Earle was held by the police and charged with being a murder accessory but was later released. He has not appeared in court at the present trial of his mother and did not appear at her first trial, which was halted last January by Judge Joseph B. David after Dr. Wynekoop had suffered a heart attack.]

Tells Gift of Home.

Attorney Smith digressed from Earle's movements to show the jury further evidence of Dr. Alice's financial holdings. Walker testified that last Nov. 1, three weeks before Rheta's death, his mother had given him a six room home on a lot which she owned in Maywood, to be used as part payment on his own home in Glencoe. Walker said the Maywood property was unencumbered by mortgages or liens.

The preceding witness, Ira M. Lindsay, eldest brother of Dr. Alice, gave similar testimony. He said she owned a once unencumbered 80 acre farm near Onarga [her former home and her brother's present residence], which in 1928 would have brought $400 an acre. He said he had helped procure a loan on the farm for his sister to finance her defense.

A relative by marriage, Attorney H. E. Wood, former mayor of Joliet, and now with the law firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy, was also called as a witness. He said he had owed Dr. Alice $6,500 for several years and that she pressed him for a payment in the fall of 1932.

"You're her brother-in-law, aren't you?" Prosecutor Dougherty demanded on cross-examination.

"Yes—and proud of it," snapped Wood.

STATE ENDS EVIDENCE

Three minutes after the morning session of court began the state concluded its evidence. Prosecutor Dougherty handed his last witness, Police Lieutenant Samuel Paterson, a bullet. The witness identified it as the bullet which had pierced Rheta's back.

The defense stipulated that the bullet had been fired from Earle Wynekoop's pistol, the weapon wrapped in gauze, which was found on Dr. Wynekoop's operating table beside the body.

W. W. Smith advanced to make the customary motions. His motion for a directed verdict of acquittal on grounds of insufficient evidence was denied by Judge Miller. His motion to compel the state to specify whether the charge was murder by chloroform or gunshot was likewise denied.

Smith then called his first witness, Miss Vivian Molle, a stenographer. She declared that notes she took for a "ghost written" article published under the name of a state witness, Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, were taken in an interview with Dr. Hoffman and that the article itself was accurate. Grounds for impeaching Dr. Hoffman were thereby laid by the defense, he having testified for the state that certain portions of the article were inaccurate. Dr. Hoffman is director of the Criminal court behavior clinic.

Attorney Smith next called an insurance agent, Roland Hinkle, assistant local manager for the Equitable Life Assurance society. Smith produced a $10,000 double indemnity policy which Hinkle said Dr. Alice had taken out for Earle in June, 1930. The witness said Dr. Alice specified at the time that Rheta was to be beneficiary. Dr. Alice, he added, said she would pay the premiums.

Introduces Rheta's Policy.

Smith also introduced a policy of the New York Life Insurance company on Rheta's life. On this policy, which was issued last Oct. 23, 29 days before the murder, Smith showed, Dr. Alice may collect $10,000 as double indemnity if she is acquitted, if Rheta's death was not due to suicide, and if the company fails otherwise to establish fraud.

Harping on his theme of Rheta's possible suicide, Smith put emphasis in his voice as he read and reread to the jury the clauses wherein the insurance company covenanted to pay Dr. Alice only the sum of the premiums actually paid in the event of "self-destruction by the insured."

Woman Doctor Testifies.

Dr. Alice's next witness was her friend and professional associate, Dr. Margaret M. Jones, 306 East 78th street, a prim, middle aged woman in brown. She had first met the defendant "many years ago" when Dr. Alice was professor at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the University of Illinois, but was not in any of Dr. Alice's classes, she said. They had been mutually interested since in the Chicago Women's Medical club, Nu Sigma Phi, a medical sorority, and the Y. W. C. A., she added.

The Month of May, 1933.

Smith directed Dr. Jones' attention to the month of May, 1933. Had Dr. Alice called her to examine Rheta at that time, he asked. The witness cleared her throat and shot an encouraging smile towards Dr. Alice.

"Dr. Wynekoop telephoned me," she began. "She said, 'Jones, I'm worried about my daughter, Rheta, and I want you to look her over.'"

"Object to 'daughter, Rheta,'" Dougherty interposed.

"But Dr. Alice always referred to Rheta as her daughter," Dr. Jones protested, turning to the bench.

"Strike it out," said Judge Miller. "Proceed."

"Did you respond to the call?" Smith resumed.

"I went to the Wynekoop home," said Dr. Jones. "I found Rheta lying on a bed upstairs. Her limbs were rigid and her eyes twitching. Earle was sitting on one side of her, Dr. Alice on the other. I motioned them both away to give her a thorough physical examination."

"Find anything wrong?" Smith prompted.

What She Told Rheta.

Q.—What did you do? Did you prescribe? A.—I told her to open her eyes. She obeyed. I tried to tell her what had made her miserable, but told her she had to coöperate. Thinking a little flattery might help, I told her she had a very lovely body, compared it to a famous dancer's and suggested she take up golf, swimming, tap dancing or some outdoor exercise. She didn't say she would or wouldn't.

"What did Earle do?" Smith asked. Another state objection was sustained.

Q.—Well, did he say anything? A.—Nothing. He merely scowled.

Dr. Jones directed another helpful smile towards Dr. Alice. Smith directed her attention to last June 28 and asked whether she and Dr. Alice had discussed Rheta's going away.

"The real conversation was that I wanted Dr. Alice to go away," said Dr. Jones. "I told her she needed a rest. She said she couldn't go away and leave Rheta at home. I asked why she didn't send Rheta to Indianapolis.

Q.—What did Dr. Alice say? A.—She said Rheta didn't want to go.

Smith then put a question as to Dr. Alice's character. Did Dr. Jones know Dr. Alice's reputation as "a peaceable and law abiding citizen prior to this indictment?" She did.

"Was it good or bad?"

"Good."

The next witness was Dr. Wynekoop's younger sister, Mrs. Mabel Fairclo of Sycamore. Dr. Alice is 63 years old and her sister is 55. They bear a strong resemblance.

Under guidance of Smith's soft voice Mrs. Fairclo recalled her own and Dr. Alice's carefree childhood fifty years ago "on a farm near Onarga." Dougherty objected to allusions to "a farm." He was sustained.

Down to Recent Times.

Smith brought the story down to recent times. Did Mrs. Fairclo know Rheta? She did. And Earle? Yes, she knew Earle also.

"They were married in Sycamore in 1929, were they not?" This with a gentle smile.

"Yes," the witness smiled back, "at St. Albans chapel."

"That's an Episcopal church?" with an eye to a possible juryman of that faith. Yes, it was Episcopal.

Q.—Was there a function after the ceremony? A.—Yes, at the Midwest Athletic club near the Wynekoop home. The couple spent the bridal night there and next day went to Dr. Alice's summer home.

Smith's voice took a sharper key.

Q.—This boy Earle—was he ever regularly employed? A.—Well, he had studied medicine, but didn't seem to care for it. He puttered with radio and aviation, but was never regularly employed. Dr. Alice always supported him and Rheta.

Smith Draws a Laugh.

The lawyer directed Mrs. Fairclo's attention to last Nov. 23, the day she rushed in from Sycamore at Dr. Alice's frantic call that Rheta had been killed.

"Did you see many policemen around the house?" Smith inquired. Mrs. Fairclo paused to think.

"There were a great many men there," she said earnestly. "Some were in uniform—others not. They were all strangers to me. I couldn't tell if they were all policemen."

"Then you didn't look at their feet?" Smith smirked.

The court fans tittered—nearly all but Dr. Alice. She shook her shoulders in her caracul coat, sighed, and closed her eyes.

Smith was approaching his climax.

"In all your acquaintance with Rheta Wynekoop did you ever hear your sister express an unkind word about her?" His voice throbbed.

"No, never an unkind word."

There was no cross-examination. Noon recess followed, and after that came the testimony of Mr. Lindsay, Mr. Wood, and Walker Wynekoop.

SURRENDER 'FLAG' OF LEE AMONG EFFECTS OF CUSTER'S WIDOW

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—An old piece of white towel, stamped "This towel was the first flag of truce sent in by the confederate forces on the day Gen. Lee surrendered," was among the effects of the widow of Gen. George Armstrong Custer which were appraised today.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bacon Custer, widow of the Indian fighter and hero of "Custer's last stand," left an estate appraised at $101,492 when she died last April 4. Included among her effects were such relics as a linen handkerchief, said to have been used as a flag of truce at Appomattox.

The toweling and the handkerchief were bequeathed to the government and other momentoes of Gen. Custer's, including his sword and scabbard, were left to the Smithsonian institution.

QUESTION RACKET WITNESS ON LINK WITH AL CAPONE

He "Can't Recall" Details of Meetings.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Abe Schaffner, bank robber and labor racketeer, established a virtually perfect record for loss of memory yesterday when Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber examined him as a court's witness in the racket conspiracy case.

His reply, "I don't recall," formed a regular refrain to the queries put to him by the prosecutor. Occasionally he varied his answers with an effort at humor, as when Prosecutor Raber asked him the purpose of a conference with Al Capone which he attended in the Lexington hotel.

"I just went along for the ride," asserted Schaffner.

Probe Linen Supply Business.

He was the first witness called regarding affairs in the linen supply business, one of the four industries in which the 18 defendants on trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court are charged with conspiracy involving violence, boycotts, and allegedly illegal strikes.

The linen supply business was closely involved with the laundry industry. The operation of Attorney Aaron Sapiro's "industry stabilization plan" in the laundry field resulted in the indictment of Sapiro, Attorney Morris I. Kaplan, T. Henry Klein, president of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association, and officials of local 712 of the laundry and dye house drivers' union in the present case. Attorney Kaplan was secretary of the Chicago Linen Supply association.

Called to Tell of Sale.

Schaffner was called to tell about the sale, in July 1931, of the Boulevard Linen Supply company, in which he, Martin P. Murphy, Patrick [Paddy] Berrell, labor leader, who was murdered two years ago, and "Porky" Dillon, Touhy gangster sought in the Factor kidnaping case, were interested. The Boulevard company, a cut price concern, was bought out by the linen supply association.

Widely divergent interpretations are placed on this purchase by the prosecution and defense. The prosecution charges that Al Capone and Murray Humphreys, Capone's successor in Chicago rackets, persuaded Schaffner and his associates to sell. This, the prosecution contends, was further evidence of the close coöperation between the two gangsters, who were indicted in the present case, and Kaplan. Capone is serving a sentence for income tax evasion and Humphreys is a fugitive.

Lawyer Charges Shakedown.

Attorney Kaplan gave his version of the story in a speech to Judge Finnegan in the absence of the jury. He charged that the owners of the Boulevard company "shook down" the linen supply association for $46,000, the price of the concern, which was then bankrupt, he asserted.

"I was almost murdered," said Kaplan. "They fired some slugs at me. I reported it to the state's attorney and the police."

Schaffner had a criminal record running back to 1910, when he was sent to the Bridewell for theft. He served later sentences for larceny, assault and robbery, finishing off his prison experiences by spending six years in Joliet penitentiary for bank robbery. He was charged with racketeering in the hand laundry business shortly after his release in 1929. His most recent arrest was as a kidnaping suspect.

Schaffner is a heavy, powerful man. He told Judge Finnegan that he is now a whisky salesman, and didn't want to testify for fear of incriminating himself and because it would hurt his business. He was questioned outside the presence of the jury, and Judge Finnegan took under advisement until today the question of letting the jury hear his testimony.

Admits Humphreys' Visits.

Schaffner admitted to Prosecutor Raber that he had received numerous visits from Humphreys.

"What did you talk about?" demanded the prosecutor. "Just about the weather," said Schaffner.

Schaffner also admitted numerous meetings with Al Capone. Asked about the conversation at the meeting to which he had said he went "just for the ride," he replied that Capone had talked to Berrell and that he was talking to some one else. But mainly his retort was: "I don't recall."

Possible trouble for Schaffner on his reappearance today was indicated when the next witness, Theodore Braiman, 3855 West 15th street, disclosed before the jury that Schaffner had addressed him in the witness room of the court and told him to deny certain queries which Prosecutor Raber might make.

Braiman described an organization meeting of the Cook County Hand Laundry association, at which he said Marshall Rose, one of the defendants, told hand laundry owners that they would have to join the association to get the "protection" of the steam laundries which did their washing.

Cross-examination of another witness yesterday brought out that violence in the laundry industry, charged against the defendants in the case, was not always confined to their business enemies—that their friends sometimes suffered bombings and sluggings. The witness who told of this was Philip Volini, owner of the Public Service laundry.

Volini testified that in every case where he operated such a shop George Knott, vice president of the drivers' union, paid the rent, clerk hire, drivers' wages and all other expenses, leaving Volini the net price collected from the customers as the price for washing the clothes left at the office.

One of the stores which Volini ran for Knott was at 3545 West 16th street, near a cut price depot of the Great Western laundry, and another in the 2100 block on Madison street, a few doors from the Great Western's plant. Nathan Levitetz, an official of that company, testified a few days ago that another of his cut rate stores was bombed shortly after the defendant, Klein, had threatened him and ordered him to close it.

Cross-examined by Attorney William B. Rodrigues, counsel for the union officials, Volini said that windows were smashed and stench bombs thrown twice into the 16th street store, and that he was slugged one evening by two men in the Madison street store near the Great Western plant.

Shows Payments by Union.

At the morning session of the trial Patrick J. Cronin, 2016 South 10th avenue, Maywood, an accountant, identified an account book showing the receipt and purported disbursement of $48,000 by the drivers' union. Members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association contributed this money, under the Sapiro plan, to finance the organization of hand laundries by the union. The prosecution contends that most of the money went to the Capone gang.

The prosecution also introduced a bulletin of the association announcing that assessments of $1 per truck a week on association members, for the hand laundry organization fund, would be stopped as of May 9, 1933. A letter from the executive board of the union, quoted in the bulletin, mentioned "unfair publicity" as one reason for dropping the assessment. It was about that time, previous witnesses have testified, that Chicago newspapers charged that racketeering existed in the laundry industry.

CHICAGO LEADS FIVE METROPOLITAN AREAS IN REDUCING RELIEF

Chicago leads the five metropolitan centers of the country in the decrease of expenditures for relief during January, Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission announced yesterday. Cook county's expenditures decreased 31 per cent, compared with the previous month's. In the same period Detroit's expenditures decreased 26 per cent, Philadelphia's increased 3 per cent, New York's increased 14 per cent and Los Angeles' increased 23 per cent.

Commitments for relief in Cook county dropped from $4,633,491 in December to $3,206,000 in January while the number of families on the relief rolls decreased 28 per cent. Detroit's case load dropped 29 per cent, New York's case load increased 4 per cent, Los Angeles' decreased 23 per cent, and Philadelphia's dropped 1 per cent.

DIES OF BULLET WOUND.

Carl Austerow, 31 years old, 609 West Madison street, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital from a bullet wound received Feb. 18 at Leland avenue and Sheridan road. Austerow refused to tell the police who shot him.

DOLE MARCHERS SEE COMMONS, BUT ONLY AT TEA

Labor Members Charge Unfair Treatment.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28. — Alleged discrimination against hunger marchers in their admission to the house of commons to see their parliamentary representatives led to a stormy scene in the chamber this evening.

Hundreds of the marchers—here to protest the government's relief measures—assembled outside the parliament buildings late this afternoon demanding an audience with members, but police admitted only a few at a time. The majority were forced to wait for hours outside in the bitter cold, snow and sleet.

Though the marchers endured the delay with almost angelic patience, their supporters in the house were stirred to fiery outbursts of wrath. Led by the Independent Laborite, John McGovern, sympathizers launched a violent attack on the speaker. Why, they demanded, were well dressed visitors admitted while the poorly clothed and unemployed were kept waiting outside.

Claims No Partiality Shown.

The speaker declared he was sure no discrimination was being exercised.

This assertion was challenged by McGovern. He asserted he had to go out into the snow to seek the marchers whom he had invited to tea.

"I think it is most unfair and a damnable outrage!" he shouted.

The speaker declared he would not change the rules and reiterated his previous contention.

McGovern again jumped up amid loud cries of "Order, order!"

"O, to hell with your order!" McGovern yelled. "I demand that these men be admitted, as is their right."

The speaker replied he had given a ruling on that point, intimating that the subject should be dropped and if McGovern continued his tactics, he would have to leave.

"I don't care," he retorted. "If they cannot be admitted, I might as well leave."

He stormed out yelling, "The damned house is only a farce, that's what it is."

The Independent Laborite, George Buchanan, took up McGovern's fight but could get no satisfaction and so he stamped out of the chamber after McGovern.

Majority of Marchers Enter.

Meanwhile, though scores of the marchers gave up and wandered back to their various headquarters, the majority hung on and eventually were admitted.

The historic central lobby presented a bizarre appearance as parties of the marchers in rough working clothes and hobnailed boots clattered across the marble floor inspecting the sights while waiting for their hosts to turn up. Some sat on the cushioned seats around the circular hall and enjoyed to the full their unaccustomed surroundings.

Many marchers were entertained at tea by members and appeared to regard their visit in the nature of a Sunday school treat. They eventually dispersed indicating in a babble of a dozen different accents that they all had a fine time.

Mayor Revokes Licenses of Hotel in Vice Raids

Mayor Kelly yesterday ordered the revocation of all city licenses issued to the Spencer hotel, 300 East Garfield boulevard. The hotel figured in raids made by state's attorney's police in breaking up a vice ring that had allegedly lured more than forty girls from the Illinois State Training home at Geneva to houses of prostitution. One of the prisoners taken in the raids, Angelo Louisa, keeper of a roadhouse on the outskirts of Coal City, Ill., was said by police to have confessed that he had "bought" five young women.

Women "Hunger Marchers" as They Converged in London

DISCUSS PLANS FOR NAVY CAMP AT WORLD'S FAIR

Marines Also May Be Represented.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Navy, marine, and army officers yesterday lunched with executives of A Century of Progress to discuss negotiations to have naval and marine corps detachments as well as regular army troops encamped on the Exposition grounds next summer.

Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, Lieutenant Commander H. D. Nuber, navy representative at A Century of Progress; Col. W. B. Causey, assistant United States commissioner to the Fair; Maj. Chester L. Fordney, Marine corps officer detailed at the Fair; and Capt. M. S. Daniels of the army, were guests of Fair officials in the office of Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Exposition.

Three Represent Fair.

Representatives of the Fair who were present besides Maj. Lohr were Charles W. Fitch, in charge of federal, state, and foreign participation; and Col. Frank C. Boggs, technical assistant to the general manager.

Last summer the soldiers stationed at the Fair occupied Camp Whistler toward the south end of the grounds. This year the Ford Motor company is constructing its building on the site of old Camp Whistler, and the camp is being moved to a site near the Federal building and the Court of States on Northerly island.

If negotiations are successful the addition of navy and marine troops would add considerable color to the Fair's daily program.

Hub Signs Fair Contract.

The Fair's first luncheon of the year was held in the trustees' lounge of the Administration building yesterday to celebrate the signing of a contract by Fair officials and executives of Henry C. Lytton & Sons for re-occupancy by the Hub of its "Store of Tomorrow" on the Exposition grounds.

The Hub branch store, which fronts on the 23d street plaza, is being reconditioned for the 1934 season.

Fair visitors next summer will see a completely new show in the Horticultural building, with outside gardens reconstructed to represent authoritative examples of various styles of garden design. Plans for remaking the Horticultural department of the Exposition were made yesterday at a meeting of the national flower show committee of the Society of American Florists, which will manage the exhibition this year.

BILL TO CHECK RACE DISCRIMINATION AT FAIR PASSES HOUSE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner tonight signed the two World's Fair bills. The Exposition now has the authority to start immediately on the letting of contracts for space and the general rehabilitation of the Fair grounds on Chicago's lake front.

Action in both houses during the day showed a disposition on the part of the legislators to hold a mild whiplash over the Exposition in the form of a commission or committee.

In the senate a debate was precipitated over the resolution offered by Senator Joseph Mendel [Dem., Chicago]. The measure, providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate "all conditions relative to the Century of Progress Exposition."

Things began to grow hot when Mendel declared that it appeared as if the governor and lieutenant governor would be the only ones to receive passes at the Exposition.

"That may reveal the purpose of your resolution," boomed out Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, who was presiding.

"This resolution is an insult to every member of the senate," asserted Senator James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston]. "The sponsor wasn't sober when he presented it."

Senator Mendel walked down the aile and stood three feet from his adversary's desk.

"I'm not drinking at all," shouted Mendel, "I haven't had a drink for weeks."

Mendel's associates forced him to return to his seat. Donovan then declared that the resolution had passed by a vote of 13 to 10.

A similar measure calling for the appointment of a commission of five representatives and four senators to investigate the Fair to determine whether federal or state laws were being violated was passed by the house 118 to 3. The bill, carrying an appropriation of $1,000, was sponsored by three Negro members, Representatives Charles J. Jenkins [Rep., Chicago], Harris B. Gaines [Rep., Chicago], and William J. Warfield [Rep., Chicago], Jenkins said the purpose of the bill was to guard against discrimination.

WATSON ASSAILS ROOSEVELT ERA AT G. O. P. RALLY

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Former United States Senator James E. Watson of Indiana in an address tonight called upon the Republican party "to stand together and remain true to the idea of a protective tariff."

Speaking at a Republican rally attended by party leaders and workers from all parts of Delaware Watson said: "We should unwaveringly stand by the fundamental thought of individual liberty as manifested in individual initiative, thrift, and individual effort."

"The enterprise and success of the unit promotes the enterprise and success of the community and this in turn spells the enterprise underlying our government," he asserted.

He characterized the Roosevelt economic "prescription" as "dope" rather than beneficial medicine. He attacked the Civil Works administration as a form of dole which has led large groups to quit their regular employment to accept the higher wages of the CWA.

"We have already seriously invaded the constitutional principles," he declared, "and if the present rate of spending continues we shall find that we have more nearly approached bankruptcy than many of us dream."

RACE 75 MILES, SAVE KILLERS FROM LYNCHING

Denver, Colo., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Pursued by a mob of citizens seeking to avenge the slaying last night of Clifford Smith, farmer, and his hired hand, and the wounding and attacking of Smith's wife, four Fort Collins, Colo., officers raced seventy-five miles to Denver, with the two confessed criminals. An extra guard was placed at the jail.

The prisoners are John Pacheco, 22, and his brother, Louis Pacheco, 37, Mexicans. They were seized in a haystack near Fort Collins.

Nearly a thousand citizens and officers had been searching the countryside from Denver to Cheyenne, Wyo.

The mob continued the chase about 30 miles until they were outdistanced.

According to their confession, the brothers, believing all three of their victims dead, covered the bodies with kerosene, but when they touched a match to Mrs. Smith's dress, she screamed and the pair fled.

MORE WITNESSES ACCUSE DRIVER OF INTOXICATION

Qualify as Experts, Tell of Woman's Antics.

Witnesses testifying yesterday at the trial of Mrs. Blossom Howard, 3000 Lincoln Park West, who is accused of driving an automobile while intoxicated, were forced through the questions of counsel to qualify as experts in intoxication observation. The case is being heard by Judge Joseph H. McGarry of the Traffic court.

Mrs. Howard, wife of the owner of the Edgewater tavern, was the driver of a car that collided with another at Sheridan road and Rosemont avenue Dec. 17, causing serious injuries to Prof. Garrett H. Leverton of the Northwestern university school of speech. Her defense is that she was not intoxicated.

Intoxicated, Says Clerk.

One of those who testified she was intoxicated was Miss Melva Lee, 5670½ Ridge avenue, a clerk at the Edgewater hospital, to which Mrs. Howard and Prof. Leverton were taken after the accident.

"Mrs. Howard was reeling about, waving her arms," said Miss Lee. "She used bad language and she kicked an intern."

"But was she drunk?" asked Attorney Harry N. Pritzker, acting as prosecutor.

Defense Attorney Joseph H. Hinshaw argued that Miss Lee might not be familiar enough with alcohol to give an expert answer. Judge McGarry allowed her to answer after she had convinced the court she knew liquor "by the smell" and had seen a number of drunken persons.

"She was drunk," said the witness.

Driver Qualifies as Expert.

John Baird, an instructor at Northwestern university, who was driver of the car in which Prof. Leverton was riding, was asked if he had ever been intoxicated. He said he had been—once—and added he once had a fight with a drunken sailor. The night of the accident he had had one highball and two cups of coffee, he continued.

Having thus qualified he was allowed to state his opinion that Mrs. Howard was drunk at the time of the accident. She was driving on the wrong side of the street and without lights on her car, the instructor said. After the crash, he declared, she got into the street and waved her arms, impeding traffic.

Prof. Leverton corroborated the testimony of Baird up to the time of the collision. After that he was unconscious and didn't know about the condition of Mrs. Howard.

Two Defense Witnesses.

There were two defense witnesses. One was Dr. Charles G. Shannon, 1059 Sheridan road, physician who treated Mrs. Howard the day after she was injured. He suggested that a concussion of the brain might have caused her to stagger and that an internal disorder may have brought on nausea. He admitted he had not seen the defendant until thirteen hours after she was hurt.

Harry L. Cagney, 515 North Washington street, Park Ridge, was the second witness for Mrs. Howard. He asserted he and his wife had sat in the Edgewater tavern with her for two hours, shortly before the crash, and that Mrs. Howard did not have a drink. In his opinion, Mr. Cagney said, she was sober when she left.

The case will be resumed Saturday.

ASSIGN BANGHART KIDNAP TRIAL TO JUDGE STEFFEN

Judge Walter P. Steffen yesterday set March 7 for the trial of Basil Banghart, Touhy gangster, for the kidnaping of John Factor, wealthy speculator. The case was assigned to Judge Steffen by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court.

This action was taken after Judge Michael Feinberg, who presided at the trial at which three other members of the gang were found guilty of the kidnaping and sentenced to serve 99 years, granted the petition of Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart for a change of venue.

Judge Steffen announced that he would rule on all preliminary motions made by the defense on March 7. Attorney Stewart moved to quash the indictment under the ruling of the State Supreme court that declared illegal the Cook county grand jury system. He also asked a change of venue from Cook county.

"Mr. Stewart charges that the jury commissioners have entered into a conspiracy to select jurors only from the capitalistic class," Judge Feinberg said in commenting on the latter motion before granting the change of venue. "Since most of the jurors who have passed through my court recently are employed either by the CWA, PWA, or IOU, I think the state should incorporate this point in its rebuttal."

KILLED BY ELEVATOR.

John Grabac, 48 years old, 1533 West 81st street, elevator operator in the Monarch Brewing company's plant at 2463 West 21st street, was crushed to death yesterday when he fell between the cage and the elevator shaft.

Stolen Dog's Owner Leaves for Home After 3 Day Hunt

After hunting three days for Kid Boots Ace, his champion bull terrier, Louis Rudginsky announced last night, as he left for his home in Boston, that he was willing to negotiate with the thieves who stole the dog. The terrier was stolen from the exhibition hall at the Hotel Sherman Sunday night after winning first prize in the Western Boston Terrier club's annual show. "We haven't heard a word from the thieves since I got a call Monday night demanding $500 ransom," said Rudginsky. "The dog isn't worth anything to racketeers but I wouldn't take $10,000 for him."

PU-YI CROWNED; THOUSANDS OF GUNS GUARD HIM

Modern Empire Created with Ancient Rites.

monies conferred upon the youthful Manchu nobleman the title of "God's regent on earth."

The raven haired and bespectacled Pu-yi ascended the altar and offered to God successive sacrifices of jewels, silks, grain, meat, wine, and sacred fire.

That no mundane noises or human activity might mar the celestial quiet and solemnity of the ceremonies while the young ruler was offering prayer and sacrifice to heaven, all traffic, factory whistles, railroad communications, and the hum of everyday life were hushed.

Except for a few high ranking Japanese officials, no foreigners were allowed to gaze upon Pu-yi making his solemn ministrations to heaven.

The climax came when the emperor, clad in his gorgeous robe of vivid blue and red, raised his eyes to the sky and held aloft for heaven's consecration a great jade seal which the chief ritualist handed to him.

Then the emperor thrice prostrated himself upon the altar while an ancient Chinese ritual was intoned. Thus ended the fifteen minute drama.

In awesome silence, Kang Teh left the altar and entered a three ton armored bullet proof limousine recently imported from the United States and swiftly returned to the palace for the second part of the ceremonies, brief civil rites for the purpose of announcing the emperor's ascension to the throne.

Along the whole five mile long route from the altar of heaven to the palace the emperor's only audience consisted of thousands of Japanese and Manchukuoan soldiers.

Fear Attempt on Life.

The exclusion of the public from the religious ceremonies and from the line of march robbed it of its human touch of popular appeal, but this was explained by an obsession on the part of military authorities that the life of the son of heaven was imperiled.

Between every three Manchukuo soldiers, numbering at least 50,000, was stationed one seasoned Japanese trooper charged with the double responsibility of guarding the emperor and watching his Manchukuo comrades.

Chicago Woman Present.

American witnesses to the available portion of the ceremonies included Miss Ruth Emeline Bush of Chicago, Mrs. Amanda Boyden of Boston, Fay Gillis of New York, Prof. Bruce Hopper of Harvard university and his wife, and Andrew Wylie of Washington, D. C.

According to the new organic law of the empire over which Kang Teh rules, sovereignty rests with the emperor alone. He is theoretically placed above the law and is responsible only to heaven.

He holds command of the army, navy, and air force, and has authority to declare war or peace and to make treaties. Nevertheless the emperor makes laws only with the approval of the legislature.

What is possibly the most vital question of all—succession to the throne—is dismissed vaguely in the organic law, which says "succession to the imperial throne shall be as determined separately." Kang Teh has been married 11 years and is childless.

MISSING GIRLS ARE BELIEVED HIKING TO HOLLYWOOD

Two girls of prominent Chicago families, who disappeared Sunday from the Jennings Seminary for Girls at Aurora, were believed yesterday to be hitch-hiking to Hollywood with dreams of movie careers. The girls are Miss Marjorie Swift, 18 years old, 5524 Cornell avenue, the granddaughter of the late George B. Swift, former mayor of Chicago, and Mary Dickinson, 16 years old, 2970 Sheridan road.

Other students at the school said yesterday that the two girls often had discussed the possibility of successful motion picture careers.

Breakfast in Oswego.

The girls were first missed from the school at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Last information as to their whereabouts was furnished police by residents of Oswego, seven miles southwest of Aurora. The girls ate breakfast there Sunday morning and are believed to have obtained a ride with a passing motorist.

Plans to search for the girls were made yesterday at a meeting in the Marquette police station. Supervising Captain John Stege conferred with Mrs. Dorothy Dickinson, mother of Mary, and with Mrs. Mina Malek, principal of the Aurora school, concerning descriptions.

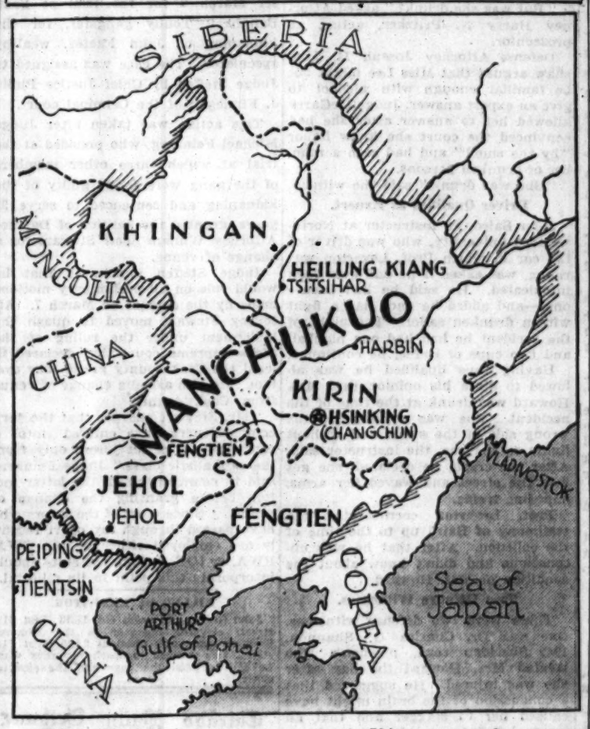
Miss Edith Swift, an aunt with whom the Swift girl makes her home at the Cornell avenue address, did not appear at the police station for the conference. Miss Swift's parents are dead.

The police learned that the girls were dressed in hiking costumes when they left the school. Miss Swift wore knickers, a black leather coat, and high topped hiking boots. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has blue eyes and dark brown hair worn in a short boyish bob.

Miss Dickinson, police learned, was dressed in a dark brown skirt, long khaki coat, and also wore hiking boots. She is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, has brown eyes and light brown hair, which she wears in a long bob. The girls were carrying a plaid blanket roll when they left the school.

Police were searching last night for three Horace Greeley school girls who disappeared from their homes Tuesday after talking of going to California. One of the girls, Amelia Wandpluh, 14 years old, is alleged to have taken $600 from a trunk in the home of her father, David Wandpluh, 2230 Orchard street. Police were told her companions are Mary Ella Stewart, 15 years old, 640 Oakdale avenue, and Mary Egbert, 14 years old, 636 Briar place.

NEW EMPIRE OF THE FAR EAST



Henry Pu-yi, former boy emperor of China, was made emperor today of the new state of Manchukuo (formerly Manchuria), which Japan wrested by force of arms from China nearly two and one-half years ago. The enthronement took place at Hsinking, the new capital, with ceremonies centuries old.

JAPAN, RUSSIA SEND EACH OTHER SHARP PROTESTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 28.—Soviet Russia and Japan today exchanged sharp protests concerning military airplane flights over each other's territory.

The Japanese government protested that soviet planes had recently flown over Manchukuo and Corea. Russia complained that Nipponese planes had violated soviet territory near Pogranichnaya and Iman, and at the same time denied the allegation of Japan.

Despite the vigorous wording of each nation's protests, a Japanese official spokesman attempted to allay fear abroad that the war which is anticipated betwen Russia and Japan is about to begin.

"The world need not be afraid that Russia and Japan are on the verge of war," he said. "All of these protests and the noisy fuss are a good sign that the danger of war is far away. When both sides are silent, look out."

The protests were lodged today following the receipt of dispatches from Hsinking [Changchun], Manchukuo, sent by the Rengo [Japanese] news agency, that soviet troops had shot down a Japanese army plane on the Manchukuo border on Feb. 17.

This report was subsequently denied by the soviet government. The Japanese war office announced that it had received no such report, but did not issue a denial. It did admit that the pilot of a plane had been wounded when fired upon by Russians.

Prince Tells How He Killed Rasputin "to Save Russia"

LONDON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The grim story of a tragedy that rocked Russia and startled the world was told today in the tense atmosphere of a crowded London courtroom when Prince Felix Youssoupoff related how and why he killed the sinister and powerful Monk Rasputin.

The tall, slim prince, attired in conventional English morning clothes, crisply gave details of the slaying during a hearing of his wife's suit for $2,000,000 damages against the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Ltd. Princess Irina Youssoupoff alleges the film "Rasputin and the Empress" libeled her by linking her objectionably with Rasputin.

"In doing what I did," said the prince, "I thought I was acting in the service of my country."

Affirms His Part in Killing.

He took the stand after the defense had intimated he had not killed the powerful monk—the so-called power behind the czar—in St. Petersburg during the world war. This intimation was part of an attempt to show that the character in the film did not correspond to Prince Youssoupoff and that therefore the woman character—upon whose delineation the suit is based—could not be taken as representing the princess.

Prince Youssoupoff, a descendant of the old Russian nobility, maintained he slew Rasputin when the latter admitted he was in the pay of Germany and planned to seize the throne. It was the first time he gave his version of the affair on a witness stand.

"Did you determine that in the interest of your country Rasputin should die?" Sir Patrick Hasting, a leading British attorney, who is plaintiff's counsel, asked him.

Thought He Menaced Russia.

"Yes," said the witness, "because I thought he was a danger to my country."

During cross-examination of Princess Irina, Sir William Jowitt of the defense counsel said:

"I suggest that Prince Youssoupoff did not kill Rasputin. I am suggesting that your husband fired the first shot, which did not kill Rasputin, and that Rasputin got up and as he was making his way out of the place Purishkevitch [Vladamir Purishkevitch, duma leader and foe of the czar] came up and fired four shots, two of which hit him.

"If he was dead before he was pushed into the ice [Rasputin's slayer threw his body into the Neva river] it was Purishkevitch who finally killed him."

This followed a statement by Jowitt that "the method of the killing in the film is wholly, absolutely and completely different from the facts as they have been recounted in innumerable books."

The prince had testified that he and another man together fired at their victim four times and that he beat the monk to death with a heavy stick. Poisoned cakes and wine previously had been given Rasputin, but had failed to have the intended fatal effect, the witness said.

The prince stuck to his story under Sir William's cross-examination. Sir William asked:

"Would it be wrong to say that after Rasputin was dead you so lost control of yourself and fell into such a paroxysm of rage that you proceeded to beat the body?"

To this the prince replied:

"That happened just at the moment when he died. He died just after I had done that."

Purishkevitch had fired three shots just previously and still Rasputin was was not dead, the Prince said. He was still on the stand when the case was adjourned until tomorrow.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves Good Money! No Cooking!

If you want the best cough remedy that money can buy, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a real family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ROOSEVELT WILL ASK FREE HAND TO CUT TARIFFS

Robinson Gives New Plan for Foreign Trade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will ask congress tomorrow or Friday to give him blanket power to cut American tariffs 50 per cent in return for foreign trade concessions.

This announcement was made today by Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.], majority leader of the senate, after a White House conference at which the President laid his plan before congressional leaders and cabinet members.

Senator Robinson said he expects President Roosevelt to send a message to congress "probably within a day or two" requesting that he be given broad powers over trade negotiations and tariff rates.

Second Phase of Drive.

Power to arrange reciprocal trade agreements and to lower tariff duties is the second phase of the President's new drive to revive foreign trade. The first phase was revealed Monday when another White House conference agreed to set up a chain of three government banks for the financing of foreign trade.

Both President Roosevelt's message and the bills necessary to carry out his plan are understood to be drafted.

As explained by Senator Robinson the new program will call for granting the President power to negotiate without further consent from congress trade agreements with other countries. By a process of what the President calls "Yankee trading," he will attempt to swap tariff reductions on American goods aboard for specific reductions in American tariffs.

President Roosevelt's power over tariffs, however, will be restricted in three ways. He will not be able to order a reduction of more than 50 per cent, the reductions will remain in force for only three years, and he will not be allowed to change the status of any commodity which is now admitted duty free. All three of these points represent compromises from the original administration program.

May Trade War Debts.

That the President may later ask for power to include war debts in his bartering with foreign countries for trade advantages was suggested by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] on the floor of the senate.

Bitter opposition is expected to develop in congress against the President's request despite Senator Robinson's prediction that administration forces will put the program through.

President Roosevelt already has power to raise or lower tariffs 50 per cent under existing laws, but they restrict such action to instances investigated and recommended by the federal tariff commission. The new plan is to allow the President to act without these restrictions.

PUT IN ASYLUM BY WIFE'S RUSE, HEIR TESTIFIES

Fred W. Wolf, 52 years old, one of the heirs to a 2 million dollar estate, took the witness stand before Judge Frank W. Shepherd in Geneva yesterday and testified that he had been lured to Chicago and placed in the Elgin state hospital for the insane by his estranged wife, Jessie. Wolf, who is seeking his release from the hospital in habeas corpus proceedings, said he had been placed in the hospital in July and released a month later, after which he went to a farm in Vermont. After writing his wife and asking her "terms for a divorce," he said, she asked him to return here to "talk things over." When he arrived, he said, he was seized and sent to the psychopathic hospital and then to Elgin. Mrs. Wolf and her daughter, Mrs. Ann Loftus, oppose the issuance of the writ.

ENDS HER LIFE WITH POISON.

Mrs. Myrtle Barberwich, 34 years old, died yesterday after taking poison in her home at 8517 South Wood street. The police were told that she was despondent over failure of her husband, Norbert, to find work.

Baby Lambs on Tribune Farm

Two baby Southdown lambs on The Tribune experimental farm as they stay close to their mother. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

First Lambs Arrive

Feb. 28, 1934.

TWIN lambs were born in the sheepfold this morning—the first lambs of the spring season here on The Tribune experimental farm. John Rawlings [who has charge of the sheep and the poultry] found the new arrivals a few minutes after 6 a. m. when he made his early morning checkup of the sheepfold. The wobbly legged little fellows had been born just a short time when he entered the fold and located the ewe and her babies huddled in the straw in a secluded corner of the shelter. Rawlings has to stay close to the sheepfold from now on because scores of spring lambs should be born in the next few days.

A grown fox trotted right through the cattle yard yesterday. This was the second visit of a fox [or the same fox] in two days. After going through the cattle yard old Reynard kept going across the fields and into the timber.

A veterinarian was called today to treat one of the Hereford steers for an infection in its right hind leg. The silage for the steers is gone, but the 198 head have managed to get their "three squares" just the same. They were fed 1,000 pounds of timothy hay, 1,500 pounds of soy bean hay, a half ton of alfalfa, and 560 pounds of corn.

Johnson and Sleezer have started on the first phase of the experiment to build up worn out pastures on the farm. These pastures have to be fertilized, so the boys have been hauling manure all day. Later a special seed mixture will be sown to get a heavy rich stand of grass for the cattle.

The 18 Guernseys produced 156¾ quarts of milk today. All of these cows [except those on test] are getting 25 pounds of silage, 15 pounds of hay and several pounds of the grain mixture. The grain mixture is made up as follows: Five hundred pounds of oats, 500 pounds of corn, 200 pounds of bran, 200 pounds of oil meal, 100 pounds of malt, and 20 pounds of salt. The four test cows are being fed a combination of special mixed food, corn and oats. Kunde is varying the amount of the grain mixture for each cow. Kitty, one of the Guernseys on test that gets 7½ pounds of the grain mixture, produced 29.8 pounds [14¾ quarts] of milk yesterday. But another Guernsey on test [Kathryn] scored high honors in milk production with 30.9 pounds [over 15 quarts] of milk on the same ration.

Clarence has sent "37 little pigs to market," and he is now waiting to hear the news on this shipment. This morning a tragedy wiped out a little family of wild animals living here on the farm. The boys are cutting down partly decayed trees in the oak woods. After one of them had crashed to the ground they found three tiny, new born squirrels which had been thrown out of their warm nest in a hollow branch. The boys tried to save them, but it was hopeless. They had been injured in the fall. New born squirrels in the oak woods, the first lambs in the sheepfold—spring continues to give hints of her approach here on the farm.

CWA MEN DEFRAY GIRL'S EXPENSES AT WARM SPRINGS

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Miss Mildred Pickering, 27 year old Cleveland girl, beneficiary of the gratitude felt by CWA workers here toward President Roosevelt, left this morning by plane for Warm Springs, Ga., to receive treatment for paralysis.

CWA workers raised nearly $800 for the Warm Springs foundation and sent a check to President Roosevelt. The President returned the check and the workers then voted to give the money to the Cleveland girl for treatment at the sanitarium. American Airways furnished free transportation for the girl.

She will arrive in Atlanta at 7:40 p. m. today and remain there overnight before proceeding to Warm Springs.

President's Son Honored by Harvard Classmates

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., son of President Roosevelt, today was honored by his classmates with the vice presidency of the freshman class of Harvard university. Young Roosevelt received 227 votes as against 130 for William H. Schmidt II. of Chestnut Hill, Mass., his closest competitor.

HOUSE TO CURB VETERANS' BILL, RAINEY ASSERTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—House leaders decided today to repeat their performance of the special session last year and stand by President Roosevelt against restoring many of the special veterans' benefits denied under the economy act.

Speaker Rainey and Leader Byrns therefore called off the Democratic conference scheduled for tonight. They went to the White House with other house and senate leaders to confer on the forthcoming message on reciprocal trade agreements.

Speaker Rainey said the bill, bearing the veterans' amendments, adopted by the senate, would be sent back to the appropriations committee tomorrow; completely reworked in committee, and offered as a new measure, probably under a strict special rule.

Speaker Rainey deemed it certain the President would veto the entire independent offices bill if adopted with the 354 million dollars in additional benefits to veterans as included by the senate. That sum, he said, virtually would wipe out most of the 400 million dollars previously saved under the economy act.

NRA FORECAST BY LINDY'S DAD 17 YEARS AGO!

Philadelphia, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Use of a plan similar to the national recovery act was predicted seventeen years ago by Representative Charles A. Lindbergh Sr., father of the flyer, according to the preface to a book, "Your Country at War," written by the elder Lindbergh in 1917 and to be published here tomorrow by Dorrance & Co.

The original plates of the volume, then entitled "Why Is Your Country at War?" were destroyed on government orders in 1918, Walter E. Quigley of Minneapolis, Lindbergh's former law partner, said.

CONTINUE QUIZ BY GRAND JURY INTO ARMY CONTRACTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—A district grand jury's investigation into charges of irregularities in army contract negotiations today was continued into next week after new evidence had been presented to Leslie C. Garnett, United States attorney.

The nature of the evidence, reported to be under investigation by the department of justice, was not disclosed.

Garnett said today that he would ask the grand jury to defer reviewing the testimony and considering a report until next week. He indicated new witnesses might be brought from distant points. Among the witnesses today was Ralph T. O'Neill, former national commander of the American Legion and friend of Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war.

CEDAR RAPIDS, PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

HYDROX in Chicago has put some of your men to work

BECAUSE of the Hydrox program of planned expenditure in our city, men have also gone to work in your city.

This is the result of a definitely planned program.

We have seen the President point the way to recovery by putting men to work under his Civil Works Administration. Now it seems to us, as natural leaders in our own industry, it is time for Hydrox to follow the President's lead and establish our own CWA.

The method of doing this is very simple.

Last week, work started on further development of the Hydrox plant, and of plant facilities—a program of planned expenditure of many thousands of dollars.

This will very considerably increase the payrolls of Chicago and swell the working hours. And that will be a good thing for Chicago.

But we think that of almost equal importance is the fact that this Hydrox program of spending and putting men to work in Chicago has also put men to work in Cedar Rapids.

For we think that every good American should, first of all, remember that America is America. America is not Chicago or New York or Washington or Oskaloosa. Up or down, this country moves as a single unit. And no selfish little "buy at home" motives have any place in it. The interests of each part are inextricably interwoven.

And it is more than fitting that men in Cedar Rapids should also be going to work when a business in Chicago starts its expenditures.

We have placed an order in Cedar Rapids. And men have gone to work manufacturing machinery for the Hydrox plant in Chicago. More of your men are now at work. Your payrolls have been increased. Your working hours have been added to. Because Hydrox has started its own CWA.

Tomorrow we are going to tell you, in another advertisement in this paper something more about the Hydrox program—a part of our program that we feel is important to us, and that we know will be of great interest to you.

ASSEMBLY FACES NEW LIQUOR ROW IN BEER BAR BILL

Senate Advances Measure Despite Horner.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The question of liquor control in Illinois, which the general assembly thought it had disposed of when it passed the regulatory bill a month ago, was thrown into the legislative hopper again today. Action on two bills promised to thrust the matter into the realm of controversy once more.

The senate took first action in sending the Devine-Sinnett house beer bill to second reading by a vote of 24 to 5. In so doing it flouted Gov. Horner's desire that the bill go no further, because it would permit unrestricted sale of beer over bars without food, and the governor feels that such license would smack directly of the old time saloon. But the senate thought differently.

"Imitation" Whisky Bill.

In the house, the Powers' bill which would force distillers to label as "imitation" all whisky which did not contain 75 per cent of liquor aged four years in oak, went to third reading. Representative William W. Powers, [Dem., Chicago] announced that he would seek its passage tomorrow.

The governor opposed both these measures when John P. Devine, [Dem., Dixon] and Mr. Powers attempted to have them included in the control law. Mr. Horner felt that the Powers' amendment would affect the farmers of Illinois by forcing the importation of foreign liquor to meet the 75 per cent clause.

Passed by the house last week, the Devine-Sinnett bill was called on first reading in the senate this morning. Senator Louis O. Williams, [Dem., Clinton], who handled the control bill for the governor, asked that the beer measure be sent to the executive committee, a way of delaying it.

Graham Dodges Bill.

"O, no," said the chairman of that body, R. V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], president pro tempore, "I don't want that bill in my committee."

"I move it be placed on the calendar on second reading," suggested James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville].

"Certainly," seconded Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline]. "There is gross hypocrisy now. Bars are operating all over the state."

"I want to defeat this bill," said Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], the minority leader. "Let's give the control law a fair chance. Then at the regular session next year we can try the Devine bill again."

But Monroe pressed his motion and on roll call the bill was placed on second reading. Monroe said that he would try to pass it next week.

SANITARY DISTRICT EXPLAINS REQUEST FOR CHARGE ON WASTE

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Why the Chicago sanitary district wishes legislative authority to charge industries for purifying excessive amounts of waste poured into the sewage system was explained to the general assembly today.

The district was not prepared today to say how much it wishes to charge. Representatives of the Illinois Manufacturers' association felt that if the legislature passes the bill in its present form it would, in effect, be signing a blank check and permitting the drainage board to fill in the amount later.

Appearing for the bills were Trustee Thomas J. Bowler, president of the board; Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee, and Philip Harrington, chief engineer.

Their plea was the result of the Supreme court edict reducing the flow from Lake Michigan, they said. It is now 6,500 cubic feet per second, but by 1939, according to the terms of the decision, it will have been cut to 1,500 cubic feet, Engineer Harrington explained.

"This," said Trustee Woodhull, "will put a great additional job upon the district in treating waste. You have already given every other sanitary district in the state the right to assess a reasonable charge for treating unusual amounts of trade waste. All we wish is the same authority, to meet the federal demands. We will pledge the revenues to the government."

SCHOOLS READY TO REDEEM 1931 TAX WARRANTS

Holders of 1931 school tax anticipation warrants amounting to $3,140,000, that have been called for payment over a period of a year, were asked yesterday by James B. McCahey, president of the school board, to present their warrants for redemption at the board of education offices, 228 North La Salle street. The money which must be used for paying off the warrants is lying idle in the treasury and no longer drawing interest, he explained.

AUTOIST DENIED NEW TRIAL.

Roy Henderson, 32 years old, who was sentenced to ten days in jail and fined $100 in the Evanston Municipal court for reckless driving, was denied a new trial yesterday.

ILLINOIS HOUSE PASSES CHICAGO SCHOOL TAX BILL

turn," shouted Green. "And then nobody will listen to you."

"It is only fair," said Representative Frank Ryan [Dem., Chicago], "that these teachers w' have made this journey down here should be informed that only three members from Cook county were absent yesterday and that we're anxious to help the downstate schools."

"What worries all of us," said Representative H. D. Sparks [Rep., Shelbyville], "is when we are going to have a definite program."

Near the end of the roll call Speaker Roe relinquished his gavel to Representative James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago] and went down to the floor of the house.

"There isn't any question that we must do something to relieve the school situation," said Roe. "With the elimination of the state real estate tax by the collection of the sales tax the state needs its revenue for paying current obligations. The governor has stated that he is in favor of any special tax that is constitutional."

Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the Chicago school board, was on hand at the passage of the "pegged levy" bill. He explained that the bill would set the 1933 educational fund levy at forty-four million dollars and the levy for 1934 at forty-three million dollars, thus stabilizing the borrowing power of the board. More revenue would be obtained in this manner, Folsom said, than by using existing tax rates in the face of greatly reduced valuations on property.

Hear Teachers' Official.

Under the request of Joseph L. Ratefun [Dem., Chicago] a hearing was granted Robert Moore, secretary of the Illinois State Teachers' association. The teachers' delegation that came to Springfield was made up of members of the Chicago division of this association.

Moore declared that the legislature should increase the state distributive fund to $30,000,000 or $35,000,000 annually. He told the representatives that a bill was being prepared to distribute to school districts $20 per pupil in average daily attendance instead of the present $9 basis.

"The great state of Illinois must accept its share of responsibility for the schools," said Moore. "In New York more than $100,000,000 is appropriated for this purpose by the state."

Representative Frank A. McCarthy [Rep., Elgin] introduced a bill providing that the gasoline tax be apportioned one-half to the state, one-third to cities, and one-sixth to the counties.

SCHOOL BOARD SAYS IT WILL PAY BILL FOR LIBRARIANS

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, announced yesterday at a board meeting that arrangements had been completed with the public library board for continuing the high school libraries.

Trustee Irwin N. Walker explained that the school board will reimburse the library board for the $109,000 paid in salaries to forty-nine school librarians. The $109,000 payment will be made in instalments when the school teachers receive their pay, he said.

The school trustees also agreed to pay the library board $6,000 each month for the current salaries of the librarians. Carl D. Roden, librarian of the public library, directed the school librarians to remain at work and not to leave their jobs today, as the library board recently ordered.

Robbers Steal a $3,000 Collection of Rare Coins

Two gunmen held up the Polish Foreign exchange at 1124 North Damen avenue last evening and forced Casimir Damez, the manager, to open the safe. The men pocketed $800 in currency and then took a collection of rare Etruscan, Roman, and ancient Greek coins owned by Damez. He reported to police that the coins were valued at $3,000.

The Fillmore street police last night started an investigation of a stench bomb tossed into the Smith beauty shop in the Parkside hotel, 212 North Hamlin avenue.

PREDICT IGOE'S RE-ELECTION TO SO. PARK BOARD

Michael L. Igoe, it was said last night, is certain of reelection by the Circuit court judges today as a member of the south park board. His five year term expires this year. There are five board members, with one term expiring each year. The judges will meet in the chambers of Chief Justice Normoyle at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

"I have heard of no other candidate," said Mayor Kelly when asked about the accuracy of the Igoe forecasts.

Eleven of the 19 present Circuit judges are Democrats and some of them said no other name or names had been presented to them. Some of the Republicans said they had heard of no candidate from their party.

FRED STERLING'S PERSONAL ESTATE PUT AT $100,000

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The will of Fred E. Sterling, former lieutenant governor of Illinois and Rockford newspaper publisher, who died two weeks ago, today was filed for probate.

It disposes of personal property valued at $100,000, which is to go to the widow, Anna C. Sterling, and two children, Arthur Edward and Olive Irene, share and share alike.

The will was dated Dec. 28, 1918. It names the widow as executrix. No real estate holdings were listed in the will.

Mrs. John H. McIlvaine in Reno; Silent on Divorce

Dispatches from Reno, Nev., yesterday stated that Mrs. John H. McIlvaine, well known in Chicago and Lake Forest society, was a guest in a hotel there and had announced an intention of establishing a Nevada residence. She declined, however, to discuss rumors that she intended to sue for divorce "until I have consulted my attorney." Mrs. McIlvaine was formerly Miss Margaret Pullman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pullman. The couple were married in 1919.

LEBENSBERGER'S LIQUORS SOLD BY THE U. S. FOR $260

The wines, whiskies, and brandies kept by Edgar B. Lebensberger, who supposedly committed suicide while he was under federal indictment for disposing of bonds taken in a loop mail robbery, were sold for $260 yesterday by United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer. The cellar consisted of 156 bottles of imported spirits, none of which bore federal revenue stamps or customs labels. Of the purchase price $142 will be sent to the customs and internal revenue offices and the remainder to the treasury department. The purchaser was Harold V. Tate, a salesman, who refused to disclose the identity of his client. Lebensberger, a night club operator, was found shot to death in his apartment three months ago.

Policeman Accused of Seeking Bribe Ousted

Policeman John H. Donlon of the Albany Park station was ordered discharged by the civil service commission yesterday, after he had been tried on charges of soliciting $5 for making a false official report on a burglary loss.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches; pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestine the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralising gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.—Advertisement.

FILE FOR LOCAL OPTION VOTE IN 19 CITY PRECINCTS

Dozen Suburbs to Ballot on Liquor Question.

Voters in at least a dozen Chicago suburbs will vote in April on the question of whether their municipalities shall be dry territory. But within the city only 19 precincts have so far been placed on the list of communities whoch will vote on that question this spring.

Today is the last day for filing petitions for referendum votes under the local option provisions of the new state liquor law, which became effective on Feb. 1. The petitions require the signatures of 25 per cent of the voters within the affected territory, the percentage being based on the total number of votes cast in the last election for governor.

In suburban cities and villages which have been anti-saloon ground ever since they were founded no difficulty has been encountered in completing these relatively large petitions. But in Chicago, it is said, the collection of the necessary signatures has been a difficult task in some neighborhoods.

Cover Small City Areas.

Within Chicago a vote may be had in any election precinct or group of precincts provided that no two points within the district involved are more than one mile apart. Therefore the Chicago petitions cover only small sections of the city. Each of the suburban cities, villages, and towns, however, must vote as a complete unit. Petitions of this sort, therefore, cover large areas in some instances.

Townships and road districts or parts of either of them also may petition for the taking of a vote, but only a few of these are expected in Cook county. One notable exception, however, already has appeared. The liquor question is to be submitted to the voters of New Trier township living outside the borders of its municipalities.

This move has a direct purpose. It is directed at "No Man's land," a small section lying between Wilmette and Kenilworth, where it had been predicted liquor might flow freely by county and state license although the two contiguous villages might be everlastingly dry.

Chicago Vote on April 10.

That Chicago vote will be taken on April 10, the day of the state and county primaries, but many of the suburbs will vote on the liquor question on the dates of their municipal elections, some of which fall on April 3 and others on April 17.

All of the north shore suburbs within Cook county apparently will vote next month. There have been no petitions filed in Evanston, home of the national W. C. T. U., but it is reported that petitions for both forms of votes permitted under the law will be filed today. One of these questions is whether retail sale of alcoholic liquor shall be prohibited. The other is whether the sale of alcholic liquor "other than beer containing not more than 4 per cent of alcohol by weight" shall be banned. Evanston votes on April 3.

Winnetka is to vote on the question of forbidding liquor on April 3 and Wilmette on April 17. The Kenilworth and Glencoe petitions are expected to be filed today. Park Ridge, another northern suburb away from the lake front, is to vote on April 17.

In the Northern Suburbs.

In Lake county, further north, the dry suburbs of Highland Park and Lake Forest hold that they do not need to take a vote—that their local officials will never issue licenses. Highwood, North Chicago, and Waukegan show no signs of even considering dryness. Zion is to vote on the question.

Among the western suburbs voting on the alcohol question has already been made certain for Maywood, Western Springs, and La Grange. It is reported that petitions for submitting the question in Oak Park, River Forest, and Riverside will be filed today. No trace of petitions has been found in Elmhurst or Brookfield.

To the southward, reports indicate, most of the suburbs are inclined toward wetness. This group is said to include Harvey, Chicago Heights, Calumet City, Blue Island, Homewood, Thornton, and South Holland.

The Chicago Petitions.

Petitions covering Chicago precincts filed with City Clerk Brady up to last night included one precinct in the 6th ward, one in the 17th, and 17 in the 19th ward, all of them in the lower half of the south side.

The state law requires that the precinct boundaries of November, 1932, be followed in local option matters. Many boundaries have been changed since then.

Plan Lake County Control.

Sixty-five officials of cities and villages in Lake county met at Mundelein last night and formed the Lake County Municipal Liquor Regulation league. Two-thirds of the municipalities in the county were represented at the gathering. The conferees passed a resolution to request the Lake county board of supervisors to fix the license fee for saloons operated outside municipalities so that they will coincide with fees for saloons in most of the cities and villages.

DORIS KENYON.
[Acme Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—How and why Doris Kenyon, movie and stage actress, and Arthur Hopkins, wealthy Syracuse, N. Y., real estate man, separated 54 days after their marriage was told today in Superior court, where they were divorced.

Mrs. Mabel Haanel, the actress' sister, testified Hopkins told her "I not only think Doris made a mistake, but I made a mistake also—she likes to go to bed at 9 oclock and I like to stay up, and we don't seem to get along."

Miss Kenyon said he swore at her, called her names, wanted to stay up late at night, go out to night clubs, and created scenes when she talked to other men, including her agents, calling by telephone.

The actress, widow of the late Milton Sills of the movies, and Hopkins, her former childhood schoolmate, were married at her Brentwood home, near here, last June 14. Miss Kenyon said Hopkins left her Aug. 7.

WIFE OF PINCHOT JOINS ATTACK ON NRA AND CODES

Charges It Surrenders to Steel Trust.

workers see is that Weir has power to defy the government, and all they hear is a silence by NRA so dramatic that its power is almost enough to shake their faith in the United States government."

Called Signal to Chiselers.

She charged that the failure of the NRA to strike in the Weirton and Budd cases had been taken as a signal by lesser fry that "they could chisel and get away with it."

"Until men like Weir and Budd are made to obey the law there is no sense taking the Blue Eagle away from little beauty shops and restaurants," she exclaimed.

"I agree with you heartily," interjected Assistant Secretary of Labor McGrady.

"The faith of the workers in Franklin Roosevelt is not shaken," Mrs. Pinchot went on, "but they feel he is betrayed by those who will not enforce the law."

Plight of Small Business.

The plight of the small business men under NRA codes came in for a great share of attention again today. At this hearing one of the chief witnesses was Crosby Field, Brooklyn manufacturer, who declared that the NRA had stifled initiative and invention by restricting production.

In many codes, Mr. Field pointed out, members of an industry are restricted from making any additions to the equipment in their plants. This has resulted, he said, in preventing invention and improvement, especially in the small industrial units.

"Almost without exception," he asserted, "inventions are designed and perfected by owners of small and efficient businesses. Their best chances of success lie in doing things cheaper or better than the big fellows, but in this case, with expansion forbidden except by consent of code authorities which are dominated by the big fellows, progress is prevented.

"Small companies will assume risks in producing new articles while big companies, having spent millions in setting up machinery to do things in a certain way, actually oppose inventions or betterments which would put their equipment out of date."

Mr. Field found in the code authorities either "the worst burocracy the country has ever known," or "a system of rackets." If the government does not control the authorities, he said, the members will oppress the small businesses. If it does control the authorities, it must, he said, by means of an immense burocracy.

A humble touch was supplied by Mrs. Ruth Scott of Boston, appearing, she said, for her brother who worked in a Boston theater.

"By combining his jobs around the theater," she said, "my brother had been able before NRA to make $21 a week sufficient to support his wife and baby. Now his hours are shortened and he makes only $12 a week and he can't possibly make both ends meet. It's true he has more spare time, but all he can do with it is to sit around and brood about not being able to make a living."

Communist and Johnson Clash.

Gen. Johnson's first run in today was with Robert Minor, representative of the communist party, who charged the NRA was oppressing the workers. He appeared at a hearing in the Mayflower hotel.

"You are making a lot of criticisms around here," Gen. Johnson replied, "why don't you come and join our organization and let us have the benefit of your knowledge? We welcome criticism if it's intelligent."

"I couldn't work with you," Minor shouted back, "unless I succeed in converting you to the revolution." This brought a general laugh, and soon afterward Johnson left the room.

He went to another hotel and entered into a discussion with two representatives of independent financing firms.

Crepe on Tax Notice and but 8 of 2,500 Pay It

Parma, Mich., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Public attitude here toward the Michigan state poll tax of $2 was manifested by the wag who decorated the large tax notice in the postoffice with black crape tonight. With the dead line March 1, after which those who have not paid face a penalty of 90 days in jail or $100 fines or both, the treasurer's report tonight indicated that only eight persons out of 2,500 eligible have paid.

REFUSE TO BARE DETAILS OF WAR DEBT SITUATION

Sidetrack Demand for Information.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A changed sentiment concerning payment of the war debts was prominent in the senate today as the Democratic majority crushed out a Republican attempt to request President Roosevelt to report any negotiations concerning revision of the debts or the acceptance of "token payments."

Though denying that any negotiations looking to revision had taken place, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, in a speech opposing the Republican effort, openly referred to the necessity of some further concession on the part of the United States if any further payments whatsoever are to be made.

Sidetracks Demand for Information.

The Democratic leadership effectively closed the debate by sidetracking into the foreign relations committee a resolution by Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.] asking the President, if not incompatible with public interest, to inform the senate by what agreements he had accepted partial payments from Great Britain, Italy and Czechoslovakia and had recognized them as not in default.

It also asked what steps, if any, have been taken to induce defaulting nations to pay; whether any understandings have been reached concerning revision; and whether any assurances have been given linking debt payments with tariff concessions.

Opinion Changes Since 1931.

Only 15 Republicans voted against committing the resolution. In favor of the action were 42 Democrats, Senator William E. Borah, insurgent Republican, and Senator Shipstead, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite.

The vote indicated a considerable change from the opinion held in the senate in December, 1931, when the Hoover moratorium resolution was passed successfully only after it had been amended to include a reservation reiterating congress' unalterable opposition to revision or cancelation of the debts.

"The subject matter is not so simple that it can be resolved by simply saying that these debts must be paid," Democratic Leader Robinson said.

"In some of the debtor countries public sentiment is such that the governments fear they cannot sustain themselves if the obligations are discharged in accordance with the terms of the contracts. It does not accomplish any very wholesome result for us to denounce that state of public mind. It is a circumstance which we cannot overcome.

"We can take a course that will freeze the issue, so that the debtors will never pay, so that we will never compromise; and that is the trend of the effect of the procedure under the resolution of the senator from Indiana."

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] joined the Democratic leader in charging that the Indiana senator's resolution was politically inspired.

"Any attempt in the meantime to charge that we have abandoned the collection of the debts, or that we have failed to press them, is a manifest misrepresentation," Senator Lewis said.

ONLY THE CENTER LEAVES FOR Luckies

1 Luckies do not use the top leaves . . . because top leaves are underdeveloped . . . they are not ripe . . . They would give a harsh smoke.

2 Luckies use only the center leaves of the finest tobacco plants . . . because the center leaves are the mildest, tenderest, smoothest.

3 Luckies do not use the bottom leaves, because bottom leaves are inferior in quality. They grow close to the ground, and are tough, coarse and always sandy.

This picture tells better than words the merit of your Lucky Strike. Luckies use only the center leaves. Not the top leaves, because those are underdeveloped—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves, because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are tough, coarse and always sandy. The center leaves are the mildest leaves, the finest in quality. These center leaves are cut into long, even strands and are fully packed into each and every Lucky—giving you a cigarette that is always round, firm, completely filled—no loose ends. Is it any wonder that Luckies are so truly mild and smooth? And in addition, you know, "It's toasted"—for throat protection, for finer taste.

SON OF SMOOT TELLS OF AIR LINE LOBBYING JOB

Father Denies Helping Him Win Contract.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Ernest W. Smoot, son of the former senator from Utah, recounted to a senate committee today a story of his earnings as a representative of various business interests, including an airline, while on the pay roll of the senate finance committee.

The total ran up to $19,750, young Smoot said. He related he had received a salary from Wulfsohn & Co., a fur importing concern, for a number of years.

Can't Recall Work Done.

"What did Wulfsohn pay you a salary for?" asked Senator Black [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the committee.

"I don't know," Smoot replied.

The testimony was given during questioning about young Smoot's actions as a representative of Western Air Express in the effort of that concern to retain an air mail contract. He said he was retained to keep in touch with the controler general's office and the house postoffice committee.

The controler general had held up payment on the contract on the ground that it was not let to the low bidder. That order later was rescinded.

Makes $15,000 Charge.

Young Smoot sent the company a bill for $15,000 "for the specific services you instructed me on Nov. 13 to perform in Washington." The company refused to pay that amount and he received $2,500.

Smoot said his father had taken the contract matter up once with former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown.

In Salt Lake City, however, the former senator said he had "no connections whatever" with any air mail contracts or aviation companies, and knew nothing of any connection his son may have had with Western Air.

The elder Smoot said he did not know James G. Woolley, a former official of Western Air who had testified that the former senator aided in obtaining its contract. Ex-senator Smoot ridiculed the idea that he could join with Representative John Q. Tilson, former Republican floor leader of the house, in promising there would be no attack in congress on awarding the contract to the high bidder, adding "it's an absolute falsehood."

Woolley Brings in Smoot.

Woolley had testified that postoffice department officials had said the contract would not be awarded without word from Senator Smoot and former Representative Tilson of Connecticut. Woolley produced a telegram bearing Ernest Smoot's name which said "if nothing happens first next week my father and I will see McCarl again." McCarl is the controler general who held up payment on the contract.

Young Smoot said other companies he represented included E. D. Alvord Jr., and the firm of Donovan & Bond, handling some matters for them before the customs bureau in 1930. He said he thought he resigned from the senate committee post at about that time, but agreed that his salary was paid for the entire year.

Father Head of Committee.

Senator Smoot was chairman of the finance committee during the period his son was employed as a clerk for that committee.

Testimony was given that Senator Smoot refused to sign a letter to McCarl that had been written by Western Air Express.

Letters from Woolley to young Smoot were put into the record, saying "we'd like to have your father use his very important influence" and that the company regarded "yourself and your father as one of our major assets."

A large part of the earnings disclosed by Smoot was $13,000 paid him by Vanderhoof & Co., for publicity work in connection with a tariff to protect sugar beets.

Young Smoot said a payment of $1,750 was made to him by E. S. Anderson, who was in partnership with his brother in a contract to feed workers on the Boulder dam project.

RUSSIAN PLANE PICKS UP 20 FROM CASPIAN SEA ICE

ASTRAKHAN, U. S. S. R., Dec. 28.—(AP)—With the help of an airplane 20 of the 500 fishermen marooned on the ice floes of the Caspian sea reached shore safely today.

The rescue plane landed on an ice floe which bore more than 100 men. It distributed food to the marooned fishermen, then, after an aerial survey, guided 20 of them to land across the drifting ice.

An ice breaker and more airplanes now are making efforts to reach the other men. If the present favorable weather continues the rescue parties hope to save all.

Lincoln Park Plants Trees Along New Outer Drive

1,200 Trees are Planted on New Lincoln Park Fill-in Approximately $7,000,000 has been spent to date on the fill-in project under construction on the lake front between Montrose avenue and Foster avenue, Hugh E. Young, consulting engineer for the Lincoln park board, announced yesterday. He estimated that an additional $2,000,000 will be needed to complete the program which was worked out by the Chicago plan commission.

A survey yesterday showed that during recent weeks workmen have planted more than 1,200 trees on the newly made land. The trees range in size from four to fourteen inches in diameter at the base and the variety includes honey locust, ash, elm, maple, horse chestnut and others. When the project is completed the area will be transformed into a beautiful park.

Lay Out Flower Gardens.

Workmen yesterday were planting shrubbery and laying out flower gardens and leveling off the land preparatory to seeding it to grass. A bathing beach was opened on the new land last summer. It is three quarters of a mile long and is one of the finest in the country. The project also calls for the construction of a seawall from the north end of the beach at Lawrence avenue to Foster avenue.

More than 300 acres of new land was created by the dumping of 12 million cubic yards of sand, clay, and dirt, most of the sand being pumped from the lake. The area was surfaced by a spread of 180,000 cubic yards of soil excavated from the drainage canal. A 30 acre harbor has been laid out at the south end of the new park.

Two Years' More Work.

Work still to be done, Mr. Young declared, includes the building of better bath house facilities, park offices, rest rooms, and playgrounds. He estimated that the program can be completed in another two years if funds are made available. Of the amount of money already spent, $1,400,000 was contributed by the Civil Works administration. The balance came out of the pockets of the taxpayers in the Lincoln park district.

Since Dec. 1 the project has provided work for 1,500 CWA employes. This is exclusive of the 3,000 workers employed for a month hauling the dirt and clay from the banks of the drainage canal.

Park authorities plan to forbid trespassing in the park this year until a heavy growth of grass comes up. However, all other facilities of the park will be available.

SCHALL LABELS WIRE RULE MOVE TO CENSOR NEWS

Warns Newspapers to Fight Plan.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Senator Schall [Rep., Minn.] said in a statement today that newspapers are confronted with censorship by the "demand" of President Roosevelt for a federal communications commission.

"The newspapers of the United States," he said, "are about to have themselves censored. After battling for months to force the Roosevelt administration to guarantee freedom of the press in the publishers code they now find themselves confronted with the very same censorship by the demand of the President for a federal communications commission.

"Under such a commission every press dispatch and every cable massage can be censored by the administration. What have the newspapers gained by their code fight if they permit their news dispatches to be censored?

"With a system as suggested by the President not one word of the skullduggery committed in Washington could reach the people of the United States.

"Not a publisher up to date has sensed the danger in the demand sent to congress.

"What the newspapers and the people of the United States need most at the present moment is a legislative bureau in Washington to follow all legislation introduced and see to it that the dictatorship now in the making is thwarted."

CONFESS ROBBING SIXTY COUPLES IN PARKED AUTOS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 21; recovered, 30; stripped, 2 [from police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Tuesday].

Two young bandits confessed to police yesterday after their arrest that they had robbed more than sixty couples in the last six months in parks on the northwest side. Less than twenty of these robberies, it was learned, had been reported to the police.

"In all the robberies we were particular to pick out a man and a woman sitting in a parked car early in the morning," the prisoners explained. "We knew a lot of the couples were married men and women out with somebody else and that they couldn't complain. We knew that most of the time there wouldn't be any report made and we told our victims they wouldn't be hurt and no one would be the wiser if they went along with us and didn't tell the police. We never bothered the girls."

STEAL AUTO FROM GARAGE.

An experimental air express shipment passed through Chicago yesterday on United Air Lines en route from Dallas to New York. Six cases of grapefruit, grown on a ranch owned by Marion Sterling, pilot on the Chicago-New York route of the air line, were sent east to fill an order for the fruit. It was picked in Texas in the morning and arrived in New York the next day.

Air mail service from Chicago to the Twin Cities and to Winnipeg, Canada, will be resumed by the army's air mail organization in a few days, Col. Horace M. Hickam, commander of the central zone, said yesterday. Planes and pilots for this route, which was discontinued when the air mail contract held by a commercial line was canceled, are being assembled, he said. Operation of the route will begin as soon as the preparations are completed.

KANSAS AIR LINE QUITS TILL U. S. SETTLES ROW

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 28.—(AP)—W. A. Letson, president of the United States Airways, Inc., announced today the line would suspend operations immediately.

The company operates between Kansas City and Denver. Approximately 40 employes will be retained at moderate salaries pending the outcome of air mail hearings at Washington, Letson said.

RAINEY ASSAILS ARMY AIR CORPS AS INEFFICIENT

"Proven by Emergency"; Pities Force in War.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Speaker Rainey today said the army air corps was inefficient and poorly trained and indicated that he would support the McSwain resolution for investigation of war department methods.

"We have found out in the air mail emergency," the speaker said, "that the army pilots are not properly trained and don't understand beam flying. If we are unfortunate enough to be drawn into another war, the air corps wouldn't amount to much. If it is not equal to carrying the mails, I would like to know what it would do in carrying bombs."

Blames Republicans.

"It appears," Mr. Rainey added, "that the Democratic administration has got another job as a result of the inefficiency and neglect of the three previous Republican administrations."

The McSwain resolution has been appointed by the house rules committee and will be submitted to the house shortly.

Maj. Gen. Benjamin Foulois, chief of the army air corps, defended his men, saying that despite frightful atmospheric conditions the number of accidents has been kept to a minimum.

An important conference was held at the White House today on the air mail question, about which the secrecy was maintained. No decision was reached, it was said, but President Roosevelt ordered that another meeting be held within forty-eight hours.

New Fatality.

Another fatality was added today to the total of air corps crashes since Feb. 10 which led Speaker Rainey to make his statement when Capt. Wendell H. Brookley was killed near Boiling field.

Under instructions from the chief of the air corps, the personnel and equipment at Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., which is some 114 miles south of Chicago, has been placed under the control of the commanding officer of the central zone of the army air corps air mail operations.

ARMY FLYER KILLED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Capt. Wendell H. Brookley was killed, and Capt. Merrick G. Estabrook Jr., seriously injured late today when their two-seated training plane crashed near Boiling field.

Capt. Brookley was reported to have jumped from the plane at an altitude of 300 feet, dying in the fall when his parachute failed to open.

Capt. Estabrook was taken from the wrecked machine to the Boiling Field Emergency hospital, suffering from a compound fracture of the right thigh, severe shock, and possible internal injuries. He was transferred to Walter Reed General hospital, where his condition was described serious, but he was expected to recover.

Both officers were attached to the office of Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of air corps, and were making a routine training flight.

A board of air corps officers was convened immediately to investigate.

Gen. Foulois said both officers were good pilots. He added that neither was in any way connected with the air mail.

3 SOVIET FLYERS SAIL FOR U. S. TO AID IN ICE RESCUE

MOSCOW, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Three of soviet Russia's foremost arctic flyers were en route to the United States tonight to participate, if necessary, in the rescue of 101 persons stranded on ice floes in the Bering sea.

The pilots, who may work from Alaska, were S. A. Levenevsky, who flew to the aid of the American aviator, James J. Mattern, forced down at Anadyr last summer on his flight around the world; G. A. Ushakov, and M. Slepnev. They are aboard the liner Olympic, bound for New York, a government official announced.

The flyers have orders to proceed to Washington and await instructions from Moscow. They did not carry their own planes and probably will rely on American machines to take them to Nome if they are sent to join in the relief operations.

Asked whether the United States government has been requested to assist in the rescue, the official said specific assistance "has not been asked," but indicated that any help from American quarters would be received gratefully by the soviet government.

BREAK THAT COLD IN 5 SHORT HOURS

Fight It 8 Ways At Once Through "Mass Attack", With Physician's Modern Discovery

Never again need you let a common cold run its course. Avoid half-way measures. Overlook no symptoms. They all mean something! Fight them all at once with Dr. Platt's Rinex Prescription.

In not merely one, two or three ways does Rinex attack colds. Its effectiveness is eight-fold! See for yourself how it overlooks no chance to bring relief. And quick relief. Just see how much better you feel in 30 minutes!

Why It Acts Quickly

Let the discoverer, M. G. Platt, M.D., tell you why. "A cold should be fought in 8 different ways. Rinex actually does. 1. It quickly clears the head, making breathing easy. 2. It tends to prevent or allay spasms of the bronchial tubes. 3. It reduces attendant fever. 4. It promptly and safely relieves headache and associated pains and discomforts. 5. It safely soothes the nerves, without the use of narcotics. 6. It stimulates gently, relieving that dull-minded, depressed feeling. 7. It reduces acidity, which is frequently a contributing cause. 8. It provides the means for adding to the calcium content of the blood, often deficient in cold conditions. A cold is in the system, and that is why, to control it, you must reach it internally." Is it any wonder, now, that so many people have discarded hit-or-miss methods of fighting colds! Is it any wonder that Rinex has quickly relieved so many thousands of people!

Easy to Take

If you are in misery from a cold right now, take Rinex. With a glass of water, wash down two tasteless Rinex capsules and one Rinex tablet... Sneezing and wheezing stop. Running nose clears up like magic. Itching eyes feel free, your head clears. Pep returns, and you feel well!

Rinex is perfectly safe and not habit-forming. It is a godsend to sufferers of head colds, nasal catarrh and asthmatic paroxysms.

The people who make Rinex have known it to check the suffering of so many thousands so quickly that they actually guarantee blessed relief from colds in 5 hours! If your cold is different from thousands of others—you get back every penny Rinex cost you.

A Word of Warning

Be sure you ask for Rinex and be sure you get what you ask for. Look for Dr. Platt's name on the label. More than 10,000 druggists recommend Rinex to all their customers. If your druggist offers you a substitute he is not worthy of your confidence.

Rinex, the quick-acting, effective cold remedy, in the liberal size bottle, is 95c. Get Rinex now. Take it at once—see how much better you feel in 30 minutes.

YOUR GUARANTEE
If a 5-hour Rinex treatment does not bring you satisfactory relief, your druggist is authorized to refund the full purchase price without any questions.

RELIEF PROJECT CARRIES THREAT OF INFLATION

Likely to Run Far Above Budget.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—With President Roosevelt promulgating today a new federal relief program, including indefinite continuation of the CWA in cities, that is likely to exceed present estimates of cost and with previously effected economies in federal expenditures being steadily pared away, conservative members of the administration are questioning the possibility of balancing the budget as early as 1936.

One of the most important officials having to do with the fiscal policies of the government told me tonight that at the rate actual and prospective expenditures are exceeding the President's budget estimates sent to congress last January, an inflation of the currency to pay current bills will be inevitable in the not distant future.

Two Billions for Relief.

Altogether congress has voted 2 billion 558 million dollars for unemployment relief. The items are 300 millions under the Hoover administration, 500 millions at the beginning of the Roosevelt administration, 400 millions diverted from the public works fund to finance the CWA, 408 millions for the CCC, and 950 millions recently voted for the CWA and relief of the destitute. Of this aggregate 1 billion 407 millions have been expended up to date.

To finance relief and additional public works until June 30, 1935, the President in his budget message last January estimated that 3 billions 166 millions would be required. The 950 millions recently voted is a part of this amount. The President is about to ask congress to appropriate the remainder.

Of the 950 millions the President calculates that 450 millions will have been expended on the CWA and other relief undertakings by July 1, next, leaving 500 millions, which he thinks will be sufficient for the next fiscal year.

Depends on Business.

Whether this is possible depends on the extent to which business revival absorbs the unemployed. The President for weeks has been saying that the CWA would be terminated in May. Opposition to this program sprang up at once on the part of those on the CWA pay rolls and on the part of senators and representatives who are candidates for reelection next fall. With the greatest difficulty the administration staved off moves in congress to boost the 950 millions authorization to 2 billions, or enough to run the CWA until November, when the elections take place, as was brought out in senate debate.

Likely to Exceed Budget.

To the pressure to continue the CWA the President has now yielded to the extent of retaining the institution for unemployment relief in cities. What with this and some new features of the revised relief program Mr. Roosevelt announced today it will occasion little surprise if the expenditures thereon greatly exceed budget estimates.

With expenditures increasing the much vaunted economies accomplished in the early part of the Roosevelt administration are in process of being tremendously diminished. The administration claimed last spring that the cost of the federal government had been cut more than 700 millions. The principal items were 410 millions by reduction of veterans' benefits and about 200 millions by the 15 per cent cut in the pay of government employés.

Further Reduces Savings.

Before the last session of congress adjourned, however, 50 millions of the veterans' item had been rescinded. The President by executive order reduced the saving 21 millions more. In the last few days the senate has voted to restore veterans' benefits aggregating 193 million 800 thousand dollars. If the action of the senate becomes law, the economy produced by the revision of veterans' allowances will have been reduced from 410 millions to 166 millions 200 thousand.

In addition the senate voted to restore the government employés' salaries, which would increase budget estimates to the extent of $215,993,124. Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] estimated that in these ways an aggregate of $354,432,124 will be eliminated from the savings under the economy program. To cover such amounts appropriations in excess of budget estimates will be required.

It was a three point relief program that the President made public today. In addition to continuation of the CWA in cities, relief of distressed families in rural regions is to be placed on a new basis and the government is to undertake the transportation of entire communities from nonoperating coal mine localities and similar centers of unemployment to the subsistence homestead colonies which are being created with 25 millions of public works funds.

In rural regions families in distress are to be helped to raise enough food for subsistence and to get part time employment in industries and on road building and other public works.

Communities of miners, out of work because of the closing down of coal mines, the President calls "stranded populations." They were left stranded when work gave out and there is no prospect of a resumption of mine operations.

To Move Stranded Families.

In most cases the mines have been exhausted. The President said the undertaking would be to move unapprecable number of such families to localities where they can maintain themselves on small tracts of land with incidental industrial employment which is the subsistence homestead idea now being tried out at Reedsville, W. Va.

The President said that an effort will be made to purge the CWA rolls of undeserving persons. Of the four million persons on CWA pay rolls it was found that only 2 millions had been taken off the previous rolls of outright relief payments. The other 2 millions were persons who had not been receiving relief, but represented themselves as unemployed. How many were the heelers of politicians and how many were drawn from the ranks of the habitually unemployed in normal times can only be surmised.

North Side Citizens Plan 15 Million Housing Project

A committee of citizens has drafted a fifteen million dollar federal housing project for the near north side, it was learned yesterday. The project was designed to rehabilitate blighted areas within the rectangle formed by Chicago avenue and Wells, Division and Larrabee streets, and the triangle formed by Ogden avenue, Clybourn avenue, and Division street.

The proposition has no political, sectarian, or profit interests, it was asserted. It is being supported by the North Central association and a committee of citizens of which Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti is chairman. Members of the committee include Col. Harry Barrett Chamberlin of the Chicago Crime commission, State Senator Richey V. Graham, George W. Dixon, John F. Cuneo, Joshua D'Esposito, noted engineer, and Edward B. Davidson, assistant business manager of Northwestern university.

Plans and specifications for the project have already been submitted to the Federal Emergency Housing corporation at Washington. They set forth a proposition similar to the eighteen million dollar housing plan proposed for the south side district bounded by 35th and 37th streets and Cottage Grove and Rhodes avenues.

A survey made of the sites included in the north side project showed that housing conditions there are harmful and unhealthy. It was declared that crime and misery abound and that contiguous areas are becoming similarly blighted as a result of that district's condition.

The housing plans, it was stated, would provide abodes for the present population as well as hundreds of families residing in adjacent areas. A minimum charge of $12 a month would be made for apartments and $5 a month for single rooms under the present draft. The project affects a present population of 3,651 families, of which 581 are colored and 2,295 are foreign born.

DISSOLVE STATE PWA COMMITTEE; FUNDS ARE GONE

The Illinois advisory committee of the Public Works administration was dissolved yesterday with the announcement from Washington that PWA funds allocated for disbursement within Illinois have been exhausted. The termination of the state advisory group, however, will not affect the application for PWA funds for federal projects within the state such as the improvement of the Calumet harbor and the Calumet-Sag channel, both of which are under the supervision of the war department.

During the seven months the state advisory committee functioned, it received petitions from municipalities in Illinois for loans and grants totaling $188,749,117, to be spent on 502 projects. The committee held 447 public hearings and submitted reports to Washington on 348 projects involving expenditures of $141,472,000. Officials in Washington approved 84 of the applications involving requests for $61,914,040, and 72 applicants received loan and grant agreements.

The staf o state engineers under Joshua D'Esposito, which coöperated with the committee, will continue its work by supervising the construction and spending of the government funds on the approved projects.

GEORGE W. LAWS IS RETIRED AS A REAR ADMIRAL

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Rear Admiral George William Laws, whose 40 years of distinguished service sit lightly on him, retired today to devote himself to the serious business of improving his golf.

At sunset, the two-star flag of the 12th naval district commandant was to be hauled down as 13 guns boomed in formal salute to the retiring officer.

A native of Shenandoah, Ia., he was president of his graduating class at Annapolis in 1891. He played on the first naval academy football team to meet West Point.

During the Spanish-American war he served on the U. S. S. Justin, and for his services in the world war, he won the navy cross.

SENATE WOULD PAY CALIFORNIA CIVIL WAR DEBT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The senate today passed a bill authorizing payment of $6,642,145 to California as reimbursement of money spent in aid of the federal government during the civil war. The house has yet to act.

The senate six times previously had passed such a bill without favorable action by the house.

The money was spent by California for its volunteer troops.

The expenditures were made under direct authority of the President and secretary of the war and with the understanding, the report said, that the state would be reimbursed.

LADY SENATOR'S BEAUTY "TIPS" SAVE HEARING

Mrs. Caraway Proves Her "Right to Job!"

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Any of you reactionary men who may have had your moments of doubt about the advisability of sending a woman to the United States senate had better eat your words before you read this piece.

For its thesis is that Hattie Caraway, the lady from Arkansas certainly justified her job today when, as a member of the senate commerce committee holding a hearing on the pure food, drug, and cosmetic bill, she explained about rouge and powder to her mystified and masculine colleagues.

Clears Wrinkled Brows.

Every time Senator Murphy, the new Iowa Democrat, looked perplexed when the talk turned to eyebrow pencils, Senator Caraway would whisper to him, and his brow would clear. And when Senator Overton, Huey Long's Louisiana buddy, fumbled awkwardly with tubes of beauty unguents, it was Senator Caraway who told him what it was all about.

As for Senator Stephens, lanky Mississippian who is chairman of the committee, he would have been hopelessly confused if he coudn't have held up a paper before him, and, hiding behind it, held a cosmetic conference with the lady senator and maybe the witnesses didn't see how the land lay.

They addressed their remarks to "Mme. Senator." Whenever they had a sample to show the committee, they handed it, gallantly, to Mrs. Caraway.

Take, for instance, the case of Hugo Mock, who appeared for the Associated Manufacturers of Toilet Articles. Mr. Mock didn't like that provision in the bill which calls for any cosmetic adulterated which contains "any poisonous or deleterious substance" in such a quantity as to render it "injurious to the user." He wanted the wording changed to "average user." Many products, he argued, which are perfectly harmless to the "average" user, might cause a skin irritation to a person with an extra sensitive skin.

He dug deep in a bulging brief case, pulled out a bright green tube of paste.

"This," he said, "is a depilatory that has been on the market for many, many years." As he talked he tossed the tube on to the committee table. Senator Overton, a little pudgy, but very gallant, jumped to his feet, reached across the table, caught up the tube, handed it over to Hattie Caraway.

"Now depilatories," Mr. Mock continued, "have sulphides; they don't hurt the average user."

Senator Stephens looked dazed. He wrinkled up his forehead. Then he stretched out a long hand, took the bright green tube from Mrs. Caraway, and whispered to her:

"What is this stuff, anyway?"

Senator Caraway to Rescue.

Patiently, the senator from Arkansas told the senator from Mississippi what "the stuff" was.

By this time Mr. Mock was off the subject of depilatories and on the subject of deodorants. "A deodorant is used," he put it very bluntly, "to check the effects of sweating."

"It is usually used," again he was blunt, "by ladies."

This discussion completely stymied Senator Overton. Helpless, he turned to the lady at his right. She cleared up the difficulty for him, and he turned back to listen to Mr. Mock.

Once the testimony grew so dull, and the room grew so hot, that Senator Caraway closed her eyes, but only for a moment. Her male colleagues wouldn't even permit her a cat-nap, so eager were they for her information on this subject of cosmetics.

By the way, Hattie Caraway uses no rouge, no lipstick, no eyebrow pencil. She does flick powder over her cheeks, but most judiciously.

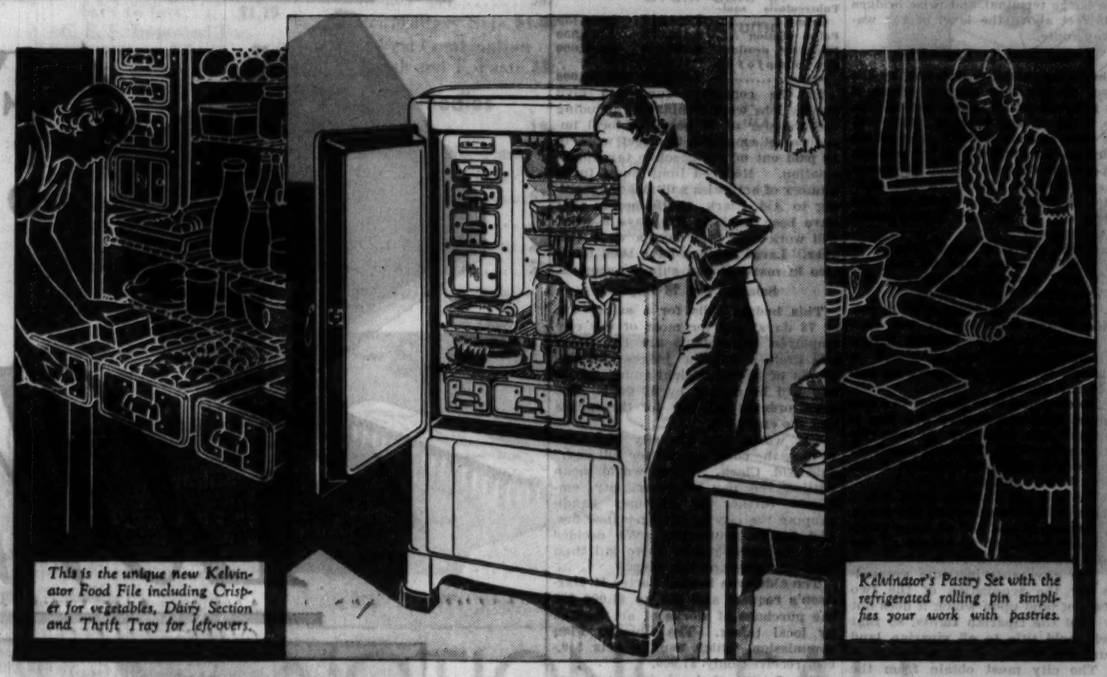
The 20TH Anniversary KELVINATOR



This is the unique new Kelvinator Food File including Crisper for vegetables, Dairy Section and Thrift Tray for left-overs.

THE REFRIGERATOR WITH A PLACE FOR EVERYTHING

If you had designed it yourself you would have done just this—made it as orderly as an indexed cook book—everything in its place and easy to get at. You see there literally isn't a useless inch inside the new Kelvinator. And when it comes to getting something out you don't rummage and juggle—the new food "file" and ample shelves have banished that.

The New Food "File" Idea

Think of the convenience and economy of "filing" your foods under the ideal refrigerating condition for each! That's what Kelvinator gives you—the Food File—the Crisper for vegetables and salad greens, the Dairy Section for butter, eggs and cheese, the Thrift Tray with separate covered containers for left-overs—and the Frost Chest with a below freezing temperature where fish or meat can be kept fresh and wholesome—a place for everything, including the Water Cooler and Pastry Set.

It's Really "4 refrigerators in 1"

This new 20th Anniversary Kelvinator does anticipate every refrigerating need of a modern home—gives you "4 refrigerators in 1," each fully automatic. There is one temperature service for food preservation on your shelves. Another for emergency fast freezing. A third for storing fish, game or meat indefinitely. The fourth for ice cubes and desserts. Isn't that your own idea of complete refrigeration?

New Kelvinator Beauty, Too

You'll show it proudly—this new Kelvinator. For we haven't stopped with the utmost usefulness and convenience. We have given you a Kelvinator that is lovely to see—gleaming, spotlessly white porcelain cabinets that have smartness and modernity in every line. Lustrous, sanitary, chrome-fronted trays that are easily kept clean and bright. Be sure to see the 20th Anniversary Kelvinator before you buy any refrigerator.

ICKES STUDIES PWA LOAN FOR WATERWAY LINK

Outlines Conditions for Fund Advance.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes indicated yesterday that he might approve the expenditure of Public Works administration funds for the development of a barge terminal in Lake Calumet and for the improvement of the Calumet-Sag link in the lakes-gulf waterway. His approval was made contingent on six conditions set forth in a letter to Mayor Kelly.

The secretary's letter did not mention any specific expenditure, but the city council and the Chicago regional port commission have requested the government to apply $40,382,000 on this work.

Urge Moderate Program.

Army engineers, however, have recommended a moderate program for the Calumet region at an estimated cost of $2,800,000 rather than a complete development at this time. Those familiar with the project had no idea yesterday what figure Mr. Ickes has in mind.

The council and port commission plans include the widening of the Columet-Sag channel to 250 feet from Lemont to Blue Island, construction of locks at Blue Island, widening the Calumet river to 300 feet from Blue Island to Lake Calumet, dredge five basins in the south end of the lake for a barge terminal, and raise bridges to 35 feet above the level of the waterway route.

Letter Sent to Committee.

The communication was sent by the mayor to the city council where it was referred to the committee on harbors, wharves and bridges. Ald. William A. Rowan [40th], committee chairman, announced that he will ask Corporation Counsel Sexton to assign an assistant to work with the committee in attempting to meet the conditions set up by Mr. Ickes, which are as follows:

1. Local interests must furnish to the United States, free of cost, all lands and easements necessary for the execution of the project.

2. Satisfactory evidence must be presented to the secretary of war that the twenty movable bridges across the sanitary canal will be placed in operating condition or otherwise satisfactorily altered.

3. No dredging is to be done in Lake Calumet until satisfactory evidence is furnished the secretary of war by local interests that they will construct and operate adequate terminal facilities on Lake Calumet.

4. The city of Chicago must adopt another ordinance accepting the grant of a portion of the bed of Lake Calumet made pursuant to an act of the Illinois legislature in 1929.

5. The city must institute proceedings for the acquisition of the two parcels of land upon which it does not now hold the riparian rights, so that it will hold title to all riparian land around the lake.

6. The city must obtain from the Nickel Plate railroad a release of a contract entered into in 1925, or else it must institute an action to declare the contract invalid and to quiet title to any land purporting to be conveyed pursuant to the contract.

SEEK PWA LOAN FOR COUNTY FOR HOSPITAL WORK

The county board yesterday tentatively approved a project submitted by its acting president, Peter M. Kelly, which will add 200 beds to the county hospital wards. The project involves the conversion of two floors of the children's hospital, now unused, in the structure adjoining the county hospital, for use of adult patients from the overcrowded county wards.

To finance the changes necessary in the children's hospital Mr. Kelly suggested that the board post $200,000 worth of unsold poor relief bonds with the federal Public Works administration as collateral for a loan of that amount. He proposed that the money then be used to hire 150 CWA workers, who could be put to work in the hospital within a few days after a loan was approved.

The board summoned Hayden N. Bell, county tax attorney, and asked his opinion on the legality of using the poor relief bonds in the manner suggested by Mr. Kelly. Mr. Bell said he believed the project feasible.

SUBMIT BUDGET OF $117,792,489 TO CITY COUNCIL

Public Hearing Is Set for March 8.

An appropriation bill calling for the expenditure from all city funds of $117,792,489 was submitted yesterday to the city council. The amount is $5,019,520 less than was set up for expenditure during 1933; although it includes, because of recent legislation, a new appropriation of $5,000,000 from the city's share of the state gasoline tax fund.

After Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, had explained the appropriations briefly and Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], had belabored bankers for charging the city 6 per cent interest on loans, the bill was set down for a public hearing on March 8 and March 14 was set as the date of the council meeting at which it will be passed.

Expenses Within Revenues.

The corporate fund appropriations, which finance the city's major activities, total $43,984,685, which is $3,898,510 less than the 1933 corporate budget. The figure is within the revenues as estimated by the finance committee, according to Ald. Clark, but would have been three millions over the revenues had it not been for the salvage of $3,000,000 out of last year's appropriations by Mayor Kelly's administration.

Comparative figures on appropriations from the major funds for this year and 1933 are as follows:

Corporate	$43,984,685	$47,883,195
Water	15,683,793	15,162,967
Vehicle tax	6,448,768	5,646,912
Bonds	9,712,935	12,705,914
Traction	720,604	4,395,880
Bond redemption and interest	20,681,100	20,854,976
Library	1,440,397	1,710,000
Tuberculosis sanitarium	1,884,816	1,854,139
Police pension	3,410,048	2,871,550
Firemen's pension	3,120,000	2,300,000
City employés pension	1,600,000	1,600,000

In the corporate fund 215 civil service jobs were eliminated, including the transfer of 75 board of local improvement employés to street work to be paid out of the gasoline tax appropriation. Reduced lump sums for a number of activities will mean, according to Ald. Clark, that laborers that have been working five days a week will work only four days a week this year. Large savings have been made also in material and supply accounts.

Salaries Cut 78 Days.

This budget calls for a salary cut of 78 days' pay for most of the city employés. Exceptions are the police and firemen and the judges and employés of the Municipal court, whose pay will be docked by 52 days. The court ordered full pay for the judges and the employés.

"It would cost the city $1,311,000 to obey the court's order for full pay," said Ald. Clark. "That would mean cutting the pay of other city employés further or seriously handicapping the city in giving police, fire, and health protection. We decided that we would rather go to jail than heed the order of the court."

The aldermen heeded Carter H. Harrison's request and set up $1,000 for the purchase of works of art created by local talent. The Chicago Plan commission, which usually gets $40,000, receives only $1,000.

The board of local improvements was cut down from $1,377,815 in 1933 to $546,607. Street cleaning and garbage collection was reduced to $5,237,210 from the 1933 appropriation of $6,377,391. Appropriations for the police and fire departments are virtually the same as for last year.

POLICE ORDERED TO REMOVE ALL ABANDONED CARS

Commissioner of Police Allman was directed by the city council yesterday to haul all abandoned automobiles that are standing on the streets with 1933 license plates either to Navy Pier or to the House of Correction yard. The action was taken at the request of Ald. John Toman [23d], who said abandoned automobiles constitute a traffic hazard.

Appointment of Assessor Opposed by City Council

A resolution protesting against a proposed bill providing for the appointment of the county assessor and members of the board of tax appeals was adopted unanimously by the city council yesterday on the motion of Ald. James R. Quinn [50th]. A recommendation for the appointment of those officials is pending before a subcommittee of the Chicago recovery administration.

PLAN TO ABOLISH GRAND JURIES IN ILLINOIS DRAFTED

Seek Legislation at Next Regular Session.

A tentative plan to move for elimination of grand juries at the next regular session of the legislature early next year was announced yesterday by Henry Barrett Chamberlin, managing director of the Chicago Crime commission. The plan to abolish the grand jury and thus speed up justice was brought to the fore by the recent Supreme court decision declaring the Cook county grand jury illegal.

Mr. Chamberlin disclosed yesterday that Gov. Horner had been asked to include the grand jury matter in his call of the present special session. The question was shelved, however, to make room for discussion of other important matters.

Constitution Provides Way.

"The constitution of 1870 specifically provides that the general assembly may abolish the grand jury," Mr. Chamberlin said. "While the matter has not been officially considered by the crime commission I believe that an attempt will be made at the next regular session of the legislature to introduce a bill to abolish the grand jury."

Mr. Chamberlain pointed out that two bills would be necessary to complete the move, one to eliminate the jury system and a second to provide a substitute for the old method.

"I have not made a careful study of the question of possible substitutes," Mr. Chamberlin said, "but personal observation has caused me to favor at this time the filing of information by the state's attorney to bring the accused to trial. I believe that the grand jury should be retained for call in special cases and as a check on the state's attorney. The grand jury in routine cases is unnecessary and a useless expense."

Rush for Present System.

Ten of 11 judges now sitting in the Criminal court went on record yesterday as favoring the elimination of the present grand jury system. Judge George Fred Rush was the only judge who expressed the belief that the grand jury should be retained in its present form.

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court said he believed that better results would be obtained if defendants were brought to trial on informations filed by the state's attorney. He held, however, that the grand jury should be retained to vote indictments in which the death penalty is to be asked. His opinion was echoed by Judge Francis P. Allegretti.

Judge Walter P. Steffen said that the cost expense of the rand jury "hardly justifies the system." Judge Marcus Kavanagh declared that Illinois should abolish the grand jury system as Wisconsin has done. Similar views were expressed by Judges Harry B. Miller, Donald R. McKinlay, James F. Fardy, Daniel P. Trude, Grover C. Niemeyer and Michael Feinberg.

FALL FATAL TO MAN, 70.

Albert Briggs, 70 years old, 4740 Lake Park avenue, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of injuries incurred Tuesday night when he fell from a ladder while washing windows in the Rock Island railroad roundhouse at 48th street and Wentworth avenue.

RACKET SLAYER ROONEY AND PALS MUST SERVE LIFE

Conviction Is Upheld by Supreme Court.

Conviction and sentence of John Rooney, secretary and treasurer of the Circular Distributors' union, and two co-defendants for the racket murder of Stanley Gross, a guard for a Goldblatt department store, was affirmed in a Supreme court decision made public yesterday.

Rooney and Henry [Hogan] Berry, a business agent for the union, were sentenced to life imprisonment after their conviction by a jury in the court of Judge Harry B. Miller last August. Rosalie Rizzo, 24 years old, sweetheart of Rooney, was ordered to prison for 20 years for her part in the crime.

The fatal shooting of Gross culminated a campaign of terrorism directed against the chain of six Goldblatt stores when officials of the company refused to meet extortion demands by the union.

Danger of reversal in the case was averted by the failure of defense attorneys to press their motion to quash the indictment on the grounds that the grand jury returning the indictment in the case was illegally chosen. This motion was made in the lower court, but was not argued at the appeal hearing. For this reason the conviction is not affected by the recent Supreme court decision declaring illegal the Cook county grand jury system.

The decision also upheld the testimony of Joseph Goldblatt, one of the store owners, who took the witness stand at the trial and told of the workings of the racketeer union. Goldblatt told the jury he had been forced to pay $3,800 as "protection money" against vandalism. He also described the campaign of stench bombings, window smashings, assaults on store employés, and destruction of goods that followed his refusal to meet further demands by Rooney.

The defense held that the testimony was not admissible because it violated the rules of evidence in that it proved a separate offense from that charged in the indictment. The Supreme court justices held, however, that such evidence is legal when it tends to identify the perpetrator of a crime, or shows conspiracy or the motive for an offense.

PURE DEPENDABLE SAFE

MAKING RUBBER HELPS TO RAISE FACTORY CASH

Du Pont Working Out of Hard Times.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Nearly 200 new or improved products have been developed by E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co. in the last three years as "children of the depression."

A new synthetic rubber and synthetic camphor are rated as two of the most important achievements of the company's chemists and physicists during the dull years when research laboratories of big industries scattered over the country have had their busiest period.

As an illustration of the recovery axiom that better products and new uses create a demand and make a market and employment, the Du Pont company's annual report shows that its volume of business in 1933, in dollars, was 24 per cent greater than in 1932. Nearly six million dollars was spent for laboratory work, and at the end of last year 36,000 employés were on the rolls of the Du Pont company and its subsidiaries, a 23 per cent increase over 1932.

Call for "Made Rubbers."

The new synthetic rubber is not now expected to displace the natural product in the making of tires, on account of its cost. But its superiority in a number of respects already have created a demand far in excess of supply. The chemists say the synthetic product is much more resistant than natural rubber to the action of gasoline, oils, and solvents that are harmful to rubber; that it withstands far higher temperatures and is resistant to oxygen and many chemicals that attack rubber.

It has found a ready market. Automobile manufacturers are using it for gaskets where rubber was deteriorated by oil; airplanes are adapting it for gasoline feed lines as a safety measure; it is being made into gloves and aprons, and has possibilities in adaptation on wheels of the new type streamline trains that are opening a new era in railroad transportation, here its heat resistance is expected to be of value. Although it costs ten times as much as ordinary rubber, the demand is reported far ahead of present production capacity at the plant at Deepwater Point, New Jersey.

Aids U. S. Independence.

Furthermore, the new rubber is in the direction of making America more independent in an economic sense.

Synthetic rubber-like substances have been produced from time to time in the last quarter century, but have not proved commercially successful—during the war Germany made synthetic rubber, using potatoes as one source material.

The Du Pont synthesis has for its primary raw material, acetylene, which requires for its production only coal and limestone. Salt and water, the chemists say, are the only other raw materials, and all the ingredients are available in unlimited quantities. It has taken the concentrated efforts of more than a dozen chemists during several years to find the proper conditions for procuring the new material.

Notre Dame Scientist Helps.

One interesting feature of the new rubber is that it is vulcanized by the application of heat alone, whereas to vulcanize natural rubber it is necessary to add sulphur. The chemists say that the artificial latex is a milk-like liquid consisting of particles of fully vulcanized synthetic rubber suspended in water, and upon drying a sheet of full vulcanized rubber is obtained.

This latex differs radically from natural latex, because of greater penetrating power, making it possible to impregnate many porous materials which cannot be impregnated with natural rubber. The chemists say the X-ray of the synthetic rubber is similar to that of natural rubber, showing it has the same type of molecular structure, while synthetic rubbers hitherto produced have not given, so far as is known, the same type of X-ray diagram as natural rubber and have not equal it in physical properties.

Problems of the rubber and automobile industry have been of long interest to the Du Pont company. For years it was engaged in making chemicals for accelerating the vulcanizing of rubber. It was Du Pont that developed tetraethyl lead, which prevents knocking in automobile engines, an improvement without which the modern high speed car would not have been possible. It has developed rubber vulcanization accelerators and anti-oxidants, which have enabled manufacturers to improve toughness and durability of their tires.

Also new organic pigments have been developed that make it possible to produce rubber in all the colors of the rainbow.

During the depression the company has developed a new anti-oxidant for treating cracked gasoline to prevent formation of gum. It is effective in gasoline at the rate of only 5 to 25 parts per million. Another new product stabilizes cracked gasoline from discoloration.

Making Artificial Camphor.

The manufacture of synthetic camphor on a commercial scale is one of the "children of the depression" born in the research laboratories. Great quantities of camphor are used in America, particularly in the making of pyroxylin plastics, and this is the "age of plastics," the scientists aver.

Heretofore almost all the natural camphor used in the United States has been imported and so has synthetic camphor. Between Japan, which has practically controled the supply of natural camphor since 1899, when the island of Formosa came into its hands, and Germany, chief producer of artificial camphor, there has been a great battle for markets.

In a normal year between five and six million pounds of camphor are imported by the United States—in 1929 it reached a total of nine and a half million pounds—and about three-fourths of it is consumed by makers of plastics.

Natural camphor comes from the camphor tree, and the basic raw material used in making synthetic camphor comes from the pine tree. A year ago one of the trade magazines reported no synthetic camphor was being produced in the United States. Today it is being manufactured by a new Du Pont process in a new plant at Deepwater Point, N. J., as one of the "depression babies."

Also Made in Wisconsin.

It is now in production, and the process is the outgrowth of research by the Du Pont company and the Newport company of Carrollville, Wis.

One beneficiary of the new development will be the American Naval Stores industry, which has been flat on its back, for the process opens a new home market for southern turpentine, the basic raw material. The activities of the chemists have opened up outlets for products of the south. Cotton is the great material in the making of rayon and other cellulose products, and at Old Hickory, near Nashville, Tenn., the plants have been working overtime during part of the dull times, crowding the silk worm off the mulberry leaf.

In agriculture, too, new insecticides covering a wide field have been perfected which mean substantial savings to the farmer in his battle against pests.

New Zealand Quarrels with Britain; May Help U. S. Trade

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Feb. 28.—While United States exports to New Zealand have been declining under the influence of exchange costs, tariff discrimination and British competition, something has been happening which may throw wide open the dorr to American manufacturers. Britain, so long held to be "New Zealand's best market," has been planning to shut out this country's goods.

In export New Zealand has for two generations been taught to rely on the British market. The exports from this country are almost exclusively agricultural, and a great percentage of them is food. They have thus been ideally suited to supplying the needs of Britain, which has not been able to grow sufficient food for its own people.

The primary belief behind the amazing growth of organized agriculture in this far land has been that Britain would be able to consume all the foodstuffs which New Zealand could grow. That belief has resulted, for instance, in an expansion of the dairy industry by 6,000 per cent since 1900. It is one of the bases of the nation's prosperity.

Britain "Cracks Down."

But now New Zealand has discovered that Britain is not willing to take New Zealand's products in unlimited quantities. Britain is not even willing to allow New Zealand the share of the trade it already holds. The British government has no authority to apply the quota to New Zealand produce until the end of this year. But when that time comes, the quota will be applied. Threats as to what will happen when the quota is applied range from increasing the tariff on British goods to defaulting interest payments on the national debt.

This cleavage between Great Britain and New Zealand opens up a rich possibility for developing trade with other countries. For the closing of the British market to all but a stated amount of dairy produce will mean that three countires, all in the British Empire group, have taken such action in the last few years. The first was Australia, which found New Zealand's butter invading the artificially high home market. The second was Canada, the result of this embargo being a quarrel which ended in New Zealand cancelling tariff preference to Canadian goods.

If the United States can drive any bargain with New Zealand, the time for it is now. The political consequences of the opening of the American market to New Zealand butter should not be great, because the margin which this country will want to export will not be of sufficient size to be a disturbing factor. Moreover, the limitations of shipments from New Zealand in any one year could be sharply defined in a trade agreement between the two countries.

Needs Manufactured Goods.

It is not a matter of New Zealand merely being "sore" at Britain. It is a question of the whole future trend of trade in this country. New Zealand needs great supplies of manufactured goods, and to supply these orders the United States is ideally placed among the great industrial nations of the world. It is closer, its speech is the same and its standards are very similar.

If the American government can give New Zealand a way out of the butter crisis, it is not too much to expect that American goods would be listed next after British on the preferential tariff. But for the Ottawa agreement, they might be similarly placed. Certainly the United States has the opportunity to outstrip all its rivals, save Britain, in the race for tariff favors and to reduce British preference to a position where it will not be nearly so damaging. The 9-40ths surcharge of duty which is placed on all goods outside the British Empire, for instance, would go overboard for a friendly nation, and other margins, now much too high, would be reduced.

The time for this adjustment of the tariff could not be better, for the tariff is in process of being overhauled right at the moment. An expert committee, after six months' work, is now completing its recommendations to the government as to what the new duties should be. From this report, based on entirely up-to-date information, it would be easy to calculate the mutual benefits to New Zealand and the United States of a trade treaty which enabled this country to export its butter, now a drug on the market, and American manufacturers to expand their shipments of goods.

Trace Loop Collections of Hymie Levin.

Government agents disclosed yesterday that Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, loop collector for the Capone syndicate during the prosperous days of prohibition, has failed to pay tax on an income estimated at $300,000 for the years of 1930, 1931, and 1932. Evidence to this effect is expected to be presented to the grand jury in the next few days.

Levin was arrested Tuesday night in the loop gambling house of Frank [Chew Tobacco] Ryan on a suppressed warant charging him with failure to file a return on an income of $32,473 in 1930. Speedy action on the warant was necessary, it was explained, as the statute of limitations expires on March 15 for income tax offenses in 1930.

Collector in Choice Territory.

Government agents said that Levin served as collector in the choice loop territory during the years that the Capone organization was at its height. In this capacity, the agents said, Levin obtained a share of the rich profits from liquor, gambling, and vice establishments.

Clarence L. Converse and Nels Tessem, the agents who arrested Levin, said that Ryan's gambling house occupies most of the fourth floor in the Woods theater building at 54 West Randolph street. Several habitués of the establishment are said to be men who frequented the old Capone handbooks and gambling houses in Cicero.

Since Al Capone has been in Atlanta penitentiary, serving a sentence of ten years for income tax violation, Levin is said to have been charged with the duty of keeping together the remnants of the syndicate. Levin is said to have been friendly with the Capone family while Al has been in prison, and to have entertained them lavishly last summer at the Fair and at various night spots.

Other Inquiries Under Way.

Meanwhile it became known that the government is investigating the incomes of other hoodlums and gamblers. Among those whose incomes are said to be under scrutiny are William Johnson, gambler, and Harry Guzik, vice monger. These investigations are nearing conclusion, it was said yesterday.

Government officials denied the report that wholesale income tax indictments are to be returned in the near future and pointed to the fact that only eleven men have been indicted on income tax charges in five years.

DAIRIES PLAN TO REDUCE CREWS IN WAGE DISPUTE

Chicago milk companies employing union labor yesterday were planning to reduce further the number of their employés as a result of a deadlock which continued through yesterday's wage parley between the dairy representatives and a committee of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union.

The negotiators adjourned their sessions at the Stevens hotel last night, announcing that "nothing definite has been accomplished." They expect to meet again later in the week, according to Stanley Wanzer, president of the Milk Council, Inc.

"Hooray! HE ACTUALLY PRAISED MY COFFEE"

No wonder! Her coffee pot was "Micro-Clean"*

You, too, can make more delicious coffee without changing your favorite brand. It's easy! Merely "Micro-clean"* your coffee pot daily with magic S.O.S. Then air out. This completely removes yesterday's bitter "coffee crust." Then you get all the rich flavor and aroma every time.

S.O.S. is new—convenient. Soap and pad are all in one. "Micro-cleans"* everything. Works three times as fast as old style cleansers. Merely wet edge of pad—rub and rinse. Results are amazing. S.O.S. "Micro-cleans"* and polishes dirtiest, greasiest aluminum pots and pans, skillets, roasters, soup kettles, even oven doors, drip pans, drain boards, faucets. Keeps them like new. No muss. No bothersome extra soap. No waste. Nothing to go down the drain.

Use S.O.S. for everything. Saves cost of other cleaners. One S.O.S. pad frequently lasts a week. Get S.O.S. from your grocer at once. Use half the package at our risk. If not satisfied, return remaining pads and get all your money back. The S.O.S. Company, Chicago

*"Micro-clean" means microscopically clean.

CHURCHES MUST GO NAZI, GERMAN BISHOP WARNS

Threatens to Oust Rebel Pastors for Laymen.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—An ultra-radical Nazi course for the German Protestant church, including a threat to replace opposition pastors with Nazi laymen, was indicated tonight by Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller.

Speaking before 15,000 wildly cheering Nazi Christians at the sportpalast, he created a sensation when he pledged himself to a national church by uttering publicly for the first time the famous slogan of the radical Nazi Christians, "One people, one state, one church."

As he spoke those words he added fervently:

"God grant that this may come to pass soon."

Threatens Rebel Pastors.

Threatening to put Nazi laymen preachers in churches where present pastors oppose his policies, the bishop declared that "the time will soon be at hand when only Nazis will preach from the pulpit and only Nazis will sit in the pews."

He said he would never tolerate "misuse of pulpits" by opponents of the Nazi Christians, declaring that the Emergency Federation of Pastors would be "swept away with elementary force."

"They won't know whether they are going or coming," he added.

The bishop also stressed the close relationship between the Nazi movement and the Protestant church, asserting that blind faith in Chancellor Adolf Hitler removed the necessity for a Protestant concordat.

"This faith is worth ten concordats," he said.

Cites Von Schirach as Model.

He referred to Baldur von Schirach, reich leader for youth, as a splendid example of coöperation with the state.

"He promised to lead the entire youth of the country to church once a month if all pastors talked to the people like the Nazis instead of attempting to sabotage Hitler's work."

Due to the absence of members of the new church cabinet, it was rumored that all is not well between Bishop Mueller and the cabinet members, and that the latter may resign.

It is also reported that the bishop promised Hitler that he would have the church situation straightened out by March 1. It was expected that he would issue a statement tomorrow outlining the situation.

PROBE REVEALS $1.50 PER WEEK PAY IN MONTREAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 28.—Even worse wage conditions than those revealed in Toronto yesterday were uncovered in Montreal today, by Canada's "big business" investigating committee.

Gustave Franq, chairman of the Quebec minimum wage board, testified that biscuit factory girls worked 75 hours a week for total remuneration of $1.50 and women making men's pants were paid $3 a dozen and 35 cents a dozen for boy's pants. Quebec shoe factory girls making $7 and $8 weekly were discharged and replaced by boys at $3 and $4 weekly, the witness said. Big buyers, he declared, dictated prices.

Toronto firms accused yesterday of paying starvation wages today wired and wrote denials. Committee emissaries were ordered to investigate the payrolls.

ANDORRA DENIES IT PLANS TO HAVE AMERICAN KING

MADRID, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Reports that serious consideration is being given an offer of a large sum of money by an unidentified American for the kingship of the tiny republic of Andorra were denied today by the secretary of the bishop of Urgel, co-prince of Andorra.

"There is no foundation to the rumor," the secretary said by telephone from Andorra, "but recently a syndicate of foreign gamblers made a large offer for a gambling concession in Andorra, which was refused.

"Spain has never renounced her rights in Andorra. The rumor of the possibility of Andorra becoming a kingdom is a sheer fable."

8 HOUR DAY GOES INTO EFFECT FOR 50,000 FILIPINOS

MANILA, March 1.—(AP)—[Thursday.]—An 8 hour labor act of the recent legislature was effective today upon approximately 50,000 hand laborers in the Philippines.

The act will not be applied immediately to many concerns which obtained extensions in order to make adjustments. Thirty-nine sugar centrals are exempt until the end of the milling season May 1. The law does not apply to farm workers.

Many protests have been filed against the vote Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy signed it, although he said he disliked some of its provisions. Protestants asserted pay would be reduced to meet shorter hours.

NAZI ULTIMATUM EXPIRES; AUSTRIA MOVES TROOPS

Nation Nervous Over Hapsburg Return.

VIENNA, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A half dozen smoke bombs burst in Vienna today and several Nazi flags were unfurled in the provinces, but the expiration of a Nazi leader's ultimatum to Chancellor Dollfuss' government was marked by comparative peace.

Theodor Habicht, exiled advisor of Austrian Nazis, in a broadcast from Munich on Feb. 19, threatened a "resumption of the fight," if, in eight days, Nazis were not taken into the administration. But up to this evening there were few signs of this "fight."

Troop movements and rumors of mobilizations, however, still appalled the populace, despite official assurances that nothing unusual was afoot.

Vienna Is Quiet.

University of Vienna students went about their work peacefully. There were no street gatherings. There was no move to clamp down a tight censorship, as reported abroad.

Prince Ernst Rudiger von Starhemberg, commander of the Fascist heimwehr [home guard], yesterday said the question of a Hapsburg restoration "must be approached with the greatest caution."

Czechoslovakia, however, was not entirely reassured by the prince's remarks, especially his advocacy of repealing laws banishing the Hapsburgs from Austria and confiscating their property.

Czechs Ready to Fight.

In authoritative Czech circles Von Starhemberg's statements were not looked upon as a guarantee that Archduke Otto, the pretender to the Austrian throne, might not some day suddenly appear in Austria from his exile home in Belgium.

The Czechs are unlikely to object seriously to the mere repeal of the anti-Hapsburg laws, these quarters said, but would take immediate steps to prevent Otto from actually reëntering Austria, even as a private individual.

His return with the intention of taking the throne would be considered a challenge to war, they declared. [Czechoslovakia and Austria were once parts of Austro-Hungary.]

Foreign newspaper correspondents representing about 2,500 newspapers today submitted a formal application to the government for permission to see the Socialist former burgomaster of Vienna, Karl Seitz, and other prisoners, who repeatedly have been rumored as either dead or mistreated.

Caffery, New U. S. Envoy to Cuba, Offers Credentials

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Feb. 28.—Jefferson Caffery, new United States ambassador to Cuba, presented his credentials to President Carlos Mendieta today in the presence of members of the cabinet, high government and military officials and the staff of the American embassy.

COUNT IS JAILED FOR KILLING DOG AFTER YEAR'S COURT BATTLE

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Count Vasco da Gama, engineer and big game hunter, today lost his year's battle to avoid going to jail for the killing of a chow dog belonging to Mrs. Irene Green in the foyer of an apartment house at 935 Riverside drive.

Magistrate Harris in West Side court sentenced the count to serve ten days in jail and pay a fine of $100.

Count da Gama shot and killed Lord van Dick, Mrs. Green's chow of high and ancient lineage, last April 12.

Mrs. Green was in the courtroom weeping when the count was sentenced. The Greens are suing the count for $40,000.

RICH DUKE GETS APOLOGY FROM NIECE; ENDS SUIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The duke of Westminster, one of the wealthiest men in England, today withdrew his suit for libel against his niece, Lady Sibell Lygon. The action was withdrawn on receipt of a "sincere public apology" by Lady Sibell.

The alleged libel was contained in a gossip column written by Lady Sibell in the Oxford and Cambridge magazine, in which she charged the duke with being unpatriotic because he spent too much of his money maintaining establishments abroad.

Lady Sibell is a daughter of the earl of Beauchamp, formerly a prominent liberal politician, who has also spent his recent years abroad. Piquant details had been expected if the case had come to trial. Lady Sibell has agreed to pay the costs of the action.

NAZIS COMPLAIN OF REACTION TO HITLER ABROAD

Propaganda Chief Asks Co-operation of Press.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda and public enlightenment, invited all representatives of the foreign press to a reception today. In an address he asked them to make it clear to their readers that "the Nazi victory in Germany gave power to a new generation of men, fired by the noble ambition of finding a new method for solution of the old problems which seem insoluble by old methods. That is the only way to recovery for hard tried Europe."

United States Ambassador William E. Dodd, the papal nuncio and other diplomats were present when Goebbels expressed his dissatisfaction with the world's reaction to Hitlerism.

Asks for Coöperation.

"The generation which has assumed power in Germany wants to be measured by its own standards, and not by those of its opponents," Goebbels declared. "The new Germany cannot be disposed of with a shrug of the shoulders. Developments have proved that the dynamic forces of the spirit and heart were stronger than those of the brain. The new Germany came wholly unexpected to the outside world. People want peace. Let us coöperate so that this call shall not go unheeded."

It is understood that the government is preparing a mass trial of communist leaders on charges of plotting against the state. Ernst Torgler, former communist leader in the reichstag, who was acquitted in the reichstag fire trial, is being held for this trial, together with Ernst Thaelmann, communist candidate for president last April.

Act to Protect Investors.

Certified public accountants can look forward to good business in Germany. To protect investors against unsound business companies which doctor their balances, Minister of Justice Dr. Franz Gurtner and Minister of Economics Kurt Schmitt today decreed that all companies must submit to the control of certified accountants. This is good news for American accountants who have branches in Germany. Formerly only firms with a capital of $200,000 were compelled to publish certified accounts.

PEER CHARGES FASCISTS USE CAPONE TACTICS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The earl of Kinnoull, George Harley Hay, charged in the house of lords tonight that the British Fascists are adopting the tactics of Al Capone, Chicago gangster, and Chancellor Hitler of Germany in preparation for a revolution. He asked what the government proposes doing to prevent atrocities here "similar to those which occurred in other countries."

The Fascists, the earl declared, have provided themselves with 25 bullet proof cars. He suggested that they are being financed by industrialists, bankers, and members of the house of lords. "Even a certain foreign power" is financing them, he said.

The earl of Feversham, replying for the government, said there is no need for undue apprehension, adding that "the matter is having the closest attention of the home office."

ALLMAN CUTS RANK OF 15 POLICE OFFICERS TO FIT CITY BUDGET

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday ordered 15 policemen reduced from the rank of temporary lieutenant of detectives to their civil service ratings. The action was taken because the city budget, submitted to the council yesterday, provided for paying these men the salaries of temporary lieutenants of detectives for only two months. Their pay for this rank is $3,900 a year. Under the commissioner's order they will go back to the pay provided for their civil service ratings.

Eight of the men were reduced to the rank of lieutenant at $3,200 a year. These are John J. McGinnis, Andrew B. Barry, and Peter Tomchek, acting captains, respectively, at the New City, East Chicago, and Shakespeare stations, and Albert Mikes, David Flynn, Edward Kelly, Michael P. Naughton, and Anthony G. W. Smith.

Reduced to the rank of sergeant at $2,900 a year are William J. Bowler, Raymond Crane, Mayor Kelly's bodyguard; John H. Ryan, John J. Howe, and James B. Conlisk. Albert Katt and Joseph Buchanan were reduced to patrolmen at $2,500 a year.

JURY'S VERDICT LAYS DEATH OF 2 TO GAS FUMES

A verdict of accidental death by carbon monoxide gas poisoning was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the deaths of Mrs. Evelyn Jensen, 26 year old, and Edward Muehlenbeck, 29 years old of 3607 North St. Louis avenue, who were overcome on Feb. 2 in the Jensen home at 5523 Melrose street. Mrs. Jensen was the wife of Harry Jensen, former member of the state pardon board.

The inquest was conducted by Coroner Frank J. Walsh at the Shakespeare avenue police station. Jensen told the jury he left home at 11 o'clock on the morning of the tragedy. Muehlenbeck was at the house, he said, demonstrating a vacuum cleaner. Jensen said he telephoned his wife at 4 o'clock and when the call was not answered he became alarmed and went home. The vacuum cleaner salesman was dead and Mrs. Jensen died the next day in the hospital.

There was testimony concerning a defect in the furnace. The jury refused to return a finding that the deaths were due to gas from these defects.

EASY TO BUILD ALLURING CURVES NOW!
HERE'S THE WAY TO REAL STRENGTH AND POWER!
It's the minerals in your blood that builds muscles like these!

GAINS 10 lbs. IN FEW WEEKS!
FEELS LIKE NEW PERSON!

Kansas City Stenographer Finds Amazing Mineral Concentrate Rich in Newer Form of "FOOD IODINE." Quick, Easy Way to Add Weight, Strengthen Nerves, Build New Energy!

"I have been underweight for 10 years," says Miss Betty Belle Noever, 97 Palmer Rd., Kansas City, Mo. "I also suffered from stomach trouble, anemia and nervousness and nothing seemed to do me any good until I tried Kelp-a-Malt. After the very first bottle I started gaining weight and in a few short weeks had put on 10 lbs., and I can truthfully say all my trouble vanished like magic! I've felt like a new person . . . never better."

Just one of the thousands of actual reports that are flooding in from all over the country telling us how this newer form of food iodine is building firm flesh, strengthening the nerves, enriching the blood—nourishing vital glands and making weak, pale, care-worn, underweight men and women look and feel years younger.

Scientists have recently discovered that the blood, liver and vital glands of the body contain definite quantities of iodine which heretofore has been difficult to obtain.

Modern foodstuffs, even fresh vegetables and similarly so-called "good" foods, have recently been discovered to be often lacking not only in food iodine but in all the other essential organic minerals without which strength and health are impossible.

Kelp-a-Malt, only recently discovered, contains practically every mineral essential to normal well-being. But most important of all, it is the richest known source of the newer form of food iodine—natural iodine, not made from iodides or other chemicals which oftentimes prove toxic, but the same iodine that is present in small quantities in spinach and lettuce. It is the lack of this iodine which experts in nutrition say is our foremost national food problem. Kelp-a-Malt is a sea vegetable concentrate taken from the Pacific Ocean and made available in palatable, pleasant-to-take tablet form. Six Kelp-a-Malt tablets provide more food iodine than 486 pounds of spinach, 1,400 pounds of beef, 1,887 pounds of lettuce. Three Kelp-a-Malt tablets contain more iron and copper for rich blood, vitality and strength than a pound of spinach, 7½ pounds of fresh tomatoes—more calcium than 6 eggs, more phosphorus than a pound and a half of carrots—sulphur, sodium, potassium and other essential minerals.

Only when you get an adequate amount of these minerals can your food do you any good—can you nourish glands, add weight, strengthen your nerves, increase your weight, vitality and endurance.

Try Kelp-a-Malt today. Contains no yeast—doesn't cause bloating. Two weeks are required to effect a change in the mineralization of the body. At the end of that time, if you have not gained at least 8 pounds, feel better, look better and have more endurance than ever before, the trial is free. 100 jumbo-size tablets, which are 4 to 5 times larger than ordinary-size tablets, cost but little. Get Kelp-a-Malt today.

WALGREEN DRUG STORES

PILES SUFFER NO MORE!

No more pain! No more itching or scratching! No more torture when you sit or walk! No more torment at the stool! The relief of Piles has now been solved. No matter what the form of Piles you suffer from—painful, itching, bleeding, blind or protruding—genuine relief for you lies in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo not only stops the pain and itching and makes defecation easy, but it tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. This is because Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus, it not only allays the inflammation and repairs torn tissue, but actually reduces the swollen blood vessels, which are Piles. The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective. Perforated Pile Pipe attached to tube reaches high up in the rectum and thoroughly medicates all affected parts. Get Pazo today at any drug store and see the relief it means. You will be more than amazed, more than grateful.

Sleep For Baby Rest For Mother

FRENCH PREMIER BALKS EFFORT TO CURB HIS POWER

Deputies Stay All Night to Vote Budget.

PARIS, March 1.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Gaston Doumergue, emergency premier of France, overrode all opposition in the chamber of deputies last night and in an early morning budget session obtained dictatorial tariff regulating powers on a vote of 430 to 152.

A special bill giving Doumergue authority to change tariffs by decree in the same manner that he now is making governmental economies was passed and sent immediately to the senate.

The bill gives him power to modify the tariffs by decree until next Dec. 15, subject to ratification modification by parliament within four months. Well organized Socialist opposition had threatened the bill with premature death. They sent the bill back to committee, from whence it was later revived.

Defeats Foreign Labor Tax.

Again in opposition to the premier the chamber has reinstated a tax of 10 per cent on the wages of foreigners in France, once rejected by the senate on the gound that it conflicts with treaties. This move also proved futile, as the foreign labor measure was finally dropped from the budget by the chamber of the senate successively.

The chamber settled down to an all night session, with clocks stopped at midnight so the budget could be voted before March 1, when provisional appropriations become exhausted. The few remaining points on which the two houses differ were being ironed out and it was expected the budget would finally be adopted before dawn.

The thorny problem of the French war debt to the United States was again placed on the government's doorstep by the demand of Deputy Henry Haye for a statement of the government's attitude. This was the first time in several months that the subject of the huge French obligation was officially raised. Belief was expressed that the government is likely to ignore the request.

Minister Escapes Attack.

Former Minister of the Interior Eugene Frot, who has borne the brunt of most criticism for handling recent street riots, was believed tonight to have narrowly escaped an assassination attempt. A 16 year old youth appeared at the Frot home, which was guarded by detectives, and asked to see the former minister. When questioned, the boy asserted Frot was going to be the victim of an attack. Detectives found a dagger on the youth.

Observers attributed the opposition today to a desire by certain groups in the chamber to halt further accumulation of dictatorial powers. Actually, Premier Doumergue exercises a dictatorship of sorts because President Albert Lebrun has promised him that he can dissolve parliament when he wishes and has authoroty to cut expenses as he sees fit.

The government's request for full powers to deal with tariffs was made by Lucien Lamoureux, minister of commerce, who referred to authority asked by President Roosevelt in the United States, and to Chancellor Adolf Hitler's authority in Germany. The tariff committee previously had approved the powers requested. The foreign labor tax would apply to the wages of foreigners who have lived less then ten years in France.

NAMED IN COURT AS BANDIT KILLER OF BOOKMAKER

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Bianco, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Charles Turner, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Lean Tuttle, 23 years old, was identified yesterday in Judge Walter P. Steffen's court as the slayer of John Merck, a loop handbook operator, who was shot to death by one of five robbers on Feb. 15, 1933. Clifford Mitchell, a doorman at the gambling house, made the identification of Tuttle as the actual slayer, and also of Theodore Gross, 24, one of the other defendants. Ma[illegible] identify Harry Dobkin, the third defendant. [illegible] Hart, 19, one of the confessed robbers, is to turn state's evidence today, it was announced.

POLISH STEAMER SINKING; FEAR FOR FIFTY ON BOARD

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Pounded by violent seas, the Polish steamship Zieszys, with 50 passengers and members of the crew aboard, was dangerously near sinking tonight near Macelliot island.

The vessel struck the rocks tonight and immediately sent out SOS calls and fired rockets. Subsequent wireless messages described its position as extremely critical, with a bad hole in its hull, engineroom flooded, engines stopped and other holds full of water.

All the lights had been extinguished with the stoppage of auxiliaries. The crew attempted to launch lifeboats. It was reported, but not confirmed, that some passengers had been taken off in them.

FRENCH CONSIDER ACCEPTING NAZI DEMAND TO ARM

Insist on Retention of Present Army.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue is considering acceptance of Chancellor Hitler's demand for a moderate rearmament of Germany under an agreement entitling France to retain its present strong army, it was learned today.

The French, it is understood, would insist also on retention of the new defense force program mapped today by Doumergue's "little war cabinet," composed of Marshal Henri Petain, Gen. Albert Denain, and Francois Pietri, ministers of war, air, and navy, respectively.

An arms accord, stating the limits to which each country will go in armaments, is under discussion in Paris, London, and Rome.

Outcome of Eden's Trip.

An oral or written arms agreement, it is understood, likely will be the outcome of the continental trip of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, with a decision to drop further arms discussions at least until fall. Officials say Eden's visit to Doumergue tomorrow is "highly important."

Previous German arms demands have been based on a proposed reduction of France's armed forces. French acceptance of Germany's stand would be a reversal of the policy of Joseph Paul-Boncour, until recently foreign minister, of stubbornly resisting German rearmanent and refusing to admit officially that the reich already is rearming.

The Doumergue cabinet is said to be impressed by Hitler's argument that he needs to rearm to keep factories going in the fight against unemployment and that he is unable to dissolve the storm troopers lest they turn against the government, which is said to fear civil war would be the result.

Plan New Battle Cruiser.

Immediate construction of a new 26,000 ton battle cruiser of the same type as the Dunkerque to match German 10,000 ton "pocket" battleships will be demanded by the government, it was announced today in connection with the new defense policy.

In addition the government, in a new naval program to be submitted shortly, will ask for two submarines and one torpedo destroyer.

A program to modernize and strengthen land and air forces was presented today to the war and air committees of the chamber of deputies.

Woman Recovering from Rare Disease of Blood

Miss Gertrude Siers, 30 years old, who has been suffering from thrombo cytopenic purpura, a rare blood disease, at Holy Cross hospital, is rapidly recovering her health, it was reported yesterday. She entered the hospital Feb. 9, bleeding from her eyes, ears, nose and mouth, a characteristic of the malady.

D. W. Morrow Speaks

Dwight W. Morrow, son of the late senator and ambassador to Mexico, spoke last night at the annual banquet of alumni of Amherst college at the University club. Morrow, who graduated from Amherst last year, is now assistant to Stanley King, president of the college. He stressed the advantages which a small college gives to the student, asserting that the student lives a fuller and happier life.

S. Bowles King, 615 Maple avenue, Winnetka, was elected president of the Amherst club for the coming year. Mr. King was of the class of 1902 at the college. Other newly elected officers were: Robert J. Koretz, vice president; Charles M. Buresh, treasurer, and George L. Treadwell, secretary. More than 300 attended.

Dartmourth alumni also had a reunion yesterday. The Rev. Owen A. McGrath of old St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, 911 South Wabash avenue, a former Dartmouth football player, was the chief speaker at a luncheon given in his honor by the Chicago Dartmouth Alumni association in Mandel's Green room. Father McGrath attended Dartmouth in 1903 and 1904, leaving at the beginning of his junior year to prepare for the priesthood at the Catholic seminary in Washington, D. C.

Preceding Father McGrath's informal talk, which consisted of college reminiscences, the group of Dartmouth alumni adopted a resolution expressing their sympathy for the parents of nine Dartmouth students who were killed by furnace fumes in the Theta Chi fraternity house last Saturday night.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $291,491, making a total of $108,293,499 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collection of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Feb. 28	$ 24,285	$ 46,991
Uncollected	15,117,679	40,528,853
	1930	1931.
Feb. 28	$ 77,783	$ 143,182
Uncollected	56,176,281	61,455,438

The day's collection of 1932 personal property taxes totaled $93,936.

Hearing on the Chicago Real Estate board's suit for a 15 per cent reduction in the 1931 assessments on 438,000 small homes and apartment buildings in Cook county was postponed until tomorrow by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday. The continuance was granted at the request of attorneys for the board and Assessor J. L. Jacobs.

County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough distributed tax collections to local governments during the day. The city received $500,000, the state $40,000, the forest preserves $10,000, the sanitary district $50,000, the south park board $30,000, and the Lincoln park board $15,000.

LINK PROSECUTOR WITH SLAYERS OF FRENCH JUDGE

Wrote 2 Letters Begging Time for Stavisky.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 28.—After marking time for a week the investigation of the baffling murder of Judge Albert Prince suddenly leaped forward tonight with a number of new developments. The most sensational of these was the discovery that the two letters which Prince had always guarded preciously and which the slayers stole from his brief case were written by Georges Pressard, public prosecutor, who was removed from office yesterday.

The letters are considered gravely incriminating for the ex-prosecutor, for in both Pressard requested Judge Prince to let the Stavisky case hang fire, promising to look after it himself. As the letters were written in 1930 and 1931, it appears obvious that Pressard had done his utmost to protect Serge [Handsome Alex] Stavisky, who at the time was out on bail and organizing new companies. These culminated in the $60,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop failure and the death of Stavisky.

Contents of Letters Known.

It was learned today that Judge Prince, realizing the serious nature of these letters and the mysterious manner that all documents connected with the Stavisky affair had of disappearing, carried the letters about with him night and day. Fearing that something might happen to them, he had confided their contents to Chief Justice Lescouve, who today testified before the parliamentary investigation commission.

Tonight a young nurse named Yvonne Taris came forward and told investigators she had seen Judge Prince a few minutes before he had taken the Dijon train and that he was followed by a man "who looked like a character from Buenos Aires." At the same time detectives learned that the knife found beside Prince's body had been bought in a Paris department store three days before the murder.

Question Two Ministers.

Other events of the day were the arrest of Gilbert Romagnino, Stavisky's intimate associate, on the accusation of Henri Depardon, the swindler's secretary, and M. Guibout-Ribaud, one of his lawyers, while Albert Dalimier, former minister of labor, and Julien Durand, former minister of commerce, were called for questioning.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."
—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

THE FEDERAL CHRISTMAS TREE.

Congress was abruptly whipped into line last year for an economy budget of normal expenses. The savings were made in wage reductions, in pension and veteran aid, decreases and parings along the line of department expenditures. A sounder retrenchment would have been found in the retirement of the government from many of its far-reaching, extraneous activities, but the whole administrative purpose was against that. There was, on the contrary, to be an advance into unexplored fields.

As financial arrangements developed there were to be two budgets. One, for the normal expenditures, was to be a model for government in ordinary times. It was to be balanced and to keep within normal income. The other budget was for the emergency operations and it would be supplied by borrowing. There were no hypocrisies in this, but inconsistencies have appeared, and the consequences are about the same. Against the economy budget there are the complaints of government employes whose earnings were cut 15 per cent, and of veterans and their dependents on the reduced allowances. Meanwhile the extraordinary budget is devoting billions of dollars to the relief of citizens in their private troubles.

Money has poured out through the AAA in direct payments to farmers for compliance with a dozen different agricultural relief schemes. A billion or so is going out through the Civil Works administration to pay jobless men for all kinds of extemporized work, mostly unneeded. The theory of this relief had to be that the distribution of the pay checks and not the doing of the work was important. Loans of every description, for every sort of purpose, have been made. The purpose of the government has been to raise purchasing power by redistributing money. The billions thus released are to prime the pump.

The picture of all this is one of an unrestricted and almost uncontroled flow of public money into private hands. The person who cannot get his dollars from Washington if he states that he has need of them is either very unfortunate or very unusual. People who have suffered from the reductions in the normal budget look at people who are profiting from the expenditures of the emergency budget and the distinction between the two becomes merely an injustice in their minds. A citizen who has had his payment or compensation cut in one budget sees a gang of CWA workers, sees the farmer with a subsidy check, reads of the money going into the Tennessee valley, of mortgages being lifted, of federal supplies going into private hands for the asking, and refuses to understand it.

The government employé on a reduced pay check reads that Gen. Johnson is insisting that all private pay rolls be boosted, regardless of costs of production or margin of profit, and he refuses to understand it. The veteran who has been disappointed sees federal money going with little question to people who had served their country only by becoming charges upon it and he is in no mood to make distinctions between the normal and the abnormal budget. The resentment of citizens who are getting less for doing something, caused by the sight of citizens getting more for doing nothing, descends upon congress.

Each congressman has an angry constituency pointing out to him the inconsistencies and inequities of government procedure. The ground has been swept out from under men who would oppose government extravagance and who would insist upon reduced expenditures. Their arguments are taken away from them and when they try to make a show of reason they are dumfounded by the facts they have to admit. Leaving aside questions of the expediency, necessity or desirability of the government recovery plans, it must be conceded that economy and unparalleled expenditure will not remain bedfellows. The administration is committed to a monumental public debt. It is endeavoring to force spending by its own uncontroled spending. It raises funds by the billions, to distribute them by the billions. That is the fixed purpose and the citizens who are not getting theirs will raise hell until they do. We can see where it began; but nobody can foresee where it will end.

THE PACKERS' HERESY.

When, a few days ago, Secretary Wallace formally charged the packers with collusive price-fixing, he presented them with a tough problem in conduct. The New Deal smiles upon price agreements. The present government permits and sometimes requires them. The packers' code which has the approval of Mr. Wallace and his functionaries specifically authorizes collusive prices for the future. Under the circumstances to deny that there had been collusion would indicate a tendency to depart from what the New Dealers deem to be grace; but to affirm that there had been collusion in order to curry favor with the bureocrats would be to court the penalties provided in the marketing act.

It was a difficult problem, but the packers solved it with great promptness. They denied the charge. There is no reason to doubt that they told the truth but some reason to fear that the denial was a tactical blunder, a demonstration of a stubborn belief that open markets and free competition are morally and economically preferable to collusion. Today such a belief is heretical, and heretics must expect to be burned.

CONTROL OF COMMUNICATIONS.

When the government reaches out for all communications it raises a number of interesting questions. It has control of railroads. It has been supporting many of them, having stopped their development years ago. It put icicles down the backs of the managements which went into hibernation, with little chance of getting thawed out. The investors lost their dividends; passengers and freight sought freer methods of transportation; the rails lost their earnings. Presently the government, having reduced the roads to extremity, will point to the fact as proof that private enterprise has failed and government ownership and operation are unescapable.

Communications embracing telephones, telegraph, and cable are by no means free from government regulation of one sort or another, but they have been sufficiently free to develop. Services have been extended and improved. Investments have been protected. Dividends are paid. The user is constantly and pleasantly surprised by the facility with which his needs are satisfied and his convenience served.

These communications are in perfect contrast to the government regulated railroads. The statement is made that the interstate commerce commission is too busy with the railroads to have the other communications brought within its operations. Another commission must be created. The I. C. C. might not have the time to reduce the other communications quickly to the condition of the railroads.

Have these other communications attracted government suspicion because they are solvent, successful, and progressive? Is it to be held unthinkable that private enterprise should be successful, furnish its services, maintain its solvency, and pay its investors? Is it the government policy to crack such a head wherever it appears? Is private enterprise damned if it succeeds and damned if it doesn't?

Is control of communications desirable, apart from the consideration of smashing private enterprise, for the special purpose of controling their uses in the interchange of news and opinion?

THE INTERNATIONAL BROADCAST.

Vienna was still clearing its streets of the dead and debris of the fighting with the Socialists when Chancellor Dollfuss had the microphone brought to his office to give the people of the United States by direct radio address the government side of the story and to create the impression he desired to prevail. His inability to use English limited the effectiveness of his appeal for a sympathetic understanding and a hurried translation did not help; but these were incidents to a scene which has the odd and contradictory characteristics of becoming familiar and remaining unusual.

Apparently America is regarded as the great field of neutral opinion unaffected by many considerations of direct self-interest. It must be further believed that this opinion, if favorably affected, can be exercised beneficially. It cannot be said that events since 1914 refute such belief. Europeans can note that the nations which gained the American ear and sympathy won a war as their reward. Circumstances aided their eloquence, but better pleaders might have done more for the other side.

Since that time the international broadcast has been made available and can be used and is used by the highest dignitaries of state to make personal addresses to the neutral opinion they desire to affect. To a greater extent than ever before, when occasion arises, America must expect to be approached by special pleaders seeking whatever can be obtained from a favoring judgment. It may be little or it may be much. It is not to be forgotten that in one case it was four million armed men.

Editorial of the Day

TARAN GAINS LIBERTY.

[The Lincoln, Neb., Star.]

After months of delay, granted on one pretext and another, Sam Taran of St. Paul, Minn., wanted in connection with the robbery of a bank at Fairbury, has been freed on a writ of habeas corpus by a judge in Chicago. Since the time he was first arrested while allegedly attempting to dispose of bonds stolen in the Fairbury holdup, Taran has had ample time to build up an alibi, and he had one which satisfied the trial judge, notwithstanding the identification by witnesses of the bank robbery.

Previous to the beginning of the habeas corpus action the governor of Illinois had honored a requisition of the governor of Nebraska for the return of Taran to this state. This puts the case on all fours with the one recently adjudicated in Oklahoma. A man arrested there was wanted in connection with the robbery of the First National bank of York. He presented an alibi, but the governor of the southern state honored the requisition.

Then the suspect applied for a writ of habeas corpus and again offered witnesses to establish an alibi. But the trial judge, in pursuance of the law and of precedent, said that the place in which he should present such evidence was in the court within whose jurisdiction the offense with which he was charged was alleged to have been committed. Very properly the writ was denied and the suspect was returned to York, tried and convicted, and is now serving a term in the Nebraska penitentiary.

Obviously there can be little progress made in ridding the country of gangsters and outlaws when courts refuse to coöperate with those officers whose duty it is to run down and prosecute such malefactors. The judge in Chicago took the words of the friends and associates of the man accused in this case against those of reputable citizens of Fairbury who identified him as one of the men who held up the bank, kidnaped a young woman to use as a shield, and wounded a witness to the robbery.

Under the circumstances it was the plain duty of the Chicago judge to require Taran to present his evidence in Jefferson county, where the crime was committed, and not in the Illinois city where he was arrested while allegedly attempting to dispose of stolen property. The Oklahoma jurist had the right theory.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SAYS JOHN W. DAVIS, who, back in 1924, ran (in a manner of speaking) for President on the Democratic ticket, says he, speaking of the New Deal: "I do not look for miracles to save us or hope for gold at the foot of the rainbow." Why, John W. Davis! How queer you are. And you probably don't believe in Santa Claus, either. Tsk! tsk! tsk!

"AUDIT IN KENTUCKY Shows State 'Absolutely Broke.'"—La Trib. Fellow Kentucky colonels, to the rescue. Let each and every one of us contribute one dollar to the great state which recognized our warlike qualities. If every Kentucky colonel gives a dollar, then a sum would be raised big enough to pay Kentucky's debts, no matter how much she owes. Kentucky colonels, attention! Draw pocketbooks! Forward, guide right, trot! Steady in the center! CHARGE!

AFTER SNOW.

Death is over
Wood and town,
Shawled in silver;
Shod in down.

Only one
Reluctant lamp
Of crystal oil
Burns overhead, Lighted for
The snowy dead.

All the street

Only windows'
Warm gold breath
Melts upon
The bitter dark
Many a lonely
Lovely arc.

Only windows'
Golden swath Points a still
Unheeding path.

LOLA MALLATT.

AND IT'S ALL WELL ENOUGH we rejoiced that the repeal of the Sacred Eighteenth meant once more we would have food cooked properly with rums and wines. But that was before we found out that about all we were going to get at the likker shoppes were blends. Somebody's got to get out a "Blended Cook Book" telling how to blend the blends with eggs and milk and flour and such like.

"ITALY WILL STICK to Gold Policy."—Headline. Whaddaya mean, "Italy will stick to gold policy"? The idea! Why do newspapers stay so far behind the times? What's Italy got to do with it? The headline should properly read, "Mussolini Will Stick to Gold Policy."

"THE FINEST THING and the truest thing I can say," said Mr. Roosevelt yesterday to a veteran correspondent, "is that you are a gentleman of the press." And I'd like to see some common everyday reporter say that to the haughty flunkey who comes to the door when the reporter is sent out to interview a millionaire (if there's any left). "Tell him," let the reporter say in a loud, commanding voice when the butler opens the door a couple of inches and suspiciously demands who's there, "'tis a Gentleman of the Press." The butler would probably faint, but if he didn't he might be so awed anyhow that he'd forget to tell his boss, as he usually does: "One of them reporter pests, sir. Do I throw him out or tell him you've just gone to South Africa?"

AND OLD NORM THOMAS, the Socialist candidate for the White House last election time, says he feels that he must go on record as saying that the New Deal has failed. And, gee! how he dreads it.

Mary walks with dignity,
Giving counsel wise;
Speaks with deep authority
And steadfast eyes.
Molly roams the lonely beach,
Eyes upon the sea;
Happily beyond all speech,
Elemental, free!

Mary wears a sober gown,
As her duty asks,
Going through the little town
On her gentle tasks.
Molly likes a scarlet flower,
Coat of velvet sheen;
Once I glimpsed in careless hour
Garter bands of green!

To my Mary I can go
Feeling grief or wrath.
In a moment she can show
Me a truer path.
Sorry, seeking to be whole,
Penitent I stand
Gazing into Mary's soul,
But holding Molly's hand!

SOME VIEWS ABOUT EYES.

A RECENT issue of the Sight Saving Review had an unusual number of articles of interest to the public as distinguished from physicians and eye specialists. One dealt with contact glasses. These are a variety of glasses that fit on the front of the eyeball and are held in position by the eyelids. In a sense they are a kind of spectacles in which no frames are needed. They can be worn for several hours, say twelve to eighteen, continuously, and it is not very difficult for a person to insert and remove them after he has been taught the art.

This article says there is a small field for the use of these glasses, but in that field they are valuable. The great majority of the people wearing glasses had better stick to what they have. Actresses and few other groups will find it desirable to wear contact glasses in spite of the irritation they are likely to cause, the high price at which they sell, and a few other drawbacks.

In some eye conditions their superiority to ordinary glasses is very marked. Among these are conical cornea, great irregularity in shape of the eyeball, marked difference between the two eyes, some kinds of astigmatism, and after some types of cataract operations.

Another article gives good advice as to the use of home remedies in the eyes. Very much the best eyewash is tears. No ordinary antiseptic equals tears as a wash, cleanser, and germ killer. Washing the eyes with a boric acid solution may do no harm, but it does no good. Boric acid solution ranks far below tears as an eyewash. Physicians dissolve eye remedies in a watery solution of boric acid to prevent molds and bacteria from growing in them and spoiling them. This measure, used to protect the solution, has been taken by the public to mean that boric acid is good for the eyes. For that there is not much foundation. As a rule a home medicine cabinet should not contain any sort of eye drops or eye medicines.

It may be that none of the medicines used to prevent or to slow up cataract are of any service. Just now certain vitamins and diets are being tried, but it is too early to say they have any value.

The removal of foreign bodies from the eye, as practiced in workshops and in homes, causes some infection and blindness. This applies especially to picking them out with knife blades. If a body can be removed by turning the lid out and using a clean camel's hair brush, a clean piece of absorbent cotton, or the corner of a clean handkerchief, that is justified and usually succeeds, but going farther is dangerous. Pulling the upper lid over the lower and having the tears and the lashes remove the foreign body is an excellent plan that often works.

MOIST AIR.

J. M. T. writes: I have a warm air system of heating in our home. What is the degree of moisture necessary? The humidity registers 42 per cent.

REPLY.

If the register is dependable, conditions are good. Humidity at 42 per cent in a home is about right, practically speaking.

SPINAL CORD.

Mrs. E. H. writes: I would like some information about a diseased spinal cord, its cause, and whether it is curable.

REPLY.

The spinal cord is subject to a group of diseases, just as the lungs are. These differ as to cause and in almost every other way.

CEMETERY LOT.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother, who is dead, owned a cemetery lot. Before his death he gave me verbal permission to bury my son, who died 23 years ago, on his lot. There are two unused graves remaining on this lot and my brother's heirs, a son and daughter, demand that I have my son's body removed from the grave so that they can be sold. 1. Can I be compelled by law to have a body that has been resting 23 years in a grave removed from the spot? 2. Having no written grant from my brother conceding the lot to me, would the fact that the tombstone is placed on the grave be evidence that he gave consent to have the body placed there? 3. Could the heirs who wish the body exhumed obtain a court order providing the right to do so? 4. Would the testimonial of several witnesses of my brother's verbal permission to use his lot establish my claim to the grave? C. N.

Section 10 of the article on dead bodies in corpus juris is in part as follows: "If the owner of the land consents to the interment of the deceased in his property, he cannot afterward remove the body against the will of the next of kin or the surviving spouse."

Section 7 is in part as follows: "There is a distinction between the rights existing prior to burial and those after burial, because after its interment the body is in the custody of the law, and a disturbance of its resting place and its removal is subject to the control and direction of a court of equity in any case properly before it. The right to have a dead body remain unmolested is not an absolute one; it must yield where it conflicts with the public good or where the demands of justice require such subordination."

COURT APPEALS.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How long a time is allowed to file an appeal to a higher court? 2. If a new trial is refused by a judge of the lower court, is this refusal entered on the records of the case? 3. Is one allowed to see the records of testimony in a case and where does one ask to see same? 4. Can one obtain a transcript of an argument made by an attorney in a case? 5. Is an attorney allowed to make charges in an argument to the jury which are without proof or foundation, and are really libelous in nature? 6. Should the cost of filing a suit in superior court be $25.50 and [7] filing an appeal cost $100 or $125? E. G.

1. Depends on the court in which the trial was held, when the trial was held, etc. If you were represented by an attorney, he is in a better position to advise you than we are.

2. Yes, in the ordinary case.

3. In our local courts no stenographic transcript is taken unless the parties privately arrange for it.

4. You would have to make arrangements with the reporter who took the testimony.

5. We cannot advise without knowing the facts.

6. Depends on the number of defendants, on where they live, on whether publication of notice is necessary, etc. You could check up by examining the files in the case and inquiring at the sheriff's office.

7. The court costs proper would not be this large. We are not in a position to estimate the attorney's fee.

MEMEL (Klaipeda), Little Lithuania.—Memel was captured by a few companies of Lithuanian soldiers masquerading as irregulars in January, 1923, but it is not yet conquered. The Memel territory, which Lithuania annexed by a putsch, is now known as Little Lithuania and Memel's name has been changed to Klaipeda.

It is supposed to have an autonomous government guaranteed by Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan. In reality it is under martial law. A Lithuanian governor and a military commander are making conditions difficult for the local German population. The situation is dangerous.

Germany has come to the defense of its nationals and has declared a customs war against Lithuania. Excluded from their best market, the Lithuanian government has sent a special commission to London to attempt to arrange a favorable economic treaty enlarging the British market for Lithuania's exports. The commission is headed by B. K. Balutis, Lithuania's minister to the United States.

Between Little Lithuania and Great Lithuania is what appears to be an unsurmountable barrier. Little Lithuania is German in spirit and culture. Colonized by the Knights of the Sword, who used the Christian religion to conquer the Baltic tribes and who impartially populated this district with German and Lithuanian settlers, Memel has few traces of Lithuanian culture.

Her only connection with her conqueror is some family names. Lithuanian in origin, as are many names in East Prussia. Memel is Lutheran.

Lithuania is Catholic. Memel has a German law and government. Lithuania has a Russian law and a dictatorship.

The difference in the living standard of the inhabitants of both districts is great. Memeland farmers live in comfortable homes and own fine live stock. The Lithuanian peasants live in huts. Their scrub cattle graze together in the village herd and their farmwork is done by a hardy Mongolian pony.

During the last eleven years Memel has prospered. The population has increased from 32,000 to 42,000. In 1924 the Lithuanians elected two aldermen to the city council. Today they hold 10 of the 40 seats. Many new factories have been built and thousands of dollars have been invested in new buildings. The Kaunas government has spent $2,000,000 in harbor improvements. During 1933 a total of 1,050 ships visited the port. This is more than Riga reported.

The local German leaders admit the Memel district is much better off economically under Lithuania than it would be under Germany. They declare themselves reconciled to their new status and claim they are willing to become loyal Lithuanians if they are permitted to retain their German culture and form of government. They admit the possibility this territory may become Lithuanianized. Nevertheless, so long as the Lithuanian standard of living remains so far behind their own they ask that this process develop slowly and naturally instead of being forcibly hastened. They say they have no hope of being reannexed to Germany.

The Germans are afraid of Lithuania and the Lithuanians are afraid of the Germans. The latter fear the National Socialist movement in Germany will spread to the Memel district. Two rival parties of Germans have already been organized on Nazi principles and Adolf Hitler's doctrines are popular among Memel's youth. The Lithuanians report they have been compelled to use harsh methods to curb racial hatred.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF SPELLING.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—In my first letter I established one point: our spelling is systematic and follows the logic of linguistic science. Here I shall briefly cover two points: the psychology of learning to spell; and the fundamental difficulty in spelling reform.

Learning to spell is the formation of a habit [automatic], based on a complexity of images. It is not necessarily associated with the etymology or the meaning of the word. In fact, successful teaching of spelling requires that it necessarily not be associated with either. Perhaps I had better cite one authority. Prof. H. C. Morrison, "Practice of Teaching," p. 510: "Spelling is the product of pure practice learning in which images are established quite independent of thought content." Here we're in the realm of psychology, but all will understand its application by recalling the popular reaction to reformed spelling in the words "It looks funny." It doesn't jibe with their "visual image" of the word. How often, too, do we find ourselves writing out a word to check it with our "handwriting image."

The problem of spelling is beclouded by a confusion of issues and a misunderstanding of the difficulty involved. Phonetic and simplified spelling can be utterly different things that seldom coincide in English, as they do in modern German, Spanish, Italian, ancient Latin, and old Anglo-Saxon. This is impossible so long as we use the Latin alphabet. Yet we are constrained to do so. It is the simplest and clearest alphabet invented. English, moreover, is not a simple and homogeneous language. It is a composite of Anglo-Saxon for its main stem, with Latin, French, Greek, in that order of main graftings, besides graftings from almost every other language under the sun.

One big difficulty in the problem is that the entire scale of English vowels has shifted from the Latin key to another, and at the same time represents the new scale by the old one. We are confronted with a dilemma: whether it is better to keep a difficult spelling with an easy alphabet; or to have easy spelling with a difficult alphabet. The present system has many compensations.

PROMPT WORK IN SPRINGFIELD.

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 25.—I believe it would be interesting to the readers of this column to hear of promptness instead of delay in the matters of obtaining state auto license.

I mailed a postoffice order to the secretary of state at 6 p. m. Feb. 14. I received my plates the following Monday, Feb. 19. CHARLES R. ALDEN.

TOO MUCH PROTESTATION.

Racine, Wis., Feb. 22.—For months last year we were assured frequently by persons near to the White House that there would be no tampering with the currency, that the administration was thoroughly in favor of sound money, that the gold standard would be maintained. I felt then that there was too much protestation. Now we know what such protestations and assurances meant.

Let the people take heed. The blustering coiner of epithets and his fellow laborers as well, his chief, too, perhaps, who disavows so loudly any purpose to curb the press, could have no reason to object to the provision in the newspaper code concerning freedom were his intent as innocent as he contends. A surplusage of protestation arouses suspicion.

THE TRIBUNE and every paper in the land that stands for genuine freedom, which would be only a word without freedom of the press, has the sympathy and support of all lovers of the constitution and human liberty. We do not intend to surrender nor forfeit what our fathers won by the shedding of their blood. To do so would stamp us as undeserving of the freedom they bequeathed to their children. H. R. HOGAN.

FROM AN INDIGNANT CITIZEN.

Wilmette, Ill., Feb. 23.—The writer has sold his few government bonds and will buy none until financial soberness is again in some evidence in Washington. The banks are helpless under the iron heel of government. They have to buy. We who have savings accounts can put the money into other securities and into real estate and thus do our part. Keeping money away from local officials brought them to their senses. It will work to bring Roosevelt to economic sense. Every purchase of a government bond is laying up future taxes.

This is no criticism of government efforts to relieve the depression. But that time is nearly past. The individual citizen can vote recall to the Roosevelt spending orgy by withholding credit.

AUTO LICENSE APPLIED FOR.

Great Lakes, Ill., Feb. 22.—I get a great kick out of reading your columns telling of the people who complain because they don't get license plates bearing the same numbers that they held in past years.

For myself, I would be overjoyed and consider myself most fortunate if I received my license at all or even something to show that I have paid my license fee. I made application for a license on Nov. 23, 1933, and have since written four inquiries in regards to same and to date have not even had the courtesy of a reply to my inquiries.

RADIO DENTIST'S CHAIR DULLS THE PAIN WITH MUSIC

Inventor Demonstrates at Convention.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

A new type of dentist's chair, to be known as the "radio chair," was demonstrated for the first time yesterday at the 70th annual convention of the Chicago Dental society in the Stevens hotel. The new invention, according to the claims made for it, will eliminate the dread with which the patient now regards a session with the dental surgeon.

Dr. Elmer S. Best, of Minneapolis, the inventor, will read a paper at the convention this morning explaining the manner in which the chair operates and will give a public demonstration. He exhibited the chair and its workings yesterday to the press and a few leading dentists at an informal session.

Amplifier in Head Rest.

Dr. Best has perfected an amplifier, he explained, which is concealed in the head rest of the chair. This amplifier fills the head of the dental patient with soft, soothing music which has a sedative effect. The patient does not hear the music with his ears. The amplifier presses against the mastoid bones behind the ears and these bones conduct the sound to the auditory nerves.

The possibilities of the invention are practically boundless, Dr. Best pointed out. The eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist may use it when performing delicate operations for which an anesthetic is impracticable, he said.

In experiments conducted over a period of months, Dr. Best has found, he revealed, that patients "hearing the music" are completely oblivious to any drilling or grinding upon their teeth. They emerge from the chair rested and relaxed, he said.

Much Pain Removed.

"Much of the pain has already been removed from dentistry," Dr. Best declared. "But people still regard a session in the dentist's chair with dread. The grinding, the drilling, the probing stimulate a mental reaction which is harmful both to patient and operator.

"The average such session is an hour or less and is liable to leave the patient in an exhausted state."

The absorption of music through the bones of the head has a direct competitive effect with other head noises and seems to make the patient unaware of them, Dr. Best declared. Sessions in the chair can be prolonged to two and three hours without harm to the patient and the dentist's efficiency and speed is increased by one-third because of the lack of interruptions from restless occupants of the chair.

"The effect upon children is astounding," he said. "They became so interested that they forget entirely that work is being performed upon their teeth."

Low Cost Dental Service.

The establishment of mouth hygiene councils in all communities was recommended yesterday by Dr. F. van Minden of Chicago in an address before the convention.

Dental health is a community problem just as is tuberculosis and cancer and should have community support, Dr. van Minden declared.

"Organized dentistry should take the initiative in every community in the formation of a mouth hygiene council in which all worthwhile civic, lay, health and professional organizations, as well as private individuals, should participate in order to bring dentistry to the masses," he asserted.

"The major problem is presented by the large group of patients who neither need nor desire dental charity but who find the usual fees too great a burden at present. In these cases, the service should include all emergency needs at fees distinctly lower than those prevailing in the average private practice."

Another speaker was Dr. Karl A. Meyer, chief surgeon of the Cook County hospital, who declared a close relationship existed between infected teeth and ulcers of the stomach.

"Eradication of mouth infection in many cases is decidedly helpful in clearing up stomach ulcers," he asserted. "Close coöperation between the dental and gastric surgeon will go a long way toward solving the problem of peptic ulcer in man.

Steps in Treatment.

"One of the most important steps in the treatment of stomach ulcers is the determination of the basic cause and, while several factors are involved, a vital one is that of infection. The teeth are probably the most frequent clinically demonstrable source of chronic infection in all cases of chronic peptic ulcers.

"Bacteria and their toxins can pass from the deeper tissues surrounding the teeth and infected roots into the blood stream. This latter source is more important clinically since from external appearance the teeth may look perfectly normal. In cases of chronic peptid ulcer, it is therefore my practice to obtain complete dental examination, including X-ray."

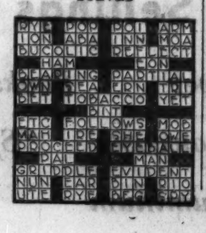
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



"LOVED 2 MEN," DR. DEAN TELLS HIGHBALL JURY

Final Arguments to Be Heard Today.

Greenwood, Miss., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean today told her murder trial jury that she "unfortunately loved two men."

She chose to marry one, she said, and the other died soon afterward of a strange ten day illness.

And that, the handsome 36 year old woman physician told the jury, was all she knew about the death of Dr. John Preston Kennedy, Greenwood surgeon, whom she is charged with murdering with a poisoned whisky highball. The defense rested its case on her testimony.

Afterward the state presented a half dozen rebuttal witnesses who denied Kennedy had been drunk on occasions when the defense said he was and both sides closed. Court was adjourned at 4 p. m. until 9 a. m. tomorrow when final arguments will be heard.

Dr. Dean charged that Kennedy, drinking, "threatened to kill us both," when she broke off with him in order to marry "the other man," Capt. Franklin C. Maull of Lewes, Del., and had begged her to reconsider the decision, but that she had not even seen Kennedy during the two days before he became fatally ill on July 27, 1933.

While she was testifying that she was going to marry Maull in Washington Aug. 8, 1933, after turning Kennedy down, the Philadelphia Bulletin today quoted Capt. Maull in Lewes as saying: "No word of marriage ever passed between us."

LORD SEMPILL, 70, DIES; WAR CHIEF OF BLACK WATCH

FINTRAY HOUSE, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Baron Sempill, 70, died of pneumonia today. He had never fully recovered from the spine wounds he received in France at the battle of Loos, Sept. 25, 1915, when he was colonel in command of the 8th battalion of the famous Black Watch.

His son, Col. William Francis Forbes-Sempill, the master of Sempill, succeeds to the title as nineteenth baron of Sempill. The late baron's anxiety for this son, who was injured in an automobile accident in Chicago last year, told severely upon his health.

The new baron is president of the British Gliding association and served as a flyer throughout the world war.

OLD BASEBALL MEN TO ATTEND ZIMMER RITES

Twenty members of the Old Timers' Baseball association will attend the funeral of Matthew Zimmer, commander of the uniformed police force, at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 318 North Central avenue. Capt. Zimmer, an honorary member of the association, was the catcher for the West Ends of the City league from 1884 to 1890. He later played with the Salt Lake City and Seattle teams of the Pacific Coast league.

Albert C. Wilson, Former Resident of Aurora, Dies

Albert C. Wilson, who for fifteen years was analyst for the state department of agriculture, died suddenly in a Springfield hospital on Tuesday, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Wilson was 59 years old. He had been a resident of Aurora for nearly twenty years prior to his appointment to the state department, and at one time was active in Republican politics in that city. He is survived by his widow, Lillian. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Springfield.

City Council to Join in Cermak Memorial Service

The appointment of a committee to arrange for public representation at memorial services for Mayor A. J. Cermak was authorized by the city council yesterday at the request of Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d]. It is planned to lay a wreath on the Cermak tomb in the Bohemian National cemetery and to unveil a memorial tablet at his former residence, 2348 South Millard avenue, on Sunday, March 11, the anniversary of his funeral.

Dr. Maurice H. Rosenberg Is Dead at Age of 62

Dr. Maurice H. Rosenberg, 62 years old, 1131 Hyde Park boulevard, who had been a practicing physician in Chicago for nearly forty years, died yesterday at the Michael Reese hospital. He had maintained offices for many years at 55 East Washington street. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Etta Hyman Rosenberg. Funeral services will be held Friday at the home.

Civil War Vet Dies at 104; Kin of Admiral Perry

Vallejo, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Thomas Longworth Perry, 104 year old civil war veteran, died today. He was related to Oliver Hazard Perry, hero of the battle of Lake Erie.

Greater Volume of Traffic Blamed.

Automobile deaths in Cook county reached 197 last night, an increase of 57 over the first two months of last year. The number of fatalities in February was 76 as compared with 59 last year, while 121 were killed in January, an increase of 40 over the same month of 1933.

County Coroner Frank J. Walsh attributed the greater toll this year to increased traffic.

Woman Hurled Under Trolley.

Mrs. Margaret Eicke, 41 years old, 10302 Avenue J, was probably fatally injured yesterday when she was struck by a hit and run motorist and hurled beneath a street car at 103d street and Ewing avenue. Pinioned beneath the street car, Mrs. Eicke lay unconscious in the street for 15 minutes while firemen worked to extricate her. She was taken to the South Chicago hospital suffering a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Mrs. Gertrude Gudgell, 35 years old, 8114 South Western avenue, and her two daughters, Gertrude, 8 years old, and Betty Jane, 7 years old, were critically injured yesterday by an automobile at Western avenue and 80th street. Dr. Rex E. Umbenhauer, 29 years old, a dentist with offices at 6859 South Halsted street, the driver of the car, was arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Two More Deaths.

Two motor deaths were recorded yesterday in Cook county, increasing the 1934 total to 197. The victims:

Mrs. Mary Demianchuk, 39 years old, 815 North Hoyne avenue. Fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile driven by Louis Allegretti, 37 years old, 910 Lawrence avenue, when she stepped from behind a parked automobile in front of 822 North Leavitt street.

EDMUND BUCKLEY FORMER TEACHER AT U. OF C., DEAD

Dr. Edmund Buckley, noted Chicago educator, died yesterday at his home in Los Angeles, Cal., where he went several months ago in the hope that his health might be improved.

Dr. Buckley was 78 years old. He was born in England, but came to this country in his youth. He was graduated at the University of Michigan and later studied abroad. In 1894 he obtained his Ph. D. degree at the University of Chicago.

From 1886 to 1892 Dr. Buckley taught philosophy in Doshisha college, Kyoto, Japan. Later he traveled extensively in the orient. From 1894 to 1900 he was docent in hierology at the University of Chicago. Later he edited several scholarly journals, and in 1920 became professor of psychology in the junior college department of the John Marshall Law school.

John Terry, Comic Artist, Dies in Coral Gables, Fla.

In every neighborhood, Chicago families realize the nearness, the remarkable promptness and superiority of Hursen service in directing funerals.

They know that Hursen elegance, Hursen unmatchable equipment, and the use of Hursen Organ-Chapels, always free, cannot be matched in their own neighborhood.

They know, too, that Hursen funerals cost less!

Dorothy Senn Is Engaged to Gordon Jones

Follows Marriage of Her Twin Sister, Barbara.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVERY one knew it wouldn't be long after one Senn twin was married before the other one became engaged; for twins who have been so devoted to each other and who have done everything together ever since they were wee things couldn't bear for one to be married and one unmarried for long. So it won't be a surprise to read the announcement that came to this desk yesterday.

"Dr. William N. Senn announces the engagement of his daughter, Dorothy, to Gordon C. Jones, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones," read the formal announcement, so similar to the one received last September in which Dr. Senn announced the engagement of his other daughter, Barbara, to George Curtis Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Bird of Wilmette.

Miss Dorothy Senn, like her sister, attended the University School for Girls and was finished at Norton-on-the-Sound. Mr. Jones was graduated from Coe university. Miss Senn was her sister's maid of honor when Barbara was married to young Mr. Bird on the ninth of December at a quiet home wedding at the residence of Dr. Senn, 1242 Astor street. After a motor trip in the south, Mr. and Mrs. Bird returned to Chicago just before Christmas and took up their residence at 1209 Astor street.

Both sisters are members of the Service club and of the Junior league. They made their debuts together in the season of 1930-'31. No date for Dorothy's marriage has been set, but she said yesterday that it probably would be in the early summer.

Miss Gade to Give Luncheon Today.

Miss Alice Gade, the much feted daughter of the Herman Gades, who have been spending the winter in Chicago, is giving a luncheon today at the Casino by way of saying "thank you" to a few of her many friends. The Gades are staying at the Ambassador hotel, and plan to be here until April 1 or later, when they may go to Boston, depending on the plans they make at that date.

Over the week-end all the young members of the University Colony club will be "looking up" their roller skates for their elders are giving them a roller skating party next Monday evening at White City.

During the evening there's to be a floor show of fancy skating by professionals. The guests will have a midnight supper at the Windermere.

The alumnæ of the Girls' Latin school are going to play bridge next Tuesday afternoon for the benefit of the scholarship fund they created a year ago for Miss Mable Slade Vickery, the former headmistress. The party will be held at the school. Miss Susan Wegener is president of the alumnæ association.

Society Continues Era of Travel.

Society seems to be doing its best to illustrate perpetual motion these days, for socialites continually are leaving town, returning to it, or traveling from one resort to another. Mrs. Harold C. Smith and her daughters, Miss Betty and Miss Anne Smith, are leaving today for New York to sail to California through the Panama Canal. They will spend a few days there and a week or two in Phoenix before returning to their Lake Shore drive apartment.

Robert F. Carr is sailing from England today, bound for New York where he will see his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Marston II, [and perhaps a new grandchild] before returning to Chicago. His brother, George R. Carr, who has been maintaining bachelor quarters in Mr. Carr's apartment, went to Washington for a visit and should be back in town to-

The Frosting Is Baked with the Cake

Fast and Good

More huzzahs are due from the gals who cook, for these speedy days, instead of weeping over wandering frosting slathered on when the cake is baked, the modern mixer frosts her cake neatly atop the batter—then bakes it. What's more, she now bakes it in a fireproof casserole with a lid ready to fit on snuggly after the cake is cooked, solving once and for all the bother of the cakebox.

The cake may be prepared from your favorite recipe for chocolate or spice cake. The frosting is made by beating one egg white until it will stand in peaks. Then add six tablespoons of brown sugar gradually, beating after each addition. Spread the mixture over the top of the cake batter, sprinkle with four tablespoons of broken nut meats and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the cake is done.

Purim, Jewish Feast, Opens; Marks Rescue of Nation by Esther

The Jewish feast of Purim which has many of the aspects of Christmas for Christians, began last night at sundown and continues throughout today. In contrast to Christmas, however, the feast has no religious significance. While presents are exchanged among friends, and the poor are remembered, yet the underlying motif has somewhat the same note as Independence day in American history.

Destruction of the Jewish nation had been threatened; but due to intercessions of Esther, who had displaced Queen Vashti in the Persian monarch's favor, security again was restored to the Jewish people. Since that time the feast, which signifies the casting of lots, has been faithfully kept. Rabbis of the many synagogues of the city will recall the origin of the event by reading from the Book of Esther in the Jewish Scriptures to the throngs assembled for the celebration.

The traditional masquerade of the feast will be held at the Humboldt boulevard temple, 1908 Humboldt boulevard, on Saturday night.

Editor Passes On Some Hints Worth Heeding

Here Are Fascinating New Cookery Ideas.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

This desk of ours is positively tipsy this morning. Tips for this, tips for that, hundreds of 'em. And about the only way we can conscientiously ditch the memos and begin collecting over again, is by first passing them on to you with our blessing. So we're off!

As the opening gun, have you been paying proper deference to rusks lately? You know, the sweetened, golden brown, toast pieces, crunchy and crackly-crisp all through? They're available at any knowing grocer's and, what I began to say, is that the next time you create a batch of creamed chicken, or chicken à la king, serve it over these rusks. Makes the most top-notch Sunday night supper dish you've ever thrown hats about.

Then there's the matter of apples to bake. Maple sirup, poured over them while they are baking, stuffed with nuts, was something I suggested quite a bit ago. But what I didn't let slip was the fact that apples baked with marshmallows stuffed in their centers are positively the dernier mot in the kitchen. Satisfaction guaranteed!

As for a whiz of a speedy dessert, ever try cutting yesterday's sponge cake in rings with a doughnut cutter, filling the centers with jelly, and topping the whole with shredded coconut? Do.

But my real affections lie with Mickey Mouse and Minnie! This little boy and little girl mouse make perfect table favors [all the better since they're nibbleable] and are equally admired by your children and their parents. For making Mickey, steam a big fat prune until puffy and tender, stuffing it with another, pitted prune. This is Mickey's body, and for his waistline, which is good and high, tie him around snugly with a heavy thread. The head will be a whole fig with a long, curved mouth cut in the proper spot, and the pointed fig end becomes the mousey nose. For ears use small, flattened gumdrops. The eyes and the tip of the nose are made of 3 wee currants. Fasten these on with broken bits of woodpins when it's necessary to keep Mickey together. Now make his arms and legs. These are currants strung on more woodpins, with large, flat shelled almonds as the feet. A bit of scissor snipping on a pair of bright gum drops will make the hands. Mickey's trousers are now painted on with white frosting [all over the prune below the waist] and on go the two familiar buttons with the help of two currants. Attach a thin, long strip of licorice candy at the posterior end and—I give you Mickey Mouse!

Minnie Mouse is much like little brother, except that instead of trousers and button, around Minnie's waist snuggles a skirt of lemon peeling, scalloped around the edge. You can even do a bit of a carving job on Minnie's almond feet, heels and 'everythin.' Give her a cocky gum drop hat and you have her!

Or, did you want to talk about love-apples—tomatoes, perhaps, to you? They'll be coming in for a baking more and more from now on, and maybe you have that same old trouble, that the top and sides of the tomato skin burn and flake away? Then handle it this way. Cut a thin slice from the top of the tomato, leaving the skin on the sides. Sprinkle the top with salt, sugar, paprika, and minced onion. Pour a teaspoonful of cooking oil over each tomato and bake it in a hot oven for 15 minutes. The oil forms a protective film which saves the surface, and therefore likely saves all.

So to wind up with a gadget. This fellow isn't exactly new, but I wonder if you're aware that there is, on the market, a combination pad affair which most cleverly acts both as soap and as a scourer for obstinate stains on pots and pans? The advantage is that often a pan must be cleaned of its grease film and food particles before it may be scrubbed with some patented scouring pad. This little business I have in mind has the soap right in the pad and the job's done with one operation instead of two. Some bright soul has even thought up a handy aluminum wall tray which is held by a small, rubber suction cup right on the back of the sink and holds the pad ready for use.

Six Are Nominated for Highest Honors in Movie Industry

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Three actresses and three actors were presented to the movie industry today as choices for the screen's highest awards, the best performances of 1933.

The women are the veteran May Robson, on stage and screen for more than 50 years; Katharine Hepburn, and Diana Wynyard, English actress.

The best actor will be selected from the trio of Leslie Howard, Paul Muni, and Charles Laughton.

Nominations were made by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Miss Robson was selected for her memorable performance in "Lady for a Day," Miss Wynyard for "Cavalcade," and Miss Hepburn for "Morning Glory." The work of Muni in "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang," Howard in "Berkeley Square," and Laughton in "Henry the VIII," brought their nominations.

The Illinois Colony club and the Home for the Aged will hold a luncheon and card party at 12:30 today at Biggs', 50 East Huron street.

Butler, Bachelor Popular Guests at French Tea

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

The butler was the tall, courtly mannered Arthur Littlejohn, who serves Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey and whose fluent French belies his birthplace. The bachelor was young William M. Schuyler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Schuyler, who is studying for his doctor's degree in French at the University of Chicago following his graduation from Dartmouth two years ago.

Littlejon came yesterday to assist Mrs. Dewey and her daughter, Miss Louise Dewey, with the tea service, but he soon became the target of several French conversations. Mr. Schuyler, whose ambition is a French professorship, was interested in hearing Miss Phyllis Walsh, the able young curator at the Historical society, tell the history of Chicago with the society's dioramas for illustration.

Speaking in fluent French (the only translation she found difficult was "Emancipation Proclamation"), Miss Walsh started her party with the scene that depicts the drawing up of the treaty of Greenville between Mad Anthony Wayne and the Indian chief, Little Turtle, in 1795. It was this treaty by which the United States acquired a plot of land six miles square at the mouth of the Chicago river, the site of Chicago.

Then she moved on to the reproduction of the homestead of Chicago's first white settler, John Kinzie, which stood on the north bank of the river just east of what is now the Michigan avenue bridge, and from this she turned to the diorama of the Saugannash hotel, Chicago's first hostelry whose genial proprietor was Mark Beaublen, the violinist.

Miss Walsh carried the history still further with a diorama of the old Rush street bridge which gave the audience a graphic idea of the waterways of early commerce which have made Chicago today the world's largest distributing center. Next came a view of La Salle street when the courthouse was a turreted affair in the middle of a greensward, and still another chapter was the story of the fire of 1871 that reduced the city to ashes but not to ruin.

It was the picture and the story of the Washington Park race track, however, . . . an American Derby of the gay nineties . . . that charmed Miss Walsh's audience the most. Miss Jean Wilhelm, the president of the Alliance Juniors, remembered that her grandmother, Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, had told her how she went to the Washington Park track in her victoria drawn by a prancing pair.

After the lecture, which also included a visit to the society's famous Lincoln collection, there was tea in the current exhibit room hung appropriately with Washington and Lincoln photographs and etchings. The Alliance Juniors had the privilege yesterday of christening the handsome new glass topped tea tables and gold vases that were the gift of Mrs. Charles B. Pike to the society just a week ago. Both the tables and vases are authentic reproductions of famous early American pieces. Blue and white china that is a copy of the original Paul Revere dishes was also being used for the first time yesterday.

Virginia Lehmann Gets Warner Brothers Contract

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Virginia Peine Lehmann of Chicago, under the professional name of Virginia Pine, today was signed to a long term contract by Warner Brothers, to be developed as a dramatic actress. Her contract provides for employment for five years, providing all options are renewed.

Selwyn Theater Will Operate as Stock Company

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Selwyn theater, now under Shubert management, announces a series of plays for the spring season, under a new method. A permanent acting company, with guest stars, will appear in productions of dramas that have recently attracted attention in New York. This will be, in effect, a substitution of the stock company system for the bookings of touring companies, and will represent an attempt to establish dramatic producing activity in this city.

The new régime will begin next Sunday night with the transfer of "Ten Minute Alibi," now concluding its fortnight in the Erlanger theater as an offering in the American Theater society's subscription season, to the Selwyn. After this mystery play has had two weeks at the Selwyn, another work will be staged, with the "Alibi" company as the nucleus of its cast.

Other productions will follow, on a fortnightly schedule. Box office prices will be "popular"—that is, $1.50 top for evenings and $1.00 for matinees. The stage settings will be constructed here; the casts will be rehearsed by directors from New York.

Among the plays that are being considered are: "Jezebel," recently acted by Miriam Hopkins in New York; "The Dark Tower," by George S. Kaufman and Alexander Woollcott; "Wednesday's Child," "Double Door," "No More Ladies," by Rachel Crothers; "The Wind and the Rain," "The Animal Kingdom," by Philip Barry; "Blessed Event," "Twentieth Century," "Growing Pains," and "Ladies All."

Franz Lehar's operetta, "Zigeunerliebe" ["Gipsy Love"], will be staged by a German company in the Civic Opera house next Sunday night, under the direction of William L. Klein. The cast will include Lucie Westen, Edwin Kemp, Max Bratt, Irma Ferency, Anna Mueller-Kaeuffl, Luella Feiertag, Angelo Lippich, Mark Oster, and Fred Mueller, all well known German operetta players.

The performance will be a benefit for the German Old People's home.

Critic Praises Art Works of Federal Project

Some Pieces Are Modern, Some Conservative.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One finds the answer in the array of water colors, oils and sculpture to be seen in the headquarters of the Chicago branch, 135 South La Salle street. Here is much admirable work. Some of it is modern and some of it is conservative art, and still more of it is difficult to classify except by the qualification of "that's good."

For the first time the meaning of the "American scene," given as the theme for the various paintings and sculpture, is made clear. The American scene covers a vast amount of ground from the bird house at Lincoln park to portraits of school superintendents. It includes industry, village streets, Lake Michigan beaches, flowers, native birds and farm lands. All of these subjects are being dealt with by a band of artists who grow more proficient at the job every day.

Two Chicago sculptors are executing bas-reliefs of animals to be placed in a public school. These are stunning and range from a dignified portrait of bison to an adorable panel of three bear cubs, trailing each other. Still another sculptor is engaged in making bas-reliefs in brass of farm activities, plowing, milking, churning, planting and so on. These are intended for the De Kalb schools.

Hundreds of easel pictures are being painted to be hung in hospitals, libraries, schools, in fact in all public buildings which are supported in part or wholly by taxes. Murals, etchings, lithographs and block prints are other kinds of pictures which are much in demand. At present the group of artists engaged upon them are releasing picturesque and decorative work, improving each week in technique and subject.

Much brilliant and fine painting is finding its way into headquarters. An extensive exhibition planned for April will show the public what has been done by the committees in charge of the work.

Mr. Walter S. Brewster, chairman of the advisory committee, has just come back from Washington with the good news that the present policy is to be continued and the present number of artists are to continue in work until May 1. After May 1 the quota of artists is to be decreased but over the entire country, 1,000 artists are to remain on the project.

Mrs. Increase Robinson has just been made regional director of the Public Works of Art project. She is closing her gallery in the Michigan Square building to devote her entire time to this new task.

Mrs. Roosevelt Tells Jewish Group Reform Stays After Recovery

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Three thousand women, members and guests of the Women's Association of the American Jewish Congress, crowded into the grand ballroom of the Hotel Commodore this afternoon to attend a tea and reception for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Telling her audience she was addressing them not as a Jewish group, but as citizens, Mrs. Roosevelt pleaded with them not to lose sight of the principles underlying the New Deal.

"The philosophy behind all that is happening to us today," she explained, "is the determination that when we come out of what we call the depression we shall come out not only with recovery from an economic standpoint, but with some measure of reform."

"Some people seem to believe that economic recovery and reforms cannot be accomplished at the one time. But the two are not incompatible. Recovery is only worth while if it carries with it a more abundant life for every one in this country."

Miss Pearl Gridley Elected to Honor Society at Yale

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Miss Pearl F. Gridley, daughter of Judge Martin M. Gridley of the Appellate court in Chicago, was elected to membership in Sigma XI, national honorary scientific society, at Yale university today. Miss Gridley, whose home is at 416 Lake street, Evanston is doing graduate work in psychology at Yale.

Front Views and Profiles

Texan—Notes—Sign—Precaution—Wistful.

When he and George W. Dulany Jr. met in the office of the real estate board Mr. Dulany was moved to tell a Texas story which referred to Texans in general and not at all to Mr. Potter. It concerned a group of men in the smoking compartment of a transcontinental train. One of the men said he was able to tell what state a man came from merely by looking at him. Furthermore, he proved it. Indicating one of his fellow travelers he stated that he was from New York and was correct. A second he said was from Ohio and a third from California, and each time he was right. Turning to a fourth man, a little wizened fellow, he said:

"And you're from Texas."

"You're a liar," retorted the fellow. "I've been sick."

IT was in the Quine library of the University of Illinois college of medicine. A doctor who was returning a book gave Miss Bates, the librarian, some written notes he had found in the book.

"Probably the last doctor who had this book out left the notes in it," he commented.

"He will appreciate the return of the papers certainly," Miss Bates answered. "Shall I mention who found and returned the notes?"

"No," replied the doctor. "Just tell him to have the notes typed so I'll be able to read them next time."

IN these times of hardship the observation noted by a passenger on the southbound bus on Cottage Grove avenue is not surprising. The only display window barred, as are the windows of furriers and jewelers, is one in a store where chickens and other fowl are sold.

THEN there was a shabby, ill-looking old man selling pencils, gum, and shoestrings who told a patron how lonesome he was and how happy he could make a woman if only some one would share his lot. Applicants line up to the right.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce and uses this as an excuse to oppose their marriage. When Barbara determines to marry Rance, regardless, her father has a stroke. Barbara fears he'll kill himself deliberately. She promises him she won't marry Rance without his consent. Gregory goes away and Barbara strives futilely to put him out of her mind. Disbrough, her father's partner, is a frequent visitor at Lynwood. Barbara goes on a visit to Long Island. Brawne worries himself into a frenzy. When Disbrough calls he sends him to propose to Barbara, knowing that their marriage would be only one of convenience. Barbara promises to consider Disbrough's proposal.

INSTALLMENT XL.

EMOTIONAL CONFLICT.

Barbara moved a moment, listlessly, to the window and then came slowly back to the fireplace and sat down. It was dim and still in the room, as though something in her had been deliberately executed. Her father first, Disbrough now, with his merciless logic was suppressing the rebellious youth in her that beat so fruitlessly against her fate.

"But I am not thirty," she thought heavily. "If I only were, it would be so much easier."

She went to Long Island the next day, after writing her father that she would return at the end of the week. She wanted to be alone to examine the future in all its phases. She spent her days on the strip of beach, pillowed against the sand, absorbed in her thoughts. A group of children were near her, wading along the shore or busy with the construction of houses in the sand that the tide would wash away. They were friendly, happy children who occasionally drew near to ply her with questions, or exhibited the shells they had discovered, tremendously excited with the importance of sheer living. She watched them with a sudden hunger. There would be that ahead——

She wondered what her own children would be like. If all the need of feeling in her could be turned to them. To love a child, something all her own, would be to create something absorbing and definite to live for. Not perhaps the child she had dreamed of, but still hers—to fill her days and to compensate for other things which had been denied her. Through it, she might work out to a new philosophy. There was no other way. She would only be doing what many women have had to do, forget the things they had missed and find some reason in taking up life again in a calm companionship with some man they could respect, with home and children to compensate.

She did not resent Disbrough. There was nothing in him she could resent. His complete egotism, in fact, satisfied her. If there had been in his eyes the least possessive seeking, she would have shrunk away. In the state of emotional turmoil in which she was, a physical challenge would have revolted her. He was not in love with her. He would never be in love with her. He would never simulate. She would never need to simulate. His appalling frankness reassured her. At the moment it was the only marriage that was conceivable. Escape for her, opportunity for him, a marriage that would be commonplace in Europe. She would keep her independence and he would respect it. He was as he said, self-sufficient. He would never need her in his career, once she had brought him all he desired from her, financial independence.

If she did not take up his offer, what? To go on year after year at Lynwood would mean the drying up of her old affection for her father. Even now she resented him. Without him, she would be away in Rance's arms, in a living world of intoxicating happiness. With him she was but a colorless shadow of herself, destined to fade away, frustrated and irreconcilable. Her sacrifice would be embittered by its very futility. Futile, because for the love she had suppressed, the affection that remained would never rise above compulsion.

If she married it would be final. She would have to give up thinking of Gregory, hoping against an impossible situation. But when she called him to mind, the intensity of her feelings frightened her. Her days were obsessed by the longing to see him just once more. A dozen times the fantastic thought occurred to her to write to him, to put her dilemma before him and trust to his understanding and support. It would hurt him horribly, but he would understand. He looked at life in a big way. He would not exact a sentimental immolation. He would want her to find some measure of happiness out of the wreck of their romance. If only she could write him, it would take away from the feeling of disloyalty that tortured her.

She wavered, convinced in her reason, shrinking from the acknowledgment by every revolting sense. The decision would be long. At the end of the week she went back rebelliously to Oxbridge, for she felt she needed a calmer, more impersonal viewpoint to consider her decision. At the station Tony Chiswick met her with the news that her Aunt Mattie had died quietly in the morning.

For the next weeks Barbara was too busy rearranging the household to think of anything else. The death of his sister had fearfully depressed her father. The departure of that silent, uncomplaining figure had left a void that every one felt. Aunt Abbie was failing perceptibly. Miss Kerrigan, of the village, whose main accomplishment was a knowledge of the ancient game of whist, was installed in the back room as a general companion, in place of the offending nurse. She was inclined to be too conversational at the table, but the restoration of the evening whist mollified Mr. Brawne, who accepted her without too much ill humor and shortly reduced her to a state of abject servitude to his slightest whim.

Allen Disbrough continued to arrive at the week-end, maintaining always a correct attitude, never reminding her by the slightest allusion to the conversation that had taken place between them. The entire fortune of her aunt passed to Barbara directly. Her father in the last months had tried by every means to get her to place it in trust, but by some unsuspected strength of rebellion the old lady had held firm, resolved that her niece should be completely independent.

Her father, angered by this challenge to his authority, for a long while sought to have Barbara incorporate her inheritance in the family trust. But Barbara, for reasons of her own, refused with an energy that was proof against every artifice he could employ. She saw in this sudden fortune a possible solution to her problem. She had by now resolved to accept Disbrough's proposition. Though week after week she accustomed herself to the idea, she still delayed. An unexpected event hastened her decision.

In the first week in July a letter from Rance was brought to her at the breakfast table. Fortunately, her father had taken to breakfasting in his room. She concealed it hastily, prey to conflicting emotions. A sudden fierce happiness that he had not forgotten her and terror at the thought of all the impossible longings it would awaken. She escaped to the woods, but she did not open the letter. It would be better to send it back, or at least destroy it unread. To read it would be to open again a forbidden door, to lose in one moment the little philosophy she had struggled all year to acquire. For two days she remained in this frightful indecision, passing sleepless nights with his letter under her pillow. The postmark was New York. He was near.

At last from sheer exhaustion, feeling that now, once and for all she must end her fruitless suffering by a violent, decisive act, she sat down and wrote to Disbrough.

day or tomorrow to spend a few days before going out to California to join his wife and children at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jacob Mortenson, in Pasadena, where they have been spending the winter.

John A. Stevenson, who returned from Chandler, Ariz., several weeks ago, has spent his spare time envying his attractive wife who remained there with her uncle and aunt, Judge and Mrs. Kenesaw M. Landis. Mrs. Stevenson will be at home next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Conway Olmsted returned from Florida, found cold weather here, and went straight back the day before yesterday.

Patrick A. Valentine Jr. returned from Arizona yesterday, hale and hearty. His mother, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, and her sister, Mrs. Vernon Booth of New York, who joined him out west, will not be returning any sooner than March 10, and perhaps they will remain away longer.

More Travel and Vacation Items.

William Burry Jr. will not be welcoming home his wife and sons, William III, and Michael, for another two weeks—they have been in Arizona, too. Mrs. Mason Phelps and her daughter, Miss Jane Brooks, are gadding about in New York, and the James A. Cathcarts are returning this morning from a visit there.

Mrs. Jesse M. Watkins and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Watkins, are leaving tomorrow for New York, where they will be joined by Mr. Watkins before sailing on the Aquitania March 7 on a Mediterranean cruise.

Volney Foster, fully recovered from the automobile accident of last fall, is in Mexico City. Mrs. Foster just returned from New York a few days ago and is returning east next week.

The George A. Seavernses are enjoying themselves in Florida and will not return to Lake Forest until May 1.

While the Elliott Donnelleys have not been traveling far, they have been moving—right into their lovely new house on Ridge lane in Lake Forest, and they are thrilled with it from the roof trees to the swimming pool.

John L. Seniors Here for Week.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Senior are in town for a week at the apartment of Mrs. Senior's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Neil Cowham, at 60 Scott street. The Seniors, who have been dividing their time this winter between New York and Florida, passed through Chicago a couple of weeks ago on their way to Denver and now they are returning east.

Spring hats are engrossing the attention of quite a group of our young society women these wintry days, but they're not their own new chapeaux; they're the ones that will be put on sale at the White Elephant Rummage shop on March 9.

The junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital always manages the spring hat sale and two auxiliary members, Mrs. Thomas Lloyd Kelly and Miss Betty Colt, are busy now marking the hats after they have been renovated and refurbished by a professional milliner.

Lecture Today at Woman's A. C.

Mrs. Raymond Redheffer is giving a luncheon today at the Woman's Athletic club for Mrs. Rudolph Ganz, following the lecture and recital by Mr. Ganz and Mary Ann Kaufman on "Modern Music." Among Mrs. Redheffer's guests will be Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, Mrs. Frank B. Mulford, Mrs. John Bellinger, Mme. Joanne Higersberger, Mrs. Ferre Watkins, Mrs. Preston Vance, and Mrs. Charles A. Burkhardt of Denver, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Francis Dakin, in Evanston.

C. V. Williams, superintendent of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, is giving an informal talk before the Junior league this morning at 11:30 o'clock in the league headquarters. The league will be particularly interested in Mr. Williams' talk, "Forgotten Children," for it has been interested in the society for many years and helps to support it financially.

The Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association is sponsoring a "Wind Blow" party tonight in the College inn of the Hotel Sherman. Proceeds from the dinner-dance will go to the Arden Shore Boys' camp at Lake Bluff.

Stylish Skating Costume

Miss Jane Rowe looks like this when she goes a-skating on the Fox river near Wayne where she and some of her friends often go for week-ends. A snug crocheted cap is the very best protection for one's ears against the cold and wind, she finds, and although she doesn't think it's the smartest hat she owns, her friends all think it's a very becoming and sensible one. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Rowe of East Division street. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Child of Five Ready to Gain Self-Reliance

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We are continuing today the subject of the 5 year old, who is the cause of so much distress and so many letters.

We mentioned the change from baby docility to mastery of his body which takes place in the 4 and 5 year old.

Another change is usually seen in his language. He is quick to pick up new words and expressions. And if some of them are slang and some are "swear words" or "bad words," he adds them to his vocabulary just the same.

To simplify things, then, we might say that these are the two changes that cause most trouble in the life of 5 year olds and their parents.

How to manage them?

Just take these natural developments into account. Stop treating your 5 year old like a baby, even though he still is your baby. Give him more freedom and independence so that he can use these new found powers of his. Let up on the constant giving of directions—on both the don'ts and the do's. Let him do just as many things as he can for himself and around the house, even if he doesn't do them well—dressing himself, taking his bath, except for the special nooks and corners, and "helping" you.

Give him the playthings needed for vigorous activity outdoors—and things not babyish, but suited to his age for indoors. We have lists that will help you with this.

As to his strong language—that is only experiment, so don't take it too hard. Here is a word novel and vigorous, he notices—and there a word descriptive, as slang usually is. Older boys use them—and they catch his ear. They're an adventure in speech just as climbing a tree is a physical adventure.

Don't be shocked—don't give it all too much importance—don't scold—and don't give the use of these words a moral or immoral tinge. If you want more help we have a leaflet called "When Your Child Brings Home Bad Words."

So be flexible in your management and fit your demands and your handling to your child's changing needs.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Miss Eleanor L. R. Lawrence will arrive on March 1 from Aiken, where she is with Mrs. F. Skiddy von Stade.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Merrill, who are passing the season in Palm Beach, will return on April 1.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

THE ONE-OVER-ONE RESPONSE.

THE reason that we do not make LIGHT OPENING BIDS except in the third and fourth hand position is that the partner is expected to keep the bidding open with as little as the equivalent of one primary trick in distributed form. That is a king, queen, and jack, even if they are all in different suits.

If the bidding has been opened with one heart, one diamond, or one club, and the partner is able to respond with one in a higher ranking suit, this is called the "one-over-one." No matter how strong the responder's hand is, he will never make a jump bid in a higher ranking suit on the first round, as the one-over-one is a response force and the opener is compelled to keep the bidding open for at least one more round.

The purpose of this forcing bid is to enable information to be exchanged between the partners at a low contract, thus CONSERVING AT LEAST ONE ROUND OF BIDDING. This is a very important principle. Should duplication of values exist, both partners will have gained sufficient information to enable them to keep out of an unmakeable game or slam contract.

Spades—Q J x	Diam.—A Q J x x
Hearts—K Q x	Clubs—x x

and his partner held

Spades—A K x x x	Diam.—K x x
Hearts—A J x	Clubs—x x

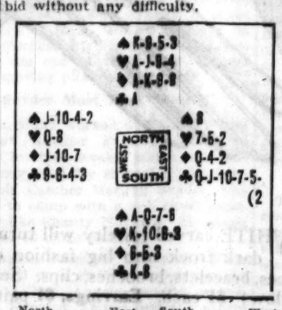
North would open with one diamond. South with a positive game hand in sight would respond with one spade. North would bid two spades and South would bid four spades.

North, with only one ace in his hand, cannot see a slam, although the four spade bid denotes a very strong hand.

It is true that a grand slam can be made if clubs are not opened—but why gamble on so remote a chance?

An Interesting Four Card Suit Slam.

Here is a perfect example how the one-over-one response will produce a slam. This hand was played in a duplicate game and reached the six bid without any difficulty.



North	East	South	West
1 Ht. [1]	Pass	1 Sp. [2]	Pass
3 Di. [3]	Pass	4 Hts. [4]	Pass
4 N T [5]	Pass	6 Hts. [6]	Pass
Pass	Pass

The success of the hand was dependent on the correct guess of the heart suit. This is a very reasonable chance to take.

1. The heart suit is bid in preference to the diamond as it is of higher rank. Should South respond with a spade, North intends to force in diamonds.

2. South holds almost an original bid, but being able to respond with a one-over-one, he has no fear of the bidding dying before game is reached.

3. North could raise the spade response to four spades [a mild slam indication] but wishes to find out if his partner can match either red suit. The "Jump Bid" in a second suit is a game of force.

4. South's raise to four hearts indicates he has four hearts.

5. A strong slam demand, showing the club ace and a high spade honor.

6. Positively announcing four hearts with a high honor, but indicates that the Land contains no high diamonds.

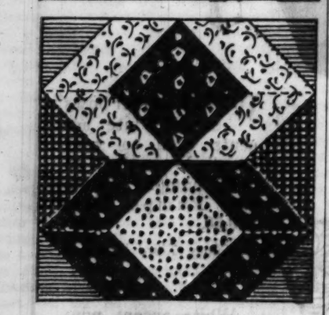
Mr. Sims will answer all inquiries on contract that are addressed to this newspaper. Please inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Versatile Design May Make Quaint or Modern Quilt



PATIENCE CORNERS.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This is one of the earliest of the diamont pieced quilt blocks. Made of diamonds and squares, it creates a most intriguing design as a quilt coverlet, and may be pieced in plain colors or in prints. The print materials afford a quaintly old fashioned spread, while the plain materials give a more modern tone.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn, and Tribune Tower.

Carries Letter 2 Years; Wrong Actor Gets It

But Leslie Howard Will Make New Friend.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Leslie Howard, British actor, met Jay Worthington, veteran English player whom he knows slightly, on the street. Worthington pulled a letter from his pocket. "I came to Hollywood two years ago," he told Howard. "I brought this letter with me. It's from your old school teacher. She insisted I give it to you personally. But I never had the opportunity to hand it to you till now."

The letter had gone undelivered because Worthington was always on a picture when Howard was here and free, or else Howard was in London or New York when Worthington tried to locate him.

Howard expressed himself as touched at the dignified old actor's diligence and opened the letter. It proved to be intended for another Howard. But Leslie invited Worthington to lunch and then took the letter home and wrote an answer telling the friendly English school teacher that he regretted not being the Howard who was her pupil, but as he considers himself still a young man he intends to look her up when he gets back to England in order to take a few lessons and thus qualify for future correspondence.

Yesterday was Franchot Tone's birthday and Joan Crawford gave him a 14 carat ruby ring engraved inside "Franchot from Joan." Joan's birthday comes in two weeks and there will be a joint birthday dinner.

The birth of Joan Bennett's baby, Melinda Markey, yesterday, occurred on the mother's twenty-fourth birthday. Joan has another daughter, Diana Fox, 6 years of age, by her first marriage to John M. Fox of Portland, Ore.

One of Mae West's delights is listening to, making note of, and repeating all the Mae West jokes current.

Dr. Thomas MacLaughlin, former Dublin attorney and doctor, who was a professor of criminal pathology at Northwestern university and one of the experts at the Chicago Loeb and Leopold trial, is technical adviser on the Sinn Fein story "The Key" being filmed at Warner studio.

When May Girls Properly Loan Money to Men?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Seeing so much in your column lately about girls lending money to young men, I'd be grateful to have an honest opinion of both parties in this instance:

"The man does not ask the girl for money. By chance she discovers he is in a jam financially. They are not engaged, but she holds him in the highest esteem. So, being that she is more prosperous, and not wanting to see a good friend in a sorry plight, she insists on helping. He, reluctantly, accepts, admitting he sees no other alternative, promising, of course, to return the money. In my opinion, there is no reason for either the man or the girl to feel that they have acted cheaply or dishonorably. Do, please, let me have your opinion of the case. ANXIOUS."

We must beg the help of male readers in answering the above problem. We would like a male opinion because, being of the other sex, we would perhaps be prejudiced. Rather, we are prejudiced on the subject of men who accept money from women friends and acquaintances.

Are there, in decent male opinion, circumstances that would justify a young man's accepting money help from a woman?

What we want to know is what a real fellow would think of the chap, temporarily embarrassed financially, accepting aid from a girl.

We are not sure whether the lean-to habit of the financially embarrassed young man is a result of the depression and, being so, if circumstances might not sometimes excuse a "touch." Suppose the chap were out of a job; that he had either exhausted his male acquaintances' help, and his relatives were in no position to aid him, what would be the male consensus did he resort to feminine help?

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, daughter of the President, was the principal guest this afternoon at the tea given by the Alpha Phi sorority for the Pan-Hellenic delegates, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer on Crescent place.

The Japanese ambassador and Mme. Saito entertain at dinner tonight for the visiting Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, former president of the Japanese house of peers, in the main ballroom of the Mayflower. The company included the son of the prince, Prince Tokugawa, Japanese minister to Canada, and the latter's daughter, Miss Toyo Tokugawa, who accompanied the prince to Washington, and the secretary of state and Mrs. Cordell Hull.

JUNIOR GIRL'S COSTUME.

Here's a little ensemble you will fairly want to live in when warm weather comes. The front, buttoned closing is very becoming to young, slender figures, and so is the boxy type jacket. Any of the light weight woolens or printed silk crepes will be suitable.

The pattern, No. 2591, comes in size 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years.

The Feminine Mode Is Here to Stay--Expert

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Definitly—feminine fashions are here to stay.

We may dash about in tweeds for daytime, but they are soft, pastel tinted things with just a dash of tailored detail, and all the afternoon and after five creations are fascinatingly frilly and picturesque.

Gone beyond finding are the freaky models that tried to copy trying masculine ideals. The most exciting clothes in town are the fresh young numbers for dinner and dancing. Some genius has launched midnight blue chiffon and other filmy fabrics of this color with some decidedly eye-fillin' results.

Nothing could be better than a long, fragile-appearing dress of this highly romantic midnight blue, made with thousands of small skittery circular ruffles cascading down the back section into a becoming train . . . this one model has veiled shoulders or you can find it with long romantic shirred sleeves or without anything but a couple of shoulder ruffles pinch hitting for evening sleeves.

Horse hair is another thrilling new material, and something has been done about the scratching, for this new stiffened, grandly crisp stuff does not scratch the gal who wears it. You can find it in devastatingly becoming models of flesh, creamy white and other pastel shades made with angelic silhouettes with crisp "victory of Samothrace" outlines, with long divinely slim curves that will positively make you a sensation wherever you dance.

Most of them are backless, with high flattering frame-the-face halter collar effects around the neck and a swathed front neckline. Bright blues are combined with acid yellow, greens, and coral. Others are of vivid, dazzling red, orange, bright green, and dramatising spots of black. These give you a tantalizing hint as to their glory.

New Musical Group Makes Debut; Critic Praises Ability of Trio

A new organization of well known Chicago musicians, the Mischakoff-Reuter-Saidenberg trio, appeared in a recital of chamber music at Kimball hall last night. With rather more definition than is always evident in groups of this nature, the trio is well recognizable by its title, its members being Mischa Mischakoff, concert master of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Rudolph Reuter, Chicago pianist, and Daniel Saidenberg, principal cello of the orchestra.

Their program classified as melodious and agreeable, if hardly recondite. Mozart's trio in C was the first number, registering by number as Koechel 548 but sounding as though Mozart had written it in his earliest youth. It was followed by the similar but lengthy Schubert work in B flat, opus 99, and was closed by the better known "Dumky" by Dvorak.

The organization has an opportunity to do some uncommonly interesting performances in music of the trio classification. Its members are excellent players who have individually shown ambitious desires in the direction of exalted music. E. M.

Sloping Shoulders Make for Grace on Paris Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Some of the Paris dressmakers are at it again trying to get us back into sloping, Victorian shoulders. Lanvin makes lots of her advance spring frocks with shoulder lines acutely on the slant and Lucile Paray makes 'em look as you see in the accompanying sketch. This kind of treatment is really beautifying for the girl with her shoulders entirely on the square as it makes for grace and femininity.

The slant of the shoulder line here is gotten by the simple device of dropping the shoulder seam to below the top of the arm and applying a bow of the dress material at that point to emphasize the droop.

Lucile Paray makes this frock of powder blue semi-sheer wool with a broken diagonal rib in the weave. She puts a small standing collar of white pique at the neckline and a jabot made of the white pique and the wool of the dress. The center of this jabot passes under a band in the front of the bodice and reappears below.

The back of the plain skirt is flared by plaits set between encrusted bands of the material in graduated lengths.

Short Bob and Loose Wave for White Hair

This Type Must Avoid the Collar Length Cut.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The white haired woman pleads for a little more attention to her cause. "After all," she says, "there are quite a number of us who have managed to resist the tinting and dyeing urge."

"Should it be worn short or long? How about permanents for us? How about hair styles?"

White hair, in line with coiffure styles, may be worn short or long, but not medium length. Not the collar length unless one has managed to preserve, through the years, a very slim throat line and clean chin line. Even so, there is something a bit undignified about the flowing curls at the back of the neck on the white haired woman. Anyway, the collar length coiffure is deemed passé for the deb, and for her older sister. Personally, I think a beautifully groomed head of white hair cut short, but not too short, cleverly swirled in the back, and done with wide, loose wave, is about as lovely a head as you can see. It requires more care than any other type of hair, I believe. For, if it is not well groomed and well dressed, it's just another head of white hair, neither distinguished nor smart.

I think the white haired one should not try for prettiness of coiffure, but for great smartness, with much attention paid to the back of the head. In order that the line there is perfect. One cannot have that squarish look which so often characterizes a gray or white haired coiffure. The hair needs thinning out frequently in order to get and keep the smart head outline. Nor should the white haired one have those accurately-timed-wave-placings that give the coiffure a severe look. Softness is the thing wanted and needed.

There is some argument among the better hairdressers about the greater advisability of a marcel over a finger wave for the white haired one. The hot air from the dryer is thought by some to tend to discolor the hair, especially when an orchid or bluing rinse is used. A lukewarm iron is used by our most skilled hairdressers on white hair, so that there can be no chance of yellowish streaking. Permanents, of course, may be taken but, as said yesterday, white hair must be handled with more than ordinary care because of the unusual color and texture. This means expert attention and a test curl demanded before the entire head is treated.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's gentlemen's day in this column, at the suggestion of one of them who rather shyly commissioned us to find him something extra special in shaving soaps, which seem to be his pet interest. He wanted a good soap in a handy form that didn't burn his skin, which apparently has the bad habit of smarting after a shave.

It was a new adventure for us but one we enjoyed. What's more, we found a shaving soap that pleased him. He thinks we're pretty smart.

We aren't particularly, because the soap wasn't too hard to find. A loop store imports it from England, but they don't shout much about it, for some obscure reason.

When we look around for beauty aids for women we invariably find delicious fragrances, exciting boxes, or exquisitely executed bottles. With this background we didn't find the shaving soap stick particularly thrilling to look at, but it's just to the masculine taste. Being British it's conservatively packaged in a brown bakelite case with a plain label that tells you it's a good soap and that its English. There's nothing extravagant about the outside.

But on the inside you'll find a truly superior English soap, bland and pure and given to lathering right off the bat. It's a squat round stick, wider in circumference than most—which the men tell us is something of an advantage in itself. Anyway, the harassed man for whom we unearthed it thinks its simply great in every respect.

In this same shop, we found a cologne men like more than any other, with a scent so faint it's almost imperceptible. But it has a crisp, clean odor and is rated among the most cooling of all colognes. It's a German product that's been a favorite for years and years. Men are going for it heavily, perhaps because it isn't a bit on the sissy side but does have a definitly refreshing quality.

Any other men like us to shop for them? ELEANOR NANGLE.

STRIKES SPREAD IN WISCONSIN; 3 ARE ARRESTED

Efforts at Peace Prove a Failure.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 28.—(AP)—All efforts to settle a half dozen industrial disputes in eastern Wisconsin failed today, and indications were that 2,000 will join the ranks of 5,000 strikers in three cities tomorrow.

In Milwaukee and Racine there were short lived outbreaks of violence, as a result of which three Racine strikers were arrested and a Racine policeman was injured slightly.

Begin Picketing Today.

Employés of the main plant of the Nash Motors company at Kenosha plan to leave their jobs and to begin picketing tomorrow. Union officials claim a membership of 2,000 at Kenosha, and they predict several hundred unorganized workers will join the walkout.

If the Kenosha workers go out the Nash works, scattered in three lake shore cities, will be affected in all departments.

The Nash plant at Racine has been closed for more than a week. The Seaman Body corporation of Milwaukee, which makes bodies for Nash automobiles, was operating on a reduced schedule today. Union officials said 1,600 of 2,400 Seaman workers are out.

Demand Pay Boost.

Nash workers in all plants demand a wage increase of 20 cents an hour, recognition of unions, and establishment of arbitration boards. Union officials stated that the average wage of Nash workers is 45 cents an hour. Earl H. McCarthy, president of the company, replied that the average wage in January was 65 cents.

At Milwaukee officials of the Seaman company complained to city authorities that men who tried to come to work were beaten and their automobiles were wrecked. Seventy policemen were stationed at the plant to maintain order.

R. C. Jacobson, at Chicago, secretary of the regional labor board, and James Mullenbeck, member of the board, have been unable to effect an agreement between the Nash company and employés.

Policeman Hurt.

In Racine three strikers were arrested at the D. B. Elsendrath tannery, where strikers have been demanding increased wages for a week. The strikers have made good their threat to prevent trucks from taking food to a skeleton crew which remains on the job. A policeman was slightly injured when run over by an auto driven by a striker.

D. B. Elsendrath, president of the tannery, and officials of the Racine County Workers' council, a locally organized union which sponsored the strike, remained far apart after a conference today.

Applicant for Fireman's Job Is Injured at Fire

Stewart Hastings, 22 years old, 4404 Greenwood avenue, who is on the list of applicants soon to be called for jobs as city firemen, was injured yesterday when he accompanied firemen to a fire. He was visiting members of engine company No. 45 in their station at 55th street and Lake Park avenue when an alarm was sounded for a fire at 5067 Ellis avenue. While helping firemen drag a hose to the third floor, where the flames originated from a short circuit, a skylight fell and struck him on the head. He was taken to the Chicago hospital.

CHICAGO PLACES 8 IN GOLDEN GLOVES FINALS

SHOWERS HALT CARNERA FIGHT UNTIL TONIGHT

Loughran Fans Still Sure of Victory.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 28.—Rain of an intensity matching the blizzards raging through the north caused postponement until tomorrow night of the Carnera-Loughran heavyweight championship battle. Such was the downpour that announcement was made at 10 o'clock this morning.

Government forecast for the next 24 hours is continuing winds, which usually bring showers, and probably rain tonight. Jimmy Johnson, optimistic representative of Madison Square Garden, issued a weather report of his own. It was "fair and warmer." Jimmy, however, has lost some reputation as a weather oracle after this same forecast for the last three days.

Spectators Aren't Sufficient.

Naturally, the clouds still hovering and flurries of rain even after the big storm ended, spectators, of whom there is great need to make the affair a success, withstood any temptation to buy tickets until the weather cleared. However, applications for refunds for tickets already purchased was negligible, so the advance sale remained around the $35,000 mark.

Whatever the number of paying customers, this bout will be attended by the greatest number of newspaper men ever assembled outside of Chicago, New York, or Philadelphia. Francis Albertanti, director of press arrangements, has assigned locations to 150 working writers. This is exclusive of "heels," as he picturesquely describes those seeking Annie Oakleys without proper credentials.

Baseball Inspires It.

This assembly of correspondents is due in large part to the fact that eleven major league baseball teams are training in Florida this spring, if there be spring. So all the baseball experts moved in with the fistic commentators to make the crowd.

Carnera took only light work today. As a result he weighed 261½ pounds at the end of his exercises, three pounds heavier than yesterday. The painstaking Loughran indulged in his usual training at West Palm Beach and remained there for the night instead of coming to Miami as originally scheduled. The gladiators will weigh in before the state boxing commission tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

Several Philadelphia sports writers, fanning at press headquarters, tried to find a parallel between this bout and that between John L. Sullivan and Jim Corbett at New Orleans in 1892. Then, as now, it was a champion against a master boxer, with the odds about 4 to 1 favoring strength over skill.

It's Different Now.

That about ends the similarity, however. Sullivan then was nearly 34 years old, undoubtedly past his peak, and was not so much defeated by Corbett as beaten by his own efforts in chasing the elusive upstart from San Francisco. Sullivan succumbed, exhausted more than knocked out, in 21 rounds.

In the present bout Loughran is the veteran. He is 31 years old, against Carnera's 26. He has far more experience than had Corbett, but certainly not more confidence, than the young chap who just smiled and ridiculed John's glare, which had beaten other rivals before they put up their hands.

After this argument had waged for some time one of the debaters asked the Philadelphian who had precipitated the discussion if he had picked his fellow townsman to win. "Well, no," he answered. "The dope is the other way, but I still think Tommy has a great chance."

The Italian may not be a great fighter, although the impression is growing that he will become one, but he is better now than at any previous appearance in this country. Pugilistically, he is not washed up. Neither is Loughran, for that matter. Neither belongs in the dissipating category, Loughran in particular being a notably clean liver.

Recall Schaaf Case.

Within the last year Carnera has knocked out Ernie Schaaf in ten rounds in New York. Schaaf died after the bout, but the origin of his injury was attributed to the beating he took from Max Baer in Chicago. In June Primo knocked out Jack Sharkey in six rounds for the title. Last October he outpointed Paulino Uzcudun in 15 rounds in Rome, the profits going to Italian charities at the suggestion of Il Duce.

Loughran was even busier than Carnera last year. He won ten round decisions over King Levinsky, Walter Cobb, and Isidoro Gastanaga. Then he was outslugged by Johnny Risko in ten rounds in Chicago. "That was my most bitter blow in pugilism," Tommy said the other day. "I wondered if I really was through as a topnotcher." But Loughran came back with a 15 round decision over Sharkey. That really earned him his present opportunity. Last November he added a ten round decision over the massive Ray Impellitiere in New York. That was his last battle until now.

14,567 CHEER FIGHTERS ALONG GOLDEN GLOVES TITLE TRAIL

The Tournament of Champions winds up at the Stadium before a crowd of 14,567, who saw 32 stout hearted boys of Chicagoland battle their way into the Golden Gloves semi-finals. The three day meet drew a total attendance of more than 32,000, evidence that interest in Golden Gloves is increasing each year. And now for the finals and a capacity crowd of 20,000 or more in the Stadium a week from tomorrow!

14,567 CHEER 32 BEST BOXERS IN TRIBUNE MEET

Marek Knocks Out C. Y. O. Champion.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Thirty-two boys who know how to punch and how to take one—the pluckiest kids in eight states—are away up there near the top of the world this morning.

They fought their way into the semi-finals of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions before a crowd of 14,567 at Chicago Stadium last night.

They come from every part of the eight central states, although a majority of them hail from Chicago and Cleveland. Meet the 32 boys—the last of the enormous field of 8,177 which started fighting for Golden Gloves more than two months ago.

112 POUND CLASS.
Jesse Levels, Cleveland, O.
John Brown, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Patsy Urso, Grand Rapids, Mich.
William Joyce, Gary, Ind.

118 POUND CLASS.
Joe Minnecci, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Troy Belini, Cleveland, O.
Tommy Barry, Springfield, Ill.
Ray Harris, South Bend, Ind.

126 POUND CLASS.
Andy Scavini, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Ray House, Michigan City, Ind.
Al Nettlow, Detroit, Mich.
Irving Goldstein, Trafton's gym, Chicago.

135 POUND CLASS.
Frank Bojack, Cleveland, O.
Johnny Bommarito, Detroit, Mich.
Aaron Wade, Peoria, Ill.
Phil Kennelly, C. Y. O., Chicago.

147 POUND CLASS.
Danny Farrar, Cleveland, O.
Adam Latos, Danville, Ill.
Keith Graves, Peoria, Ill.
Daniel Clark, Detroit.

160 POUND CLASS.
William Treest, Joliet, Ill.
Charles Wozniak, C. Y. O., Chicago.
Fred Caserio, Trafton's gym, Chicago.
Fred Tyus, Peoria, Ill.

175 POUND CLASS.
Joe Louis, Detroit.
Joe Bauer, Cleveland.
Peter Gregaitis, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Ario Soldati, Rockford, Ill.

HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS.
Murray Spencer, Nashville, Tenn.
Steve Smozy, Cleveland, O.
Otis Thomas, Savoy A. C., Chicago.
Max Marek, Notre Dame, unattached.

These 32 warriors will return to the Stadium ring on the night of March 9 when the championships will be decided and Chicago's team picked for the intercity clash against New York.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer team went well out into the lead for the out of town team trophy honors. Six of the eight Cleveland boxers fought on toward the championship round. The Cleveland rooters were not particularly happy, however, for the pride of their team, Ray Sharkey, was beaten by Al Nettlow of Detroit.

Goldstein, Caserio Win.

To offset the Cleveland challenge Chicago qualified eight hard punching and rip snorting color bearers. Most of them represented the Catholic Youth organization, although Trafton's gymnasium also held a strong hand for Chicago team trophy honors with its two qualifiers, who are Irving Goldstein and Fred Caserio.

Goldstein reached the semi-finals in the featherweight division. Caserio fought with his old time skill and whipped Michael de Kovic of the Opal A. A., also of Chicago, in the middleweight class. Caserio's short right to the chin floored De Kovic for an eight count in the first round. He outboxed his foe from then until the finish.

Right to Stomach.

Marek was outboxed by a slight margin in the first round. Early in the second round he slammed a right—a punch that traveled with the force of a speeding express train—into Logan's stomach. Logan went down and stayed there for the full count.

Cleveland's closest rivals for the out of town honors are Detroit and Peoria. The Free Press team from Detroit sent four battlers into the semi-final round. Three members of Peoria's team—Keith Graves, Fred Tyus, and Aaron Wade—also reached the same goal.

The Grand Rapids Press qualified two battlers for the semi-final round. Other teams remaining in the running were able to qualify only one man. They were the teams representing the Gary Post-Tribune, Springfield State Register, South Bend News-Times, Michigan City Dispatch, Danville Commercial-News, Joliet Spectator, Rockford Morning Star, Nashville Tennessean, and the Notre Dame unattached team, whose coach, captain, and general manager, Marek, loomed up as one of the greatest amateur heavyweights in the world.

Five from C. Y. O.

Bring on Cubs' Pitchers! Sox Golfers Are Ready

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 28.—Jimmy Dykes, who batted a mere .536 in the city series, has decided he can't wait until March 17 to get in competition with Cub pitchers. And since baseball competition can't be arranged before St. Patrick's day, Jimmy this afternoon joined with Al Simmons, his White Sox teammate, in challenging Charley Root and Pat Malone for a golf match.

JIMMY DYKES.

Root accepted the challenge with the provision that he could catch up with Malone, who is spending his daylight hours doing road work. Under the present plan the match is to be played Friday afternoon at Flintridge Golf club. It is to be at $5 a point, low ball and aggregate. Babe Herman, who played Dykes and Simmons yesterday, will supervise the money contest.

Bar Babe Herman.

Herman probably would make a lower scoring partner for Root, but the two White Sox are hot after Cub pitchers just as they were in 1929 and in 1933, and Babe specifically was barred from the match.

So far Dykes and Simmons have enjoyed success in their meetings with Root and Malone, but those who have played golf with all four of the athletes think it possible that the American leaguers have overmatched themselves in stepping out of their characters as baseball players.

Root and Dykes are orthodox performers who score in the seventies, but Malone and Simmons are flighty gents who cover the range from 80 to 100. Malone is a marvel with his long irons, but most days his woods have him flat on his back. Simmons drives with a spoon and does other things that pros never would tell him to do.

Though Jimmy and Al are all steamed up over the prospects of meeting Root and Malone, they have not let the matter distract them from their surprising enthusiasm for baseball conditioning.

Mates Arrive Saturday.

While the pair, with Mule Haas, primarily are guided by their desire to put on great seasons for the Sox, there is a suspected fiendish phase in the eagerness with which they are working prior to the arrival of the regular squad, to which they had been assigned. It is suggested that the riotous trio is preparing to laugh and laugh at the physical anguish the regulars will suffer trying to catch up with them after their arrival Saturday morning. All three, for the third successive day, were the first to reach the practice field and among the last to leave it.

All the first squad pitchers speeded up considerably today, with several specializing on curve balls more extensively than they dared in the first two workouts. Manager Fonseca today gave special attention to Whit Wyatt and Phil Gallivan in attempting to get them to get the jerkiness out of their deliveries. Fonseca is going to insist that all his pitchers follow through with a sweeping motion. He contends that much of Ted Lyons' misfortune last year was caused when he developed a hitch in his delivery. Ted, always a great student of form, wouldn't believe he had changed his style until Fonseca, near the end of the season, showed him moving pictures of himself.

Snyder Must Shed Weight.

The squad worked out today in the hottest weather Pasadena has enjoyed in three weeks, which was particularly good for several of the lads, notably Catcher Morgan Snyder, who came to camp with a sub chest something like Shanty Hogan's. He needs to shed 15 or 20 pounds.

Fonseca, Simmons, Dykes, and Haas appeared on a radio program tonight with a Los Angeles sports writer. Since Fonseca, Dykes and the sports writer are notoriously long winded, Simmons and Haas spent little time in writing their speeches. Simmons said, "Hello, friends of radioland," and Haas, "Howdy, folks." Fonseca, Dykes, and the sports writer then fought it out for the other 14 minutes and 30 seconds.

CHARLEY GRIMM HAS PARTY; JUST ONE CUB ATTENDS

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm, Cub manager, maintained open house in the club's Wrigley building offices yesterday and was prepared for an elaborate reception of such athletes as will accompany him this evening on the journey to the Catalina island training camp. Charley's social affair was almost a total flop. Only one athlete showed up to prove he was ready for the leap to the west coast. The individual was Benny Tate, former American league catcher, who fell into the Cub ranks during one of the many winter transactions.

Two notables Grimm expected to greet were Ki Cuyler, now a league veteran, and Chuck Klein, who would still be a hapless Philly if his owners hadn't been tempted by a large slice of Chicago money. The two are sure to be on hand for a roundup planned for this morning. Coaches Corriden and Kelly also will appear. Others in the batch of nine players starting from here are already on hand, barring Don Conrads, the kid southpaw from Kewanee, Ill.

Leave at 8:45 o'Clock Tonight.

The Cub getaway will occur at 8:45 tonight from the Rock Island depot and for the next couple of days the athletes will have nothing to worry about except not being too late to cram themselves into the diner. They'll arrive at Los Angeles Sunday morning, be joined there by other members of the squad, and the entire flock then will be rushed down to the harbor to board the morning boat for the island. The latter place will be reached Sunday noon and the boys then can start on another eating campaign of Armand Cormier of Joliet forgets to duck one of Patsy Urso's punches and down he goes in the second round of the flyweight battle. Cormier lost little time regaining his feet and lasted out the three rounds. Many are picking Urso to continue on to the 112 pound championship.

You Can't Afford to Miss It!

Get out your calendar and put a big black circle around March 9, the date of finals of the seventh annual Golden Gloves tournament at the Chicago Stadium.

That's just one week from tomorrow night, which means that you have less than eight days to reserve those seats you are certain to want for the greatest event in amateur boxing. Tickets have been on sale for several days and, while the demand is the heaviest on record, there still are thousands of good locations available.

The prices are $3.30, $2.20, $1.65, $1.10, and 55 cents, and every seat is reserved. You may obtain them at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, or at Tribune Tower. Mail orders will be filled promptly.

Ferrell Turns Down 2d Contract from Indians

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Wesley Ferrell, pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, will not sign for the 1934 season unless he obtains a better contract. Ferrell said he has returned the second contract offered him and will not sign. He revealed that he had a $5,000 contract with a bonus plan sent to him by the Indians.

MESSINA MEETS KEEVIL IN RAINBO RING TOMORROW

Welterweight Battle at Five Rounds.

Seven bouts will comprise the professional boxing card tomorrow night at Rainbo Fronton. Don Messina and Frank Keevil, welterweights, have been signed to meet at five rounds. Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., who is a Golden Gloves graduate, will oppose Red Johnson of the south side in a heavyweight contest for four rounds. Other bouts will bring together Hugh Allen and Freddy Gravelle, featherweights, and Jackie McCarthen and Al Schiarato, junior lightweights.

Gene Higgins, local 145 pounder, will substitute for Mickey Joy in an eight round windup against Johnny Stroppa of Winnipeg, Man., Monday at Marigold Gardens. . . . Henry Rothier, welterweight, is to head the card at Midway arena Monday. Johnny Coulon is seeking Billy Hoon of Davenport, Ia., as his opponent.

Art Mitchell, local 130 pounder, replaces Mike Primitch against Franklin Cheek in a six round supporting contest on the Frankie Battaglia-Paul Pirrone bill tomorrow at Milwaukee. Eddie Chinski, south side 135 pound boxer, will appear in another. Other scraps:

Frank Misko vs. Billy Miller [6], middleweights.

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., 160 pound fighter, is paired with Freddy Eller of Louisville, Ky., at Hot Springs, Ark., Monday. . . .

Racing Opens at Hot Springs Track Today

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 28.—[Special.] — Seventy-six thoroughbreds, numbering some of the best horses in winter training will parade to the post tomorrow as the Oak Lawn Jockey club revives racing after a lapse of 16 years.

The feature of the program is the five and one-half furlong dash, the fifth event, for four year olds and up. It has attracted the entries of My Ideal, Bad Axe, Lady Dever, Dorothy Span, Best Man, Wise Eddie, Whizzing D and Jack Howe. Seven races are carded.

Leo P. McLaughlin, mayor of Hot Springs, has declared a half holiday and nearly all the citizens of this watering place will suspend business to help celebrate the return of horse racing to the city.

Special trains are being run from St. Louis, Nashville, Memphis and parts of Oklahoma. Little Rock is also sending a big delegation.

A number of Chicagoans are here for the meeting, including Edward Kelly, chief of police at Washington Park and Lincoln Fields, who is registered at a hotel along with R. T. Gandy, E. P. Everhard, J. A. Ricebaum, D. J. Donohue, E. Harpe and H. W. Marshall.

RIBBONS BEAT PITTSBURGH IN LACROSSE, 10-9

The Chicago Blue Ribbons conquered the Pittsburgh entry, 10 to 9, in a National Lacrosse league game at Arcadia Gardens last night. Baldwin of the Blue Ribbons led the Chicago scorers with three goals.

The defensive play of Cordick, Chicago goalie, nipped several threatening Pittsburgh rallies and enabled the Ribbons to retain their slender margin. The Blue Ribbons will play at Pittsburgh tomorrow night. Lineup:

Sparta and Wonderbolts to Replay Tie Next Sunday

Another attempt will be made next Sunday to finish the National Soccer cup game between the Sparta Leaders and the Wonderbolts at the Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue. Ogilvie and Matus of the Leaders, who were injured in last week's tie game, will play, but Hjulian, the Wonderbolt goal keeper, is a doubtful starter as his hand, injured in the first game, is still in bad shape.

Trotting Club Offers Special $2,500 Purse

The newly organized Chicago Trotting and Riding club, which will bring Grand Circuit racing to Chicago, last night decided to offer a $2,500 purse for a special race in connection with its inaugural program on Memorial day. Tom Hogan, organizer of the club which is sponsoring the harness sport at its grounds located at River road and North avenue, said the offer was made contingent upon drawing entries of the best horses in the country.

The horses which must be entered for the special purse, if it is to be given, are Chief Abbedale, 2:01¼; Cold Cash, 1:59¾; His Majesty, 2:01¼; Col. Tom, 2:00⅝; J. E. Vonian, 2:01¼; Zombrd Hanover, 2:00; Logan Scot, 2:01¼; Guy, the Tramp, 2:02; Raider, 2:02¾; Dick Reynolds, 1:59⅝.

During the meeting of the club at the Sherman hotel, the 100 members present voted to stage the Memorial day program, three races in the afternoon and three in the evening, on the dash plan instead of by heats.

LITZENBERGER RIDES TRIPLE AT HIALEAH PARK

Miami, Fla., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Jockey Eddie Litzenberger scored a triple at Hialeah park this afternoon including the featured winter park purse in his sweep. He was up on L. M. Severson's Spicson in the main event and came from behind with that son of Spic and Span to win by half a length at $52.50 for $2. The winner was the only neglected starter in a field of seven. Every other starter was held at less than 6 to 1.

Spicson's previous start was in Brokers Tips Kentucky Derby where he finished sixth. His race this afternoon over a slow track was almost a complete surprise to the spectators. He finished in 1:12 3-5 under 102 pounds. Quel Jeu was second to the wire, half a length before Happy Go which saved third by a head from Golden Fate.

Litzenberger's other two winners were Erebus and Indian Salute, the former being disqualified into the victory. Patchpocket had finished first by a neck under Raymond Workman's ride but was disqualified for impeding others. Workman, who would have completed a double had the result remained unchanged, was suspended for rough riding. The action of the stewards gave Litzenberger his triple.

Wheaton Wrestlers Win from North Central, 36-0

Wheaton college, Little Nineteen wrestling champion, won over North Central, 36 to 0, last night at Wheaton. Wheaton won all the bouts, six by falls and two on time advantages. On Saturday the Little Nineteen wrestling championships will be held in the Wheaton gymnasium.

Forester Fives Close West Schedule Tonight

C. Y. O. QUINTETS OPEN PLAY FOR TITLE TONIGHT

64 Teams Compete at 16 Gymnasiums.

The pairings for the C. Y. O. Basketball league finals were completed yesterday by the Catholic Youth organization basketball committee.

Title play will get under way tonight with 64 lightweight and heavyweight games scheduled for 16 gymnasiums throughout the city and in Blue Island, Kankakee, Mayslake, and Evanston. The winners of tonight's games will advance into the second round, which will be played Sunday afternoon. The finals have been set for Loyola university gymnasium on Sunday afternoon, March 11.

The girls elimination tournament will open Saturday night. Thirty-two girls teams will compete for the C. Y. O. title.

HAWKS, RANGERS MEET TONIGHT IN 2D PLACE BATTLE

Both Abandon Hopes of Taking Lead.

The Blackhawks will play the New York Rangers for the sixth time this season tonight at the Stadium. In addition to being all square in games won and lost in their 1934 National Hocky league encounters, the two teams are tied for second place in the American division. Their five previous meetings have netted the Chicagoans two victories and one tie.

Tonight's game will be strictly a duel for second place, since the Detroit Red Wings have practically clinched the top position in the United States portion of the league. However, the Hawks and Rangers are in line for places in the Stanley cup playoffs, in which the three leaders of the American and Canadian divisions meet each year.

Speculate on Chances.

Being almost certain of getting into the elliminations, the Hawks and Rangers yesterday were speculating on their chances in the world series of hocky.

Both the Hawks and the Rangers would prefer to start the Stanley cup playoffs against the second place Montreal Maroons than the third place Canadiens. Of the six goalies who will guard the nets in the elimination games, the Maroons, in Davy Kerr, have a net minder who has been scored on oftener than any other of the net custodians in the last three seasons. The Canadiens, who are likely to finish in third place, rise to their heights when the big money is in sight. They are the only team to win the Stanley cup trophy twice. In the championship series they will, with few exceptions, present the same line-up which accomplished that record breaking feat.

Battle for Second Place.

Hocky critics and managers alike believe that second place in the American division will be the position of vantage, and for that reason tonight's game at the Stadium between the Hawks and Rangers is all important. These teams have been tied for second for the last 10 days.

Manager Patrick of the Rangers reports that Art Somers, who received a broken jaw in the opening game of the season at Toronto, has been playing recently with the Springfield, Mass., team and the scrappy center will be ready to take his regular place with the team when it returns to New York.

Chicago Gets 8 in Finals of Golden Gloves

ton's Gymnasium two, and the Savoy Athletic club one.

Joe Louis, the Detroit Negro light heavyweight, continued to catch the eyes of those in the almost record breaking crowd. His victim last night was Cooney Tucker, a hard punching wild fighting lad from Fort Wayne. Louis scored a technical knockout in the second. A hard right to the jaw, which traveled only about six inches, put the finishing touches to Tucker.

Johnny Brown of Chicago, who fought for the C. Y. O., gave the home town fans an excuse to get noisy when he whipped Harold Wilhelm of South Bend. They fought on even terms for two rounds after which Brown brought the full strength of his punches into play. He had Wilhelm groggy toward the finish.

Patsy Urso of the Grand Rapids Press team went sailing along toward the flyweight title when he whipped Armand Cormier of Joliet. It was Urso's fourth straight victory. The boys he tossed into the discard were among the strongest in the division. Urso's brilliant fighting has made him one of the idols of the tournament.

The first knockout punch of the night was delivered by Billy Joyce, flyweight from Gary. His victim was Henry Huerta of Streator. Joyce slammed over the old deciding punch in the second session.

NAME DONCHESS FOOTBALL COACH AT DARTMOUTH

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A second University of Pittsburgh star became a member of Dartmouth's new football staf here today when Joseph C. Donchess, former coach and end at Pitt, now a doctor in the Deaconess hospital of Boston, was appointed end coach to complete the staf under Earl H. Blaik, who with Andrew F. Gustafson and Harry O. Ellinger, backfield and line directors, was named in January.

The announcement was made by Harry R. Heneage, Dartmouth supervisor of athletics.

The appointment of Donchess balances Dartmouth's new coaching talent between Army and Pitt, Blaik and Ellinger having served at West Point, and Gustafson and Donchess having played and coached under Jock Sutherland at Pitt.

Donchess will continue his training in pathology and surgery while in Hanover at the Dartmouth medical school. He is 28 years old.

St. Paul's Beats Augustana in Church Tourney, 82-24

St. Paul's, the leader, defeated Augustana, 82 to 24, in a Hyde Park-Kenwood church basketball tournament game yesterday in the St. Paul's gymnasium, 50th street and Dorchester avenue. Jack Chichester of the winners scored 36 points. St. Paul's has lost only one game. The tournament will close on March 10.

POSTPONE BOAT TRIALS.

New Smyrna, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Rain caused postponement today of outboard motorboat trials in which a field of 17 American drivers will seek four positions on a team to compete Saturday and Sunday against six foreign drivers in an international regatta.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

CHARLES KOCSIS, back in school at Michigan after a year's absence, is considered a strong contender for the Big Ten individual golf championship. . . . He defeated Tommy Armour for the Michigan open title in a 36 hole playoff in 1931. . . . William Veeck, son of the Cubs' late president, is following in his dad's footsteps. . . . He is now the all around handy man of the Cubs' office. . . . Only American league players will be on next fall's world tour, which will be conducted by John Shibe, part owner of the Athletics. . . . The National league refused to permit its players to make the trip.

George Zaharias, the Colorado Crybaby, scorned the proffered handshake of his opponent, Wee Willie Davis, at the end of their recent wrestling match at Chicago Stadium. . . . Some unkind fan who reads Canadian newspapers recalled that George and Willie had enacted the same tableau in a bout at Guelph, Ont., a few nights before. . . . No wonder they have it working smoothly if they practice twice a week. . . . Joe Coffey, one of Chicago's most widely known boxing and wrestling promoters, who suffered a physical breakdown a few weeks ago, is regaining his health in Florida. . . . Among the National league hocky players who started as forwards and then made good as defense men are King Clancy of Toronto, Ebbie Goodfellow of Detroit, Roger Jenkins of the Blackhawks, and George Boucher, manager of Ottawa.

Everett Case, former basketball coach at Frankfort, Ind., and Anderson, Ind., high schools, is assisting Sam Barry at the University of Southern California. . . . Norman and Garrison, members of last year's Martinsville, Ind., state championship basketball squad, are enrolled at U. S. C. . . . A Marquette track man, in New York for the first time at this winter's Millrose games, set out to see the ocean. . . . When he asked directions a native New Yorker said, "What ocean?" . . . Irv Uteritz, baseball coach at Wisconsin, is bemoaning the loss of Milton Bocek to the White Sox. . . . Bocek played only one year at college ball. . . . He never hit more than .300 with the Badgers, but he drove the ball to the most distant parts of Camp Randall when he connected.

Notre Dame fans will be pleased to learn that two more Crowes are on their way to collegiate athletic fame. . . . Both boys are playing with the basketball team at Jefferson High, Lafayette, Ind. . . . Like their five older brothers, they will enroll at Notre Dame. . . . Charley Hornbostel, Indiana's great half miler, is commuting between Bloomington and New York these days. . . . He has run this winter in the K. of C. games, Millrose games, the New York A. C. carnival, and the National A. A. U. indoor meet. . . . John Marsch, Chicago contractor, is said to have the most formidable racing stable now quartered at the Churchill Downs track in Louisville. . . . He has a dozen royally bred three year olds and as many two year olds.

Tom Robinson, Northwestern swimming coach for 25 years, has purchased a farm near Wheeling which he is developing into a summer home. . . . Partisans of the Hollywood baseball team, which shares Wrigley field with the Los Angeles Angels, already are offering bets that Smead Jolley will top the record of 44 home runs made by Third Baseman Lillard of the Angels last season. . . . Leroy Herrmann, pitcher the Cubs sent to San Francisco in the Galan deal, was obstinate about signing a contract with the Seals, which was influenced, no doubt, by the fact he likes his job on the Warner Brothers' lot in Hollywood. . . . The owners of the Kingsway hotel in St. Louis certainly blighted the ball players' flair for reminiscence when they had the fountain removed from the hotel's plaza and the spot cemented over. . . . For years the basin was pointed out as "the bowl from which Rabbit Maranville took the goldfish he ate alive that time."

Ten Years Ago Today.—Great Britain formally challenged the United States for the Walker cup. . . . Paul Berlenbach scored his 25th knockout when he sent Young Fisher to the mat in the sixth round at New York. . . . Young Stribling knocked out Jack Perry in the second round. . . . Samuelson's Arcade five man team held first place in the A. B. C. tournament at the 132d armory.

J. O. Y. Volley Ball Tourney Opens March 11

The preliminaries and finals of the Jewish Organized Youth volley ball tournament will be held at the Jewish People's institute on successive Sundays, March 11 and 18, respectively. There will be separate competition for boys and girls in three divisions—juniors, for players under 16; intermediates, for those under 18, and seniors, for players 18 years or older.

SCHMIDT VISITS OHIO STATE ON FOOTBALL POST

Columbus, O., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Francis A. Schmidt, football and basketball coach at Texas Christian university, received a warm welcome when he arrived here tonight to discuss whether he is to become director of football at Ohio State university.

He was greeted at the station by L. W. St. John, Ohio State's director of athletics, and Prof. Thomas French, chairman of the athletic board.

After posing for photographers, he joked with his host and reporters before hurrying to a hotel for dinner. Later he met sports writers, members of the athletic board, and prominent Buckeye alumni.

St. John indicated that the athletic board may meet tomorrow morning to discuss engagement of Schmidt to fill the vacancy created when Sam Willaman resigned to become coach at Western Reserve university.

The athletic director said, however, that he hoped Schmidt "would stay a few days for several conferences before he returns to Texas Christian."

CEDAR RAPIDS AND SIOUX CITY JOIN WESTERN LEAGUE

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Western league, oldest of minor league circuits, underwent a complete reorganization at a meeting today with the admission of Cedar Rapids and Sioux City, Ia., as seventh and eighth members.

Amid a chorus of "It's the best circuit in 15 years in minor league baseball," club representatives formulated an entirely new setup than the Western league of last year.

The new circuit will contain Topeka, Omaha, St. Joseph, Des Moines, Davenport, and Rock Island, besides the two cities voted in today.

Admission of Cedar Rapids and Sioux City definitly removed Pueblo and Denver, Colo., which were ousted at a meeting at Cedar Rapids a week ago from consideration for franchises in the circuit.

Y. M. C. A. to Open State Basketball Meet Tonight

The annual state Y. M. C. A. basketball championship will open at the Joliet Y. M. C. A. this evening with the Englewood Y and Division street Y competing in the first game. Play will continue through Friday and Saturday. Four other Chicago teams, Austin, Irving Park, Beverly Community, and Wabash, and six down state teams have qualified. They are Aurora, Clinton, Joliet, Oak Park, Peoria, and Springfield. Peoria is defending champion and Irving Park the runner up in last year's tournament.

Joliet Junior College Five Beats North Park, 41 to 12

Beaten Quincy Fighters Are First to Leave

The first sectional championship Golden Gloves team to leave yesterday was the Quincy Herald-Whig squad. The flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight, and lightweight representatives were defeated in their second round bouts Monday. The candidates in the four heavier classes didn't go that far. The luck of the draw pitted them against the stiffest kind of opposition and they were eliminated in their first matches.

Coach George Meyer, former CHICAGO TRIBUNE heavyweight titleholder, wasn't a bit downhearted. He predicted that the Quincy team will be much more powerful in next year's Tournament of Champions.

Jay Wyatt, Big Ten football official, arrived in town yesterday afternoon by airplane from Tennessee to attend the quarter-finals at the Stadium last night. He was accompanied by Doug Tweedy.

Joe Louis, Detroit Free Press light heavyweight, who stopped Ray Wozniak, C. Y. O. champion in this class, to qualify for last night's matches, is only 18 years old. The Negro lad, who is a student at Miller High school in Detroit, has been boxing two years. He was National A. A. U. 175 pound runnerup to Max Marek at Boston last year.

Dwight Sutton, Fort Wayne, Ind., lightweight, was the only quarter-finalist to be rejected at the Stadium yesterday. Dwight was injured while whipping Lorenzo Lovings of the C. Y. O. Monday. The injuries did not respond to treatment quickly enough.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer band is the first which ever has qualified all eight boys for the third night's competition in the Tournament of Champions, it was announced by Harry Bers, clerk of weights and drawings. Johnny Papke, who fought Harry Greb, former middleweight champion, at Zanesville, O., 1924, is coach of the Cleveland troupe.

Frank Vogl, Milwaukee heavyweight, who lost to Steve Smozy of Cleveland, was worried last night, but not about the outcome of his fight. He was all upset for fear his dad would not be in town with the family automobile to drive him to their home in Janesville, Wis.

The 1928 CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves welterweight champion, Nick Fosco, was in the audience to help cheer Freddy Caserio to his third middleweight crown. Caserio sparred with Fosco while they were preparing for the 1931 tournament. Nick was eliminated, but Caserio went on to win his first Golden Gloves.

RUNYAN WINS ST. PETERSBURG OPEN WITH 141

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Paul Runyan of New York today equaled par with a 72 which he put with yesterday's 69 for a 36 hole total of 141, three under par, to carry off $200 in prize money along with the St. Petersburg open golf championship.

Bill Mehlhorn of Louisville, Ky., finished second, three strokes back of Runyan with 144. Bracketed at 145 were five other pros—Johnny Revolta of Milwaukee, Wis., with 69—76—145; Walter Hagen of Detroit, 74—71—145; Ky Laffoon of Denver, 74—71—145; Bob Shave, St. Petersburg and Cleveland, O., 72—73—145, and Harry Cooper, Chicago, 70—75—145.

Ralph Stonehouse of Indianapolis, Ind., wound up with 75—71—146 and tied Frank Walsh of Chicago, who had 69—77—146, for eighth money. Tenth prize was divided by Al Watrous of Detroit, 72—75—147; Dick Metz, Deal, N. J., 72—75—147; Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., 74—73—147, and Victory Ghezzi, Rumson, N. J., 75—72—147.

The winter golf caravan moves to Belleair tomorrow for the west coast open which will be 72 holes, 36 each day.

ten days' duration. However, there'll be some strenuous work tossed in to aid digestion. The work will not start until Monday morning.

Because he wants to provide plenty of batting practice right from the start Grimm has asked the loan of three pitchers from the Los Angeles team squad. The veteran Grover Cleveland Alexander has been on the island and if still there while the Cubs are training Grimm intends to hire him to assist in the pitching so essential to batting drill.

Three More Sox Go.

Batting, garnished by other items such as fielding, running, and plain, ordinary throwing of baseballs, will take up the first five days of practice. Then Grimm hopes the boys will be ready for some of the usual camp games between two picked squads.

Three White Sox athletes, piloted by Owner J. Louis Comiskey, rolled out on last night's Golden Gate limited for the Pasadena camp, where rookies are already at work trying to impress Manager Fonseca. The trio in care of President Comiskey was composed of George Earnshaw, Sam Jones, and Evar Swanson. The other Sox regulars will travel direct from their homes to camp and all of them will be asked to take part in a Saturday drill.

Sport Leaders Attend Rites for McGraw

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The funeral of John McGraw, the former manager of the New York Giants baseball team, was held today in St. Patrick's cathedral. It was attended by 4,000, including many old baseball players, who played under him on the teams he led to victory, and by many other persons prominent in the sporting world.

During the requiem mass the bier lay on the catafalque at the crossing of the nave. Six great tapers, mounted on candlesticks of gold, burned at the sides of the coffin, which was draped in a purple pall on which a cross of gold cloth gleamed.

In the front pew, next to the bier, sat the widow and members of her family. On the south side, in the front pew also, sat Bill Terry, the present manager of the Giants. Next to him was Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, and next to him was George M. Cohan, the actor.

The body was taken by special train to Baltimore, where it will be placed in a vault to await the final burial.

PONZI DEFEATS ERWIN RUDOLPH FOR CUE CROWN

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Andrew Ponzi, thirty year old Philadelphian, tonight captured the world's pocket billiard championship by defeating Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland in the challenge match for the title, 750 to 607.

The Pennsylvanian carried off the crown for the first time, ending three days of sensational play at the Capitol academy, as he turned back the three time champion in the sixty-fourth inning.

Despite the fact that Ponzi had an overwhelming margin of 216 points going into the final session, Rudolph, who first captured the championship by beating Ralph Greenleaf in 1927, staged a stunning rally tonight. While the challenger was only able to score 28 points, Rudolph won the block of 125 points and then continued on to close the gap to 83 points, Ponzi leading, 687 to 604.

After having 28 as a high run during the evening, Ponzi stepped to the table in the sixty-fourth inning with the score 708 to 607 in his favor and ran the necessary 43 points to clinch the championship.

Successful on his fourth attempt to win the title, Ponzi also had the distinction of setting a new high run mark of 153 during the tourney, tallying 111 on Monday evening and then adding 42 to the score when he continued play Tuesday afternoon.

Helen Jacobs Beats Dorothy Round in Kingston Tennis

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., top ranking American woman tennis player, defeated Dorothy Round, English star, 6-4, 6-1, in the final round of the international tennis tournament today. The Jamaica team of H. Dayes and Donald Leahong won the men's doubles title with a surprise victory over George M. Lott of Chicago, and Lindo, 7-5, 6-3, 1-6, 8-6.

Northwestern Pays Tribute to Coach Robinson

Three hundred Northwestern alumni and townspeople of Evanston attended a testimonial banquet in honor of Coach Tom Robinson, Purple swimming coach for 25 years, at the North Shore hotel last night.

Prof. Franklin Bliss Snyder, speaking on behalf of the faculty, paid tribute to Robinson's long career by stating that he is the greatest teacher on the Northwestern faculty. During his quarter of a century of service at the university Coach Robinson has taught 50,000 students and townspeople how to swim.

Congratulatory telegrams were received from hundreds of swimming coaches and famous swimmers from all over the country. Others who eulogized the veteran coach at last night's banquet were President Walter Dill Scott, Mayor Charles H. Bartlette of Evanston, Maj. John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Western conference, and K. L. Wilson, athletic director.

Five of the eight Northwestern swimmers who have won positions on the United States Olympic team were present. They were Harry Daniels, Dick Howell, and Ralph Breyer of the 1924 team, Wally Colbath, 1928, and Al Schwartz, 1932.

Coach Robinson was presented with a silver service set in honor of his silver anniversary. A plaque commemorating his 25 years of coaching was presented, which will be placed at the entrance to the pool in Patten gymnasium.

MAROON MAT TEAM DEFEATS PURPLE, 18 TO 16

Ed Bedrava's victory over Chilly Sutton, Wildcat full back, gave the University of Chicago wrestling team an 18 to 16 victory over Northwestern at Bartlett gymnasium last night. The Maroon star, a 165 pounder, went into the last bout of the evening, the heavyweight match, with his team three points behind. Thirty pounds lighter than his opponent, Bedrava fell into a hold that appeared to mean certain defeat, but succeeded in maneuvering a roll which pinned Sutton and gave Chicago 5 points and the meet. The Maroon team left for the east last night to meet Ohio university tomorrow and Franklin and Marshall Saturday. Summaries:

REBOLI TEAM LEADS BIKE RACE; FIELD CUT TO 12

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The six day bicycle race passed the half way mark tonight at Madison Square Garden and the contestants continued to show the same sizzling brand of riding that has characterized the grind from the start.

Henry O'Brien and Paul Croley, Irish-American combination, decided to quit when they were 12 laps behind the leaders.

Brocardo Team Starts Jam.

The pack tonight turned in one of the finest exhibitions that the present race has seen. Soon after the 9 o'clock sprints got under way the team of Paul Brocardo and Marcel Guimbretiere set out to make a secure place for themselves.

They brought about a jam that ended early when a collision that involved three riders brought about a temporary halt in the proceedings.

McNamara Team Benefits.

Although Brocardo and Guimbretiere were responsible for the jamming, they lost ground against their tenacious rivals and finally surrendered their lead. The iron man team of Reggie McNamara and Dave Lands was a large beneficiary of the inspired riding, but the lead was captured by Reboli and Severgnini.

POWER OUTPUT GAIN LARGEST SINCE AUGUST

Restrictive effects of bank closings a year ago and severe temperatures cooperated last week to increase to a considerable degree the margin maintained by electricity output over that of the like period of 1933.

Electric power output in the United States for the week ended Feb. 24, amounting to 1,646,456,000 kilowatt-hours, was 15.5 per cent above the total of 1,425,511,000 in the corresponding week of 1933. The gain was the largest since the week of Aug. 5, 1933. In the week ended Feb. 17 output, which amounted to 1,640,951,000 kilowatt-hours, exceeded by 11.6 per cent the output of the like period of last year.

Exceeds Preceding Week.

The Edison Electric institute, the source of the statistics, pointed out that last week's production surpassed the preceding week's, although Washington's birthday anniversary was more widely observed than Lincoln's.

In the Chicago district the electricity output for the week ended Feb. 24 amounted to 102,830,000 kilowatt-hours, exceeding the total of 90,230,000 in 1933 by 14.0 per cent, the best margin since the week ended Sept. 16, 1933, according to the Commonwealth Edison company's announcement. The preceding week's gain was only 4.5 per cent, and the output 99,756,000 kilowatt-hours.

"While the improvement is largely due to the increased demands of the electric transportation companies because of the unusually cold weather, our light and power business also shows a good improvement," the company announced.

Corporation Figures.

Week ended—	1934.	1933.	Per cent Increase.
Feb. 17	99,758	95,486	4.3
Feb. 3	104,900	95,020	10.4

In every one of the major territorial divisions output showed to better advantage, compared with last year's, than in the week ended Feb. 17, with the sole exception of the southern states. The grain was particularly marked in the central industrial region, where electric power production was 24.7 per cent in excess of that in the like week of 1933, compared with 15.4 in the preceding week.

1,000 WORKMEN TAKE 'HOLIDAY' AT MELLON PLANTS

New Kensington, Pa., Feb. 28.—(AP)—More than 1,000 workmen at the New Kensington, Arnold, and Logan's Ferry plants of the Mellon owned Aluminum Company of America met tonight and declared a "holiday."

This action was taken, spokesmen explained, after company officials refused to meet representatives of the workers to hear their demands. The employés are asking for "improved working conditions" and higher wages.

Delegates from company plants at Fairmont, W. Va., La Grange and Lamont, Ill., and Alcoa, Tenn., attended tonight's meeting and pledged support. About 3,000 persons, including machinists, electricians, and aluminum workers are employed at the three local plants. The workers will present their case to the regional labor board in Pittsburgh tomorrow.

ITALY REDUCES FOREIGN CREDITS 118,000,000 LIRE

Rome, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Coinciding with reports that the Bank of Italy had been disposing of its franc holdings, an official statement of the bank's commission made public today showed a drastic reduction in foreign reserve credits.

From Jan. 31 to Feb. 20, the report showed, these credits diminished approximately 118,000,000 lire, which is equivalent at the present exchange rate to about 150,000,000 francs [approximately $9,750,000].

Old Wexford Building Soon to Be Wrecked; Garage Planned

BY AL CHASE.

Still another old time loop structure has been forced into the wrecker's hands by mounting taxes. This morning a pick and shovel squad will start tearing down the four story Wexford building at the northeast corner of Wabash and Van Buren, built in 1876 and now owned by the estate of Marshall Field. When cleared the property will be used as an open air garage by the Downtown Parking Stations, Inc., which have rented the premises for five years, with a sixty day cancelation clause in the lease.

It is estimated by the Field estate that instead of having a deficit in operating the old four story building, the cleared space will yield enough revenue to pay the taxes. During 1932 the gross income from the property is reported to have been $33,000. Expenditures, however, including taxes, maintenance, etc., were $48,000, so there was a deficit of $15,000.

To Be Demolished by March 22.

A wrecking contract has been signed with W. J. Newman company which calls for completion of demolition by March 22. The Downtown Parking Stations, Inc. will then start work on an $8,000 building of extremely modern design.

The estate of Marshall Field bought the corner in 1913 for $750,000 from the Merchants Loan and Trust company, trustee for the Averell trust, subject to a twenty-five year lease for the entire property which ran from 1909 to 1934. This long term lease was originally made to Timothy F. McDermott, but later was transferred several times.

This lease caused the Field estate considerable embarrassment, for subleases were made to tenants who figured conspicuously in police news.

Buys Remaining Lease.

Mike Fritzel operated in the basement what was then one of Chicago's best known night life centers—the Friar's inn. It achieved so much notoriety with police and federal prohibition agents—being padlocked in December, 1926—that the Field estate, in 1927, bought out the remaining few years of the twenty-five year lease. Various unduly lively tenants were promptly ousted.

CORRECT ADS BIG NEED OF BANKING, SAYS G. P. KNAPP

"Banking has probably profited more from the right sort of advertising and suffered more from the wrong sort than any other business," G. Prather Knapp of Rand McNally & Co. told members of the Financial Advertisers' association at a luncheon at Mandel's yesterday. He said the reason for this is that it is far more necessary to convince the buyer of banking service that it can be trusted without a test than it is to convince the buyer of merchandise.

"Financial advertising," he said, "is an asset and a liability. It cannot be an asset if the bank that uses it carries liabilities in the form of unpopular policies, unpopular methods, unpopular services, or unpopular officials. The last few years have proved forever that the banker cannot escape publicity. It is for banking to say whether publicity shall protect its legitimate profits or jeopardize its very existence as an independent business."

Mr. Knapp discussed plans for the annual convention of the association, which will be held in Buffalo this fall. He is chairman of the convention's program committee.

MAKE OFFER TO CUT BURGLARY INSURANCE RATE

The National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters announced in a bulletin issued yesterday that members will offer a 30 per cent reduction in rates on mercantile open stock burglary insurance—goods displayed in show windows—if merchants will agree to the installation of iron screens inside the glass. The bureau consists of 41 national surety and casualty underwriters.

In the bulletin the bureau stated that the use of the screens—termed "secondary iron defense" by the underwriters—has reduced to almost none the "smash and run" type of burglary in New York City. The screens have been used there by the underwriters' clients for two years.

The bulletin stated that in offering the same reduction in rates as accorded to New York merchants, the bureau would insist upon certification of screen installations according to standards developed by bureau investigators.

COCA-COLA NET GAINS SLIGHTLY TO $8.81 A SHARE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—A small gain in earnings for 1933 was reported by Coca-Cola company with a net income of $10,838,993, compared with $10,120,672 for 1932. After allowance for dividends on the class A stock, earnings per common share amounted to $8.81, against $8.67 a share in the previous twelve months.

In the final quarter of 1933 net income totaled $2,496,708, equal to $1.99 a common share, against $3,181,494, or $2.67 a share in the preceding quarter and $1,910,118, or $1.37 a share in the last quarter of 1932.

R. W. Woodruff, president, said the acquisition early in 1933 of the entire capital stock of the Parent Bottling company which operated in nine southern states had proved a constructive step. He said "of special interest is the sustained upward sales trend which began in the middle of the year."

New Advertising Agency Is Established Here

A new general advertising agency, the Kable-Colcord company, has been formed in Chicago with offices at One North La Salle street. Organizers include H. G. Kable, president of Kable Brothers company, Mount Morris, Ill.; David H. Colcord, formerly of Reincke-Ellis-Younggreen & Finn, and David H. Colcord, Inc., and A. E. Hellman.

EARLY ADVANCE IN GRAINS LOST; CLOSE IS LOWER

Hedge Buying Bolsters Corn Prices.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Tuesday's sharp bulge in wheat apparently resulted in materially weakening the technical position, and while there was a fractional upturn early in sympathy with stocks and silver, there was no snap to the buying. Later the market developed a rather heavy undertone, dropping 1 to 1¼ cents from the top with May sinking to 86⅝ cents under steady scattered selling. The finish was within a fraction of the bottom with net losses of ⅞ to ½ cent with May at 86⅞ cents and July at 85¾ cents.

For several days liquidation has been under way in all deliveries of grain and the open interest in the nearby future has been steadily decreasing.

Hedge Buying Aids Corn.

Removal of hedges against shipping sales of 321,000 bushels of corn helped to sustain that market in the face of the decline in wheat and the finish was unchanged to ⅛ cent lower with May at 50½ cents. Oats lost ⅛ to ¾ cent, with May at 24⅝ cents. Reports that the treasury department is investigating the Polish rye situation failed to have any effect on that grain which developed independent weakness due to commission house selling and closed 1⅛ to 1¼ cents lower with May at 59⅝ cents.

Announcement that additional legislation would be sought by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from congress to increase his power over agricultural production and the movement of farm products in interstate and foreign commerce served to increase trade uncertainty.

Routine News Ignored.

Crop reports and other routine news again fell flat as a market influence. Winnipeg wheat was off ⅝ cent for the day, with export sales estimated at 500,000 bushels. Liverpool gained ⅜ to ⅝ cent, and only small deliveries on March contracts are expected in that market today.

A maximum wheat acreage of around 51,000,000 acres for the 1934 crop is apparently the aim of the AAA, according to local statisticians who analyzed the supplementary program announced by the department of agriculture late last week. The new plan calls for 85 per cent of the 1930-'32 average, minus the normal abandonment.

The acreage seeded to wheat during the base period of 1930-'32, as adjusted in the light of latest data, is 65,894,000 acres. A 15 per cent reduction from this figure would give a total of around 56,000,000 acres, while average abandonment of winter wheat if it occurs this year, would reduce the total to 51,000,000 acres, the smallest in many years with the exception of 1933 when extreme drouth and heat cut the total to 47,493,000 acres at harvest.

COLLECTIONS AND SALES REFLECT BETTER BUSINESS

Improvement in business was reflected by better collection and sales conditions during February in 112 major markets of the country, the National Association of Credit Men announced yesterday. The association's conclusion was based upon reports by member firms in banking, manufacturing, and wholesaling.

Good collections were reported by 18 cities, all in the south and west, and good sales conditions by 26, including 14 of the former. Collections were reported good in Birmingham, Ala.; Little Rock, Ark.; Boise, Idaho; Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Des Moines, Ia.; Waterloo, Ia.; St. Louis, Mo.; Billings, Mont.; Helena, Mont.; Omaha, Neb.; Charlotte, N. C.; Grank Forks, N. D.; Columbus, O.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Austin, Tex.; Houston, Tex.; San Antonio, Tex., and Richmond, Va.

All of these were among the cities reflecting good sales except Des Moines, St. Louis, Billings, and Grand Forks. There were in addition: San Diego, Cal.; Springfield, Ill.; Louisville, Ky.; Springfield, Mass.; Worcester, Mass.; Duluth, Minn.; St. Paul, Minn.; Albany, N. Y.; New York, N. Y.; Cincinnati, O.; Oklahoma City, Okla., and Charleston, S. C.

PRUDENTIAL PAYS HUGE SUMS TO POLICYHOLDERS

Newark, N. J., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Prudential Insurance Company of America, in its annual statement today, announced that payments to policy holders or their beneficiaries amounted to $1,654,729,000 "during the four troubled years from 1930 to 1933, inclusive."

Of that total, it said, more than $455,000,000—a figure equaled in only one previous year—was paid out in 1933. Premium income from 22,000,000 holders of 32,000,000 policies was $540,000,000 and total income from all sources was within 5 per cent of the 1932 figure.

New paid-for insurance during 1933, the report said, amounted to $2,049,999,413, while the company's assets at the end of the year reached a new high of $2,835,007,067, a gain of more than $61,000,000 for the year. Liabilities, including $97,593,789 of legal contingency and other special reserves, aggregated $2,763,921,818.53.

COMMODITIES INDEX SHOWS 1ST DROP THIS YEAR

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Wholesale commodity prices declined for the first time this year during the week ended Feb. 24, a drop of 0.3 per cent being recorded by the bureau of labor statistics.

Isador Lubin, commissioner of the bureau, today said that on Feb. 24 the index figure was 73.4 of the 1926 average, compared with 73.7 per cent for the week ended Feb. 17.

The decline was due largely to lower prices of farm products, foods, and hides and leather products. Wholesale prices now are nearly 23 per cent higher than a year ago.

LAWSONIA BOND REORGANIZATION PLAN IS FAILURE

Holders Are Asked to Call for Securities.

Owners of bonds against Lawsonia, the 1,000 acre estate once owned by Victor Lawson, at Green Lake, Wis., yesterday were notified by the H. O. Stone & Co. bondholders' protective committee that reorganization seems impossible and were urged to call and get back their securities. In a letter mailed to depositing bondholders it was stated that although the bonds originally were advertised as first mortgage securities, it appears that a mortgage given by the Stone interests as part of the original purchase price of the property had never been paid.

This meant, it was pointed out, that the so-called first mortgage bonds really are second mortgage bonds. This also is due to a provision in the trust deed which provided for a release for small parcels of Lawsonia from the lien of the mortgage upon payment of a specified amount.

Foreclosure Sale Ordered.

As stated in last Sunday's TRIBUNE, Lawsonia will be sold to satisfy a foreclosure judgment on March 17, 1934. If the bid at the sale exceeds the amount of the prior liens, the depositing bondholders will be entitled to their pro rata share of this excess.

The Chicago Title and Trust company has agreed to release the bonds to depositors free of depositary charges and the committee likewise has waived charges.

The committee states that out of $1,000,000 bonds issued against Lawsonia only about one-third were sold to the public and the remaining two-thirds were used as collateral for payment of loans made by H. O. Stone & Co. The committee has on deposit approximately $200,000. The Chicago Realty Finance company has acquired almost $700,000. The remainder of the original issue of $1,000,000 is in the hands of the public and not deposited.

Causes of Failure.

The letter to bondholders points out that several factors militated against the committee's efforts to find some workable reorganization plan.

"In the first place, the property has apparently always been operated at a loss, and the committee was in no position to assume any responsibility for operating deficits," the letter reads. "In the second place, the aggregate of prior indebtedness was so large that any normal subordinate position gave no promise of liquidation even over a considerable period of time.

"In the third place, the committee's representation in the situation, taking into account both the prior obligations and those on a parity, was relatively small. As a result no formulae for reorganization satisfactory to the various interests could be devised."

Lawsonia, originally the summer home of Victor Lawson, was bought several years ago by H. O. Stone & Co., who endeavored to convert it into an American Deauville. As a swanky club it failed to go over.

DENY CONSPIRACY IN RECEIVERSHIP OF TRANSIT LINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Attorneys for the receivers of the Interborough Rapid Transit company denied today in a letter sent to Senator Henry F. Ashurst, chairman of the senate committee holding hearings on the bankruptcy bill, that the company went into receivership so that a group of bankers might obtain the Manhattan Railway company "for a song."

The accusation was made by Charles Franklin, attorney for the Manhattan company, in a letter read to the committee last Friday. Mr. Franklin asserted that the I. R. T. was not insolvent at the time it went into receivership and "was and is overwhelmingly able to pay its obligations."

"Mr. Franklin brushes aside the fact that on Aug. 26, 1932, the date of the receivership, Interborough was confronted with the impending maturity Sept. 1, 1932, of $31,672,100 in 7 per cent secured notes, and the impending maturity Oct. 1, 1932, of $10,500,000 of unsecured notes," the attorneys said. Both of these issues, according to the attorneys, the company was unable to pay or refund.

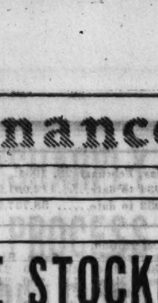
CHARGE STOCK BILL VIOLATES U. S. PRINCIPLES

Exchanges Question Constitutionality.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—Charges that the Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange regulation bill may have been written for the purpose of "indirectly establishing" a form of "nationalization of industry and business, hitherto alien to the American theory of federal government," was made before the senate banking and currency committee today by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange.



RICHARD WHITNEY

The New York exchange, said Mr. Whitney, is "no pure white lily," but it is doing everything possible to guarantee every legitimate protection within its power to the investing public.

Plans Modifications

While the senate committee was pursuing a "gloves off" policy in its hearings on the bill, the house committee on interstate commerce, before which the bill is pending, was much less severe and Representative Rayburn of Texas, its chairman, indicated that such regulatory legislation as will be passed on to the house for final action will probably provide for an administrative agency other than the federal trade commission, the enforcing agency named in the bill as it now stands.

The designation of the federal trade commission as the administrative authority is bitterly opposed by the exchanges. They are urging a supervisory authority to be named by the President, rather than a regulatory agency of any kind. Mr. Whitney told the senate committee today that under the provisions of the bill, the federal trade commission has "absolute power" to take over the management of every corporation whose issues are listed on the New York Stock exchange, as well as stock exchanges in other parts of the country.

Power Not Limited.

"And the federal trade commission," he continued, "can do this regardless of whether they are engaged in interstate commerce. These provisions are not a necessary or proper part of a law to regulate stock exchanges."

Mr. Whitney did not analyze the bill. Instead, he placed in the record a copy of the analysis he made last week when a witness before the house committee. His statement today was general in nature and most of his time in the witness chair was used up answering questions by members of the committee or Ferdinand Pecora, the committee's counsel. He insisted that if passed as written the bill would not regulate, but would, he declared, put the exchanges out of business.

Mr. Whitney asserted that there was no great difference between the Fletcher-Rayburn bill and the Volstead act for the enforcement of the liquor laws.

"Similar to Volstead Act."

"You can't stop a man from taking a drink by passing a law prohibiting it," he said, "and any attempt to regulate by statute and in minute detail the operation of security markets is just as impossible an accomplishment."

"Have you drafted a bill that will meet the situation?" Senator Fletcher asked.

"O, no, we felt that would be a presumption on our part, but we stand ready to cooperate in every possible way to work out a law that will work," replied Mr. Whitney. Whitney at this point indicated that if the bill is enacted substantially as drafted its constitutionality will be tested in the courts.

Apparently for the purpose of laying the foundation for such action, he asked that Thomas B. Gay of Richmond, Va., be permitted to review briefly the constitutional questions involved, and subsequently to submit a brief setting forth at much greater length the constitutional points involved. The request was granted and Mr. Gay repeated in large part the argument he made before the house committee last week.

Marginal requirements fixed in the bill, said Mr. Whitney, totally eliminate all margin trading and will, if enacted into law, put the exchanges out of business. He urged a more liberal and flexible provision to govern such trading.

Cities Service Plea on Oil Firm Receiverships

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28.—The Cities Service company, asserting it wished to protect its rights as the largest individual owner of securities of the Pan-American Oil company and as owner of a large amount of securities of the Richfield Oil company of California, has been granted permission to intervene in receivership litigation affecting both oil companies.

Morgenthau Against Money Board Plans

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—Two high administrative officers today prepared to frown on one monetary reform measure initiated by congress and to request from congress new powers over the nation's credit.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. will oppose tomorrow the passage of a bill which would take away the powers he now has to regulate the 59 cent dollar and turn them over to a monetary board. He will tell a subcommittee of the house banking and currency committee that the administration wants no such board at this time.

Draft Bill for Credit Banks.

Meanwhile Gov. Eugene R. Black was drafting this afternoon a bill setting up a new system of 12 government intermediate credit banks which will facilitate loans to industry. The bill is to go to the White House for President Roosevelt's approval before going to congress.

Secretary Morgenthau's opposition to the monetary board which would supplant him as arbiter of the dollar's value is believed to be based primarily on uncertainty within the administration over just what form of monetary control is ultimately to be desired. With government control over securities, stock exchanges, money, and credit still growing, the best form of control remains in doubt.

U. S. to Supply Capital.

Gov. Black's plan of establishing 12 new banks to make or discount long term loans for small industries was whipped into the shape of an actual bill this afternoon at a meeting between Black and Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the treasury department.

Capital for the new banks planned by Gov. Black is to be put up by the government. The banks would either lend directly to small businesses which need capital instead of plain bank credit or would discount such loans after they had been made by commercial banks.

Although the 12 new institutions would be administered through the federal reserve system, they would not be part of it. The plan has not yet been approved by the President and the bill now goes to the White House for his inspection.

TAKE FAVORABLE ACTION ON MANY DIVIDEND RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Dividend action favorable to shareholders of a half a dozen industrial concerns was announced today. Hercules Power company increased its quarterly dividend payment 12½ cents with a declaration of 50 cents on its common stock in place of 37½ cents declared previously. An extra dividend of 10 cents a share and the regular disbursement of 20 cents on common was declared by William Filenes Sons.

Federal Department Stores declared an extra dividend of 10 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents. In the previous quarter the company paid an extra of the same amount.

A dividend of $1.25 has been declared by the Hazel Atlas Glass company. On Jan. 2 a quarterly dividend of $1 was paid, together with an extra of $1. Six months ago a $4 annual dividend rate was established with a quarterly disbursement of $1 on Oct. 2, 1933.

American Safety Razor corporation increased the annual basis on capital stock to $4 from $3 by declaring a quarterly disbursement of $1.

WEST. MARYLAND ORDERED TO SET UP SINKING FUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—In line with President Roosevelt's idea that railroads should provide sinking funds for retirement of railroad bonds, the interstate commerce commission today ordered the Western Maryland Railway company to establish a sinking fund for payment of $1,776,000 of 5½ per cent refunding mortgage bonds.

Issuance of the securities was authorized by the commisison with the requirement of a sinking fund imposed as a condition with which the railroad must comply.

The Western Maryland, in response to inquiries of the commission, said that a sinking fund arrangement for the bonds was not necessary. Its financial condition, it said, had not been such as to enable it to maintain such a fund.

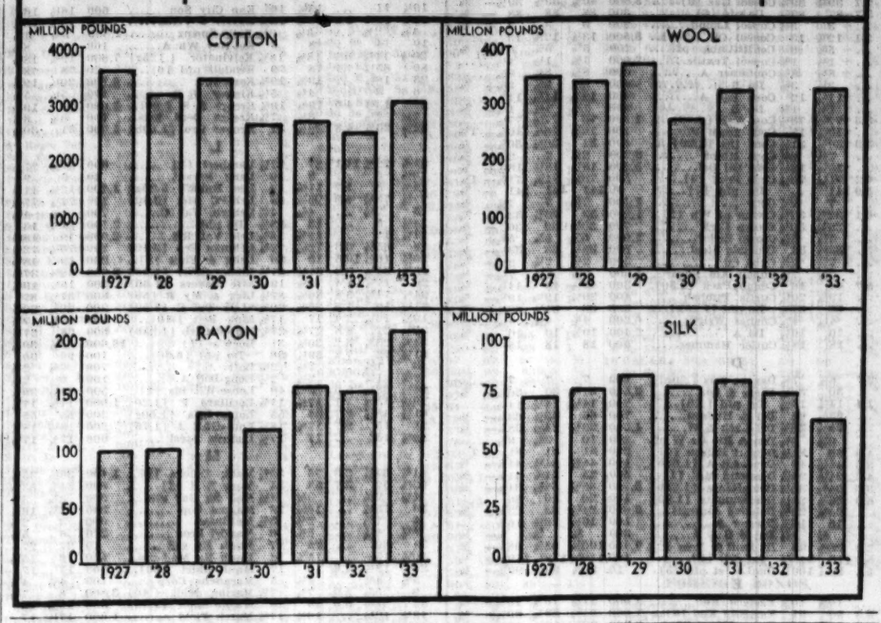
Consumption of Textiles for 7 Years Compared



Dollar Value Gains Slightly Against Franc

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—The dollar moved narrowly in foreign exchange markets today, gaining slightly here in terms of the French gold franc but closing unchanged compared with the British pound sterling.

At the close it was worth 59.61 cents based on the franc. The pound was unchanged in New York at $5.065, the franc was off 50 points at 6.5725 cents, and the Canadian dollar closed at 99.375 cents against Tuesday's close of 99.3125 cents.

Gold Price Raised in London.

The price of gold in the London open market was raised 6 pence to compensate for a lower rate for sterling with the result that the world quotation for the metal was approximately at the American equivalent of $35 an ounce after allowances for insurance and handling charges.

Meanwhile gold valued at 114,173,000 francs [$7,500,000] left Cherbourg, France, for New York, aboard the S. S. Berengaria today. Shipment of some $420,000 of gold, previously destined for the ship, was canceled at the last minute because of the unprofitable rate prevailing. Today's cargo was destined for the New York Federal Reserve bank.

American Buying Small.

A few small purchases were made in London by Americans, in contrast to Monday when, so far as could be learned, no gold was bought for American account. Today's purchases by American institutions may have been influenced by a desire to convert sterling balances into gold in view of the indications that the British exchange equalization fund had begun operations to cheapen the pound.

An additional $16,108,100 of gold imports was reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of New York, swelling to $371,347,100 the total of officially reported imports in February and making the total net gain in monetary gold for the month, exclusive of newly mined metal, $360,696,500.

AMERICAN WATER WORKS TO OFFER $15,000,000 FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—The American Water Works and Electric company will offer within the next few days, through W. C. Langley & Co., an issue of $15,000,000 of ten year 5 per cent convertible collateral trust bonds at 105. On this, the first utility bond issue to be offered since the securities act went into effect, the registration statement filed with the federal trade commission became effective today.

Holders of the outstanding 5 per cent collateral trust bonds, due April 1, 1934, will be offered the right to exchange for an equal amount of the new bonds at par. In anticipation of this privilege the maturing bonds sold as high as 118 a short time ago and closed yesterday at 109. The initial price at which the new bonds will be convertible into common stock of the company is $20 a share.

Canadian Pacific January Net Increases 174 Per Cent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Montreal, Que., Feb. 28.—Net earnings of the Canadian Pacific railway for January totaled $888,989, as compared with $323,372 in the same month of last year, an increase of $565,616, or 174 per cent. Gross earnings for the month totaled $8,970,335, as compared with $7,675,660 in January last year, a gain of $1,294,675. Operating expenses increased $729,057 to $8,081,346.

TOLEDO AUTO STRIKE SETTLED; WORKERS GET 5 PCT. BOOST IN WAGES

Toledo, O., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The strike of 3,600 workmen in four automotive parts plants here was ended tonight when the strikers in a massmeeting voted to accept a truce proposal offered by the manufacturers. The proposal was laid before the workers by Thomas Ramsay, business agent, who said it had been the result of many hours of conference between manufacturers and leaders of federated unions involved in the strike.

The agreement provides for a general 5 per cent wage increase in all four plants, additional increases through reclassification of jobs in the Spicer Manufacturing corporation plant, and special provision for raising the low class workers' minimum in the Spicer plant.

Recognition of the union in all four plants—Spicer, Electric Auto-Lite, Logan Gear and Bingham Stamping and Tool companies also was granted. Manufacturers will deal with shop committees.

Halt Activity of Edgewater Trust Today

Announcement was made last night by Arthur F. Albert, chairman of the board, and Harry F. Hamlin, chairman of the executive committee, that the Edgewater Trust and Savings bank, 5545 Broadway, will accept no more deposits and depositors were asked to come and get their money as soon as possible.

The reason ascribed for the closing of the bank was inability to carry on profitably under present conditions. This is the second bank in the Chicago district to announce its closing for a similar reason. Last Saturday officers of the Flossmoor State bank of Flossmoor requested depositors to come and get their money.

Continue Safety Deposit Vault.

"You are hereby notified that after Feb. 28, 1934, the Edgewater Trust and Savings bank will not accept any deposits and you are requested to call at the bank as soon as convenient to withdraw all moneys that you have on deposit. It is with regret that the board of directors has decided that under present conditions this bank cannot profitably conduct a general banking business.

"However, our safety deposit vault will be at your disposal for the present. It is a matter of gratification to the officers and directors of this bank that this institution has faithfully protected the depositors for the past twelve years and is now able to pay the depositors in full."

Deposits Drop Sharply.

Mr. Albert, who was formerly alderman from the 43d ward, stated that the bank has deposits of around $175,000 as compared with $1,200,000 at the peak in 1932. He asserted that the directors served without salary and that he has served without pay. He added that the stockholders after the liquidation will have the remaining equity in real estate and merchants' loans which amount to around $100,000.

The bank was opened in November, 1921.

In addition to the Flossmoor State bank other Chicago district banks which have closed and paid off depositors in full in recent years were the Mayfair State bank, 4436 Lawrence avenue, and the Peoples Trust and Savings bank, Michigan avenue and Washington street.

Public Service Senior Stock Rates Restored

Directors of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois yesterday authorized the payment of back dividends on its 6 and 7 per cent preferred shares. No action was taken on common stock dividends, which were suspended along with preferred disbursements pending completion of the capital adjustment plan which was approved this week by stockholders.

The disbursements authorized yesterday were $1.50 a share on the $6 stock and $1.75 a share on the $7 issue. Ordinarily these dividends would have been paid Feb. 1. Distribution will be made March 20 to stockholders of record March 10.

Exchange Rule Delays Payment.

This is the earliest that the record date can be set, it was explained, because the Chicago Stock exchange must be given 10 days' notice of such action.

The last payment made on the common stock was 50 cents, which was distributed Nov. 1, 1933. Public Service directors reelected all officers of the company for the coming year.

At an earlier meeting of the new board of the Commonwealth Edison company all sitting officers were reelected. The position of president, which was recently vacated by the resignation of Edward J. Doyle, was not filled. Mr. Doyle continues to serve with the company and is continuing most of his former duties.

Peoples Gas Meets Tomorrow.

The new board of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company will meet tomorrow morning, at which time officers for the new year will be named. No important changes in the present slate are looked for. George F. Mitchell, president, who retired as a director to make way for George A. Ranney, vice chairman and a senior officer, is expected to be reelected.

Call 45 City Tax Warrants, Issue 1929, for Redemption

City of Chicago corporate tax anticipation warrants, levy of 1929, numbers 1,349 to 1,394, inclusive, were called for payment as of March 6, 1934, yesterday, according to an announcement by R. B. Upham, city controler.

WEST. ELECTRIC LOSS FOR YEAR IS $13,772,504

Reflects Downturns in Wire Business.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Curtailment in activities of the communications business is reflected in the annual report of the Western Electric company—manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company—which reported yesterday that 1933 operations resulted in a loss of $13,772,504. Loss for 1932 was $12,625,972.

Edgar S. Bloom, president, in his report to stockholders, stated that during 1933 the business of the company, in common with that of other manufacturers of capital goods, continued the decline of the preceding three years. Sales amounted to $69,511,000, which is but 16.9 per cent of the volume attained in the peak year of 1929 and the lowest for any year since 1915. In 1929 volume was $410,950,000.

Apply Expense Control.

"Faced with this further decrease in the demand for its products, the company applied all possible measures of expense control," Mr. Bloom said. "Nevertheless the year's operations resulted in a loss of $13,772,504.

Mr. Bloom said that during 1933 the factories operated at an average level of 13.7 per cent of normal capacity. Starting the year at 15 per cent a low point of 12.6 per cent was reached in May. At the close of the year the ratio was 16.3 per cent.

Change Accounting Method.

He said that for many years the company, as a matter of accounting convenience, has carried for Bell system operating companies investment in stocks of used apparatus and equipment which they have removed from service and returned to the Western Electric repair shops for reconditioning. During 1933 the telephone companies decided to carry this investment and accordingly it was returned to them at book cost, $25,455,000, and this amount was not included in the company's sales for 1933. Western Electric will continue to warehouse and recondition this used material.

The lowest level of employment was reached in June, Mr. Bloom said, when there were 17,148 workers. Since that time the increase in business made it possible to reëmploy 1,300 workers of those previously laid off and on Dec. 31 there were 15,039 men and 3,407 women on the rolls—a total of 18,446 of whom 10,650 had been in service 10 years or more.

Work Spreading Aids 4,300.

The company continued its policy of spreading work which enabled the employment of an average of 4,300 workers who otherwise would have been released.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1933, stood at $94,371,280, compared with $102,597,607 at the end of 1932. Current liabilities were $11,288,305, against $10,692,657 at the end of 1932. After deducting the operating loss and $1,847,160 revaluation of marketable securities earned surplus as of Dec. 31, 1933, was $18,283,604.

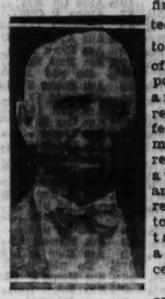
Tuscola, Ill., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—The Newman National bank has paid its first dividend to depositors, totaling 55 per cent.

Senator Gore Asks 80% Tax on Big Salaries

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Senator Gore of Oklahoma, a member of the senate finance committee, in an effort to stop payment of excessive corporation salaries and bonuses, as revealed in the federal trade commission's recent report to the senate, offered an amendment to the revenue bill today to impose a heavy tax on bonuses and salaries exceeding $75,000.



SENATOR GORE. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Under his amendment, total salaries and bonuses in this class shall be subject to an 80 per cent tax on the individual receiving such compensations and the corporation paying it shall not be allowed to deduct the amount from its cost of operation. The amendment was referred to the finance committee.

Covers Pay from All Sources.

"There shall be levied, collected and paid," the amendment said, "for each taxable year upon the amount by which the compensation [including salaries, commissions, emoluments and rewards and any other reward or bonus by whatever name known] of any individual for personal services exceeds compensation at the rate of $75,000 per year a tax of 80 per centum of such amount."

Senator Gore said that in formal talks with members of the finance committee he found no objections to his proposal and is, therefore, confident that his move to protect stockholders from the payment of high salaries and bonuses by officers of corporations will be stopped by his plan.

Says Plan is Supported.

"Since I mentioned that I would offer these checks against bonuses," he said, "I have received approval of my program, not only from members of congress, but in telegrams received from hundreds of stockholders who have received no income on their stocks while the officers of non-paying corporations lived in luxury on fat salaries and huge bonuses.

"I regard my amendment as not only necessary to protect helpless stockholders, but as a sane move to equalize taxation and increase revenues to the government."

WHITE MOTOR CO. AGREES TO BOOST WAGES OF 2,500

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Officials of the White Motor company announced late today that they intended to grant a general wage increase retroactive to Feb. 19, to 2,500 workers who had threatened to go on strike unless their demands were met.

White officials said the amount of the boost has not yet been determined and that negotiations between the management and the union workers at the plant were still in progress.

Union heads informed the Cleveland metal trade council that the wage increase will average 10 per cent.

General Household Sued for 2 Million on Contract

The Gulbransen company, 816 North Kedzie avenue, yesterday filed a damage suit for $2,207,374 against the General Household Utilities company, alleging that the latter broke a contract with the former for the construction of radio and electric refrigerator cabinets. The bill was filed in the Superior court.

Activity Best Since Last August.

Heavier demand for steel from a wide range of relatively small consumers reinforced business from the automotive industry and the railroads last week, and operations rose from 44½ to 47 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since last August, reports Iron Age. Manufacturers of road machinery, farm equipment, electric refrigerators, radios and stoves are in a greater measure contributing to improvement in the industry.

Production of raw steel expanded in five centers and held steady in four. It rose one point to 28 per cent at Pittsburgh, 2 to 29 in the Philadelphia district, 2 to 67 at Cleveland, 5 to 55 in the valleys, and 6 to 49 at Buffalo. The rate was unchanged for Detroit at 77, for the Wheeling district at 80 and for the south at 50. Mills at Chicago, where the rate has been maintained at 44½, have been forced to draw upon St. Louis for supplies of heavy melting steel scrap, which is locally scarce.

Weather, Labor Retard Activity.

"The only reactionary influences are severe weather conditions, which have held back building operations, and sporadic labor difficulties, especially among automotive plants," remarks Iron Age.

With retail orders for automobiles surpassing 60 days' capacity output and running in the largest volume since 1929, the unabated automotive demand for steel is pressing sheet and strip producers to the limit. Some mills are actually refusing business in finished sheets and enameling stock, because their capacity for the grades is booked until the end of the quarter, reports Iron Age.

At the same time releases by the Pennsylvania railroad against its purchase of 75,000 tons for car construction, as well as against its orders for electrification work, are starting to reach the mills. Specifications for the 175,000 tons for the Van Sweringen cars should be ready late this week or early next week, according to the review, while an early decision is expected on 105,000 tons of rails required by the Baltimore & Ohio, the Erie, and the New York Central railroads.

Pressure from the automobile industry continues to have an effect on steel prices, Iron Age reports, and there have recently been some reductions.

General Rise Forestalled.

"This retreat in the face of the automobile industry's guns may prove to have been merely temporary," the review states, "but it has apparently forestalled any general advances in sheet and strip prices which might affect second quarter tonnage. If higher prices are now filed consumers will probably be given 10 days to cover for the quarter and thus only spot orders will be affected by the advances."

Iron Age doubts whether the steel industry will benefit very materially from government financed building projects before May or June. Fabricated steel lettings were only 6,700 tons last week, compared with 14,925 in the preceding week.

In practically all producing centers prices of scrap have strengthened. Because of increases at Chicago and Pittsburgh the review's composite has risen from $12.25 to $12.75 a gross ton, the highest since October, 1930.

STOCKS SUFFER FRESH RELAPSE IN FINAL HOUR

Control Plan Continues Bearish Factor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Stocks suffered a fresh relapse in the final hour of today's market session after prices had been marked up from a fraction to 2 points in many departments. Disappointment over the failure of the list to carry through on the rally and some further concern over the exchange control move in congress were blamed for the setback.

Most brokers were not at all sanguine over the proposed modifications of the Fletcher-Rayburn bill, and some of them took a discouraged view of the future of the security business so long as such restrictions as the 60 per cent margin on speculative accounts is left in the measure.

Commitments Limited.

As the day to day sales total shows, the so-called rank and file of the market fraternity is awaiting definite action on this all-important problem. Brokerage house comment indicates that a fair proportion of traders has no intention of changing commitments on stock operations until they can form some reasonable opinion of where things are going. Today's turnover amounted to only about 1,320,000 shares. That of yesterday was even smaller, at 1,270,000, and it has been a rare day since the bill was introduced when the total exceeded the two million mark.

Reports of growing labor unrest in the automotive industry added to the considerations tending to hold bullish enthusiasm in check today. Midweek trade news was otherwise encouraging, however, showing further gains in industry here and there.

Silvers Rise Early.

Until the last hour chill struck the market today silvers were showing the way forward with something of the same aggressive promise that marked their corner of operations yesterday. United States Smelting had advanced three points—about the same gain it recorded in the previous session—and American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, and other issues of the group had fallen in behind the leader with alacrity. The close, however, found virtually all the improvement erased, with some of the early gains replaced with losses.

The rest of the list closed irregularly. A majority of the industrial leaders and the more active rails, like Atchison, New York Central, Lackawanna, and Delaware and Hudson, finished on the "off" side of the column. Union Pacific held a two point gain through to the close, however.

AUSTRIAN SEES HOPE FOR BETTER TRADE WITH U. S.

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Austrian trade commission, after conferences with President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, is "favorably impressed" with the possibility of expanding Austria's exports to the United States, Dr. Otto Bohler, chairman, said today.

Asserting that Austria imports four times as much American goods as the United States receives from the European nation, Dr. Bohler expressed the hope that reciprocal agreements could eventually be negotiated.

He said, a new commission—with power to make contracts—would follow his body to the United States and stay for a longer period of time if a satisfactory trade balance arrangement can be made. Among the new products Austria desires to introduce to America are its wines and cordials.

NORTH AMERICAN SHARE NET FOR '33 EQUALS $1.22

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—A review of the business of the North American company and its subsidiaries for 1933 "presents a two-sided picture," James F. Fogarty, president, says in his annual report.

"Earnings failed to increase despite improvement in electric output, being affected by the slowness of business recovery and the fact that such increases as occurred were principally in demand for low priced industrial power," Mr. Fogarty says.

Net income amounted to $11,561,702 after all deductions, equal after preferred dividends to $1.22 a share earned on the common stock, comparing with $16,415,751, or $2.01 a share, earned in 1932.

J. C. PENNEY NET TRIPLES; EQUALS $5.51 LAST YEAR

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Net earnings of the J. C. Penney company after all charges and taxes for 1933 totaled $14,235,638, equal, after preferred dividends, to $5.51 a common share. This compares with net earnings in 1932 of $5,082,672, or $1.57 a common share, after preferred dividends.

Total sales for the year were $178,773,965 compared with $155,271,981 in 1932, a gain of more than 15 per cent. Number of stores in operation as of Dec. 31 1,466, compared with 1,473 a year ago.

The company had cash on hand amounting to $8,999,646. Current assets bore a ratio to current liabilities of about 7 to 1.

SILVER FUTURES

Silver futures advanced sharply in the early trading yesterday, with a maximum upturn of around .60c. Liberal profit taking developed later, however, especially in the early deliveries, and the close was at net gains of .06 to .22c. Foreign bar silver was up ⅝ to 46⅝c per ounce, or only ⅝c under the best figure since January, 1930. Sales of futures aggregated 347 lots, or 8,575,000 ounces. March closed at 46.55c; April, 46.80c; May, 47.01@47.08c; July, 47.50@47.55c; September, 48@48.05c; October, 48.27c, and December, 48.77c. COTTON CLOSES STEADY IN IRREGULAR TRADING

Cotton was fairly supported on weak spots and ran into selling on bulges yesterday. Trading was fairly active, especially in May, which had a range of 20 points, and closed only slightly above the bottom.

Chicago closed 2 points net lower to 3 points higher, other markets were 2 points lower to 8 points higher. Spots were unchanged at all points, New York being 12.15 cents, New Orleans 11.95 cents, Houston and Galveston 12 cents.

Liquidation in May and July contracts by commission houses was a feature in the trading for a time, but there was good domestic and foreign buying.

Export clearances on Tuesday were 45,551 bales, largely to Great Britain and the Orient. A year ago exports were 18,730 bales. Prices:

LARD PRICES HOLD FIRM DESPITE DECLINE IN HOGS

A stronger undertone prevailed in the lard market yesterday despite the decline in hogs. Trading was fair and range of prices moderate, with the close 2½c lower to 2½ cents net higher. Bellies closed 7½ to 15 cents higher. Cash lard was $6.50, the same as on Tuesday, while loose advanced 2½ cents to $6.00, and leaf dropped 12½ cents to a level of $6.12½.

Cash interests were said to be the best buyers of futures, and reported a fair business. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Cotton goods were firm and moderately active today in the combed goods division of fine cloths. Flannels are very well sold ahead and are scarce for quick delivery. Deliveries are still delayed by storm conditions. Buying interest is increasing in heavy woolens for fall. Rayon sales in the acetate division have increased since price revisions were made. Burlaps were firm and quiet. Cutters show a disposition to turn to silk goods for spring due to slow deliveries of other lines.

HOGS DIP SHARPLY AS NEW PROCESS TAXES ARE LEVIED

Cattle and Lambs Hit Fresh 1934 Peaks.

The heavy processing tax on hogs was blamed for the sharp break in prices yesterday and the sluggish condition of the market for the comparatively small receipts offered. As prices fell word arrived that the government is again anticipating entering buying orders for the relief corporation account to offset the bearish influence of the tax, as was done early in February.

Declines of 10 to 25 cents were noted in hogs weighing over 200 pounds, while lighter weights in many instances sold off 35 to 50 cents. The latter are 75 cents to $1 under the high point of Monday, when packers were buying freely to escape the increase in the tax rate scheduled for today.

Late Demand Tapers Off.

As all hogs slaughtered yesterday came under the $1.50 tax rate, those who needed hogs were ready buyers during the forenoon, but most of the packing houses had enough from receipts earlier in the week to keep their gangs going all day and buyers were careful not to overrun their orders. Consequently, after these purchases had been made trade turned stagnant.

In the face of the deplorable condition of the hog market as a result of the tax load, cattle and lambs bounded upward to new highs for the year. Top cattle rose to $7.50, within 10 cents of the highest mark in the trade in fourteen months. The bulk of beef steers are selling 60 to 80 cents higher than a year ago, the biggest advance being in the medium and heavy steers which were recently neglected.

Prime Steers Top at $7.

Prime 1,447 pound steers at $7 made a new top for these weights and were comparable to the kinds selling down around $5 to $5.25 last December. Near the close of last year many "overdone" steers weighing 1,600 to 1,800 pounds, were draggy at $3.50 and under.

Fancy 973 to 1,133 pound yearlings to Swift at $7.50 established the new top yesterday. Butcher stock ruled strong to 15 cents higher. Canner cows being sought for the account of the relief corporation shared in the general recovery, going up 15 to 25 cents. Calves were strong to 25 cents higher.

A small lot of 25 hand picked lambs averaging 88 pounds to a South Bend, Ind., city butcher buyer sold at $10.35 yesterday, making a new 2½ year high mark in the lamb trade and the highest February peak in four years. Not enough sold at this figure to warrant quotations for full carloads that high. The best price paid for full loads remained at $10.10, but a larger share of the receipts sold at this figure and wooled stock weighing up to 97 pounds, to packers, brought the price.

SENATE APPROVES USE OF U. S. BONDS AS NOTE BACKING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The senate today passed and sent to the house the Fletcher bill extending for one year from March 3 the time in which federal reserve banks may use United States bonds as security for federal reserve notes.

The bill had been reported unanimously by the banking committee and Senator Glass [Dem., Va.] called it up immediately the senate met.

The committee also approved a bill to require publication of condition reports of state member banks of the federal reserve system.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Feb. 28.—The Boston wool market was quiet and prices remained unchanged in the absence of sufficient business to test quotations. Some Ohio ¼ blood fleeces were being sold around 47c a pound in the grease, but the aggregate of these and other sales were small.

Notice to Bondholders and All Others Having Claims Against The:

CHICAGO JOINT STOCK LAND BANK, OF CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

FORMERLY FIRST JOINT STOCK LAND BANK OF CHICAGO, OF CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

WHEREAS, on the first day of October, 1932, by order of the Federal Farm Loan Board under and in pursuance of the provisions of Section 29 of the Federal Farm Loan Act, as amended, the Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank, of Chicago, Illinois, was declared insolvent and placed in the hands of a receiver appointed therefor by the Federal Farm Loan Board; and

WHEREAS, John B. Gallagher is now duly qualified and acting as such Receiver; and

WHEREAS, the corporate name and title of the First Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago was by authority of an order of the Federal Farm Loan Board dated August 1, 1922, changed to the corporate name and title of the Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank; and

WHEREAS, the Receiver has been authorized and instructed by the Land Bank Commissioner to give all bondholders and other creditors notice to file their claims as hereinafter set forth,

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank, formerly First Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago, Chicago, Illinois, including all owners of bonds issued by said bank, shall present their claims thereon to John B. Gallagher, Receiver of Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank, Chicago, Illinois. All claims, including those of bondholders, to share in the general assets of the bank must be filed with the Receiver on or before the 31st day of August, 1934, or they may be disallowed.

Bondholders in proving their claims must deliver their bonds to the Receiver. Forms for the delivery of bonds and proof of claims may be obtained from the Receiver. In requesting forms, the bondholder should state whether he holds registered bonds or coupon bonds or both and the number of each class owned. Special request should be made for forms for the delivery of unpaid coupons maturing prior to Oct. 1, 1932.

Dated March 1, 1934.

JOHN B. GALLAGHER, Receiver,
of Chicago, Illinois.

Edison Company Granted Ten Continuances.

Although it is twenty months since the Illinois Supreme court handed down a decision holding that the Commonwealth Edison company's practice of lamp renewal charges was illegal and excessive, the Illinois commerce commission has not yet brought to a conclusion hearings to decide the amounts of the rate reductions and refunds as directed by the high court.

Meantime the Edison company is still continuing to levy the rates which the court held unlawfully included the lamp charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—The listed bond market failed to develop a really definite trend today. Domestic railroad bonds worked irregularly lower and industrial and utility issues higher. Leading foreign loans were slightly improved on the day, while United States government long term issues were irregularly lower.

The volume of trading in the listed bond market was a little higher than that of the previous day, amounting to nearly $14,000,000.

Swings Not Large.

The major price swings for domestic corporation bonds did not amount to more than a point or two. As a rule the lows for the day were established in the late trading, coinciding with the weakness at that time in the share market.

Trading in foreign bonds was dull. Gains of a point or more were scored by French government loans and by a few of the German issues. United Kingdom 5½s, due 1937, moved up 1¼ points, but the 4s, due 1990, receded fractionally.

East Indies Loans Lower.

Dutch East Indies loans were generally lower on the day, as were bonds of the Austrian government and Belgian government issues. The Scandinavian issues were steady in quiet dealings. Latin-American loans were irregularly higher.

Domestic bonds on the curb exchange showed a better degree of strength than did similar issues on the big board. Gains in these issues on the curb ranged up to 3 points. Foreign loans were irregularly higher in light trading, with German issues again showing the best strength.

Phoenix Mutual Life.

Investors' Guide: Any information you can give me on Phoenix Mutual Life will be appreciated.—M. G.

Answer: Starting as a stock company in 1851, Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company, Hartford, Conn., was converted into a mutual company in 1889.

Insurance in force, after showing healthy increases for many years, felt the effects of conditions and showed substantial decreases in 1933 and 1932. On Dec. 31, 1933, it totaled $582,991,000, against $615,038,000 the year before and $638,866,000 at the close of 1931. On Dec. 31, 1930, insurance in force aggregated $623,567,000, against $294,349,000 at the close of 1920.

Despite the falling off of insurance in force the company's liquid position has been maintained without having to borrow money or sell securities in order to meet claims.

On Dec. 31, 1933, admitted assets amounted to $169,051,000, up about $3,000,000 from the year before. Cash and United States government bonds alone were $10,437,000, or 6.18 per cent of assets. Obligations of other governmental bodies totaled $6,981,000, or 4.13 per cent of assets; of railroads, $16,441,000 or 9.73 per cent; public utilities, $21,519,000, or 12.73 per cent [none in default]; stocks, $4,757,000, or 2.81 per cent; policy loans, $32,413,000, or 19.17 per cent; farm mortgages, $24,083,000, or 14¼ per cent; city mortgages, $25,965,000, or 15.36 per cent, and real estate, $16,886,000, or 9.98 per cent, against $11,527,000 the year before.

Liability to policy holders totaled $159,039,000. A contingency reserve of $1,819,000 to adjust book values of stocks and defaulted bonds to market prices has been set up. Surplus to policy holders, after deduction of this contingency reserve, was $4,822,000.

Income in 1933 was $35,308,000 and disbursements were $30,370,000.

FDIC Control

Investors' Guide: Is the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation which guarantees the bank deposits up to $2,500 controlled by the United States government or is it a private concern? —S. E. N.

Answer: The management of Federal Deposit Insurance corporation is vested in a board of directors consisting of the controler of the currency and two other members appointed by the president with the advice and consent of the senate.

Consolidated Film.

Investors' Guide: Several years ago I purchased 150 shares of Consolidated Film preferred which was then on a dividend basis. Will you kindly advise if this issue is cumulative?—B. S. F.

Answer: It is.
